JANUARY, 1899.

No. 1.

REPORT FOR DECEMBER, 1898.

During the month of December, 1898, there were received at the Library by purchase 1,019 books and 242 pamphlets, and by gift 731 books and 2,024 pamphlets.

There were catalogued 3,516 volumes and 2,830 pamphlets, for which purpose 22,694 cards and 1,993 slips for the printer were written.

The following table shows the number of readers and the number of volumes consulted in both the Astor and Lenox branches of the Library during the month:

	LENOX.	ASTOR.
Total number of readers.....	2,451	8,230
Daily average of readers.....	95	316
Number of volumes consulted.....	6,081	28,185

The accessions to the Library during the month of December include some very important items, amongst others, a gift of 220 volumes of rare Americana from Mr. Maitland (more than half of them being printed before 1550), a list of which is given in this bulletin;—a volume of transcripts from the Spanish archives at Simancas, presented by Mr. George L. Rives; a collection consisting of 48 volumes of music, and 151 volumes and over 200 newspapers relating to Socialism, from Mr. F. A. Sorge; 19 volumes, including an old Spanish manuscript biography, from Mr. Avery; and 47 volumes and 56 pamphlets, chiefly Journals of Conventions, from seven Dioceses of the Episcopal Church. Mr. James Henry Coghill, of this city, has also given to the library a rare volume entitled Peintures Antiques de Vases Grecs de la collection de Sir John Coghill, Bart., par James Millingen, printed at Rome in 1817.

By purchase the Library has received a copy of the Specula of Vincentius

Bellovacensis, eight volumes bound in six, printed in 1473, being the copy from the library of William Morris. This, the first general cyclopædia printed, is noteworthy as a specimen of early typography and is now extremely rare. The Library has also obtained some early American newspapers, books and documents, purchased at the Miller sale in Philadelphia, a full list of which is printed this month.

During the six months ending December 31st, 1898, the total number of books catalogued and accessioned was 15,082, and of pamphlets, 11,055, as against 14,124 volumes and 11,472 pamphlets during the same period of 1897. The total number of cards made for the catalogue was 127,210, and 6,752 slips were written for the printer.

The total number of readers was 50,113, the daily average being 321, and the number of volumes used 177,783, as against 47,880 readers, an average of 314, and 158,749 volumes in the last six months of 1897.

During the calendar year ending December 31st, 1898, the total number of volumes catalogued and accessioned was 32,835, of which 20,506 were purchases and 12,329 gifts; while the number of volumes actually received was 25,917, of which 15,252 volumes were purchases and 10,665 were gifts. The total number of pamphlets catalogued and accessioned was 21,074, of which 5,984 were purchases and 15,090 gifts; and the number of pamphlets actually received was 33,196, of which 4,196 were purchases and 29,000 were gifts. The total number of cards written during the year was 266,411.

The total number of cards in the index catalogue at the close of the year in the Astor branch was 308,649—68,649 having been added since the first of July—and at the Lenox branch, 97,100.

The total number of readers during the year was 106,098, and the number of volumes consulted was 357,827, not including those used at the free reference shelves.

On the 31st of December, 1898, there were on the shelves and available for the use of the public 440,148 volumes and 111,055 pamphlets.

THE LIBRARY OF HON. SAMUEL J. TILDEN.

In 1887, the year following Mr. Tilden's death, a shelf inventory was prepared and printed of the books, pamphlets, periodicals, prints, etc., belonging to the estate, at Gramercy Park, in New York City. This inventory contained a record of the principal works in a collection of nearly 20,000 volumes and pamphlets, which were intended to form the nucleus of a free library to be established in New York City in accordance with the terms of Mr. Tilden's will. The litigation which followed led to a compromise agreement between Mr. Tilden's executors and the Tilden Trust on the one hand, and one of the contestants on the other, by which in 1892 the Tilden Trust came into possession of certain properties, including Mr. Tilden's entire library, books, manuscripts, prints, engravings, pictures and statuary. The consolidation of the Tilden Trust with the Astor and Lenox Libraries, to form the New York Public Library, Astor, Lenox and Tilden Foundations, took place in May, 1895, and in July of the same year the Tilden books were transferred from the house at Gramercy Park to the library building at Fifth Avenue and Seventieth Street, where they were arranged and made available for public use. It is the object of this sketch to indicate briefly some of the chief features of the collection.

Mr. Tilden's law library is not included among the books that were transferred to the New York Public Library. There are, however, small collections relating to jurisprudence, law and lawyers, celebrated trials, railroads, political economy, taxation, finance, banks and banking, exchanges and panics, currency and money. Among the serials are the Railroad Journal, 1854-84, in 33 volumes; the Commercial and Financial Chronicle, 1865-86, in 42 volumes; the United States Economist, 1852-54, in 4 volumes; the Economist, 1857-85, in 25 volumes; the Examiner, 1838-51, in 14 volumes; and the Internal Revenue Record, 1865-80, in 27 volumes.

A collection of about two hundred and twenty-five scarce tracts relating to banking and currency in England is worthy of notice. It begins with treatises on bank credit, printed in 1683; and includes publications of 1694-96 on clipping, coin and script money; on the Land Bank and the Bank of England in 1706-07; on loans in 1710; on the great want of silver in 1717; an essay on coin, 1758; on paper credit in 1760; on money, bullion and foreign exchanges in 1772; on gold coin in 1774; on the revenue and finances of the kingdom in 1781-1800; on gold bullion, bank notes, and the depreciation of currency in 1810-12; on savings banks and the new currency in 1816-17; on the proposed change of currency for Scotland in 1826; and on currency, joint stock banks, etc., from 1825 to 1850.

In English political history there is a good collection, as well as of publications relating to English parties and administrations, to the parliament and constitution, to English social life and antiquities, and to biography in general. There are also over one hundred volumes of speeches of eminent statesmen, and a set of Cobbett's Parliamentary History and Hansard's Parliamentary Debates, in 123 volumes. European history and antiquities, both ancient and modern, are well represented, including a full series of illustrated books of scenery, and over fifteen hundred photographs of views.

American history is of course a strong feature of the library. It includes fine sets of Hakluyt's Voyages, 1599-1600, in 3 volumes; Purchas's Pilgrimes, 1625-26, in 5 volumes; Smith's History of New York, 1757; and many other valuable books. Among the travels in the United States are the large illustrated work of Maximilian, Catlin's North American Indian Portfolio, and the explorations of Carver, Heriot, Lewis and Clarke, Pike, Long, and others. There are also the chief publications relating to the various administrations and political parties of the United States; to Congress and Congressional affairs; and to political and constitutional conventions, especially those of New York State. Mr. Tilden kept bound files of the principal New York City newspapers, each volume of which has his name stamped on the side. These files include the New York Herald, 1846-86, in 115 volumes; the New York World, 1860-86, in 103 volumes; the New York Times, 1865-86, in 83 volumes; the New York Tribune, 1867-86, in 76 volumes; and the New York Sun, 1870-86, in 65 volumes.

One section of the library is devoted to literature and the drama, including poetry, fiction and essays. Among the uncommon books in this section are the first three editions of Milton's Paradise Lost, 1667-78, and the first three folio editions of Shakespeare, 1623, 1632 and 1664; also Ashbee's facsimile reprints of Shakespeare's Quarto Plays, 1866-71, in 44 volumes, and Boydell's Illustrations of Shakespeare's Plays, 1803, in elephant folio. There is also a collection of biographies of famous actors, illustrated by the insertion of numerous portraits, prints and autograph letters, among which are Bernard's Retrospection of the Stage, in 2 volumes; Bunn's The Stage, before and behind the Curtain, in 3 volumes; Boaden's Life of Kemble, in 6 volumes, with 338 portraits and autographs added; the lives of Garrick, Kean, Mrs. Inchbald, Michael Kelly, Charles Mathews and Mrs. Siddons; and many others of a similar character. One volume on Actors and Editors is illustrated by the insertion of choice theatrical portraits, mostly proof impressions, collected by Sir Charles Price, Bt.

The Tilden library contains a fine collection of illustrated works in large folio relating to natural history, ornithology, botany and gardening, among them being Low's Breeds of Domestic Animals of the British Isles, in 2 volumes; Audubon and Bachman's Viviparous Quadrupeds of America, in 3 volumes; Couch's History of the Fishes of the British Islands, in 4 volumes; Audubon's Birds of America, in 4 volumes; Wilson and Bonaparte's American Ornithology, in 3 volumes; Cassin's Illustrations of the Birds of California, etc.; Bree's History of the Birds of Europe, in 4 volumes; Morris's History of British Birds, and Natural History of their Nests and Eggs, in 9 volumes; Morris's History of British Butterflies; Redouté's Les Roses, in 3 volumes; Lindley's Pomologia Britannica, in 3 volumes; Eaton's Ferns of North America, in 2 volumes; Sprague and Goodale's Wild Flowers of America; Strutt's Silva Britannica; Lowe's Ferns, British and Exotic, in 8 volumes; Loudon's Arboretum and Fruticetum Britannicum, in 8 volumes; Brookshaw's Pomona Britannica; Grindon's Trees of Old England; Sweet's Ornamental Flower Garden, in 4 volumes; Meehan's Native Flowers and Ferns of the United States, in 4 volumes; Michaud and Nuttall's North American Sylva, in 5 volumes; Brooke's Gardens of England; Mangin's Les Jardins; Repton's Landscape Gardening; and Andre's L'Art des Jardins.

The fine art department of the library is unusually large and valuable. It comprises the dictionaries of painting by Bryan, Spooner, and Pilkington—the latter being extended to 4 volumes by the insertion of numerous prints; the works on painting by Winckelman, Raczyński, Waagen, Kugler, Lanzi, Vasari, Hamerton, Ruskin, Walpole, and many others; the works on sculpture by Flaxman, Perkins, Lubke, Perry and Macpherson; the publications of the Society of French Aquarellists; Hamerton's Portfolio, 1870-77; the Art Journal, 1849-80; l'Art, 1872-84; and l'Eau Forte, 1874-81. Among the more important of the illustrated folios are the works of Meissonier, Wouverman and Rembrandt; reproductions of Kaulbach's Original Drawings; Les Loges de Raphael, 1845; Raphael's Pictures of the Transfiguration, 1833; Pistolesi's Il Vaticano descritto ed illustrato, 1829-38, in 8 volumes; Righetti's Il Campidoglio descritto, 1833-36, in 2 volumes; Warrington's History of Stained Glass, 1848; Aya Sofia at Constantinople, as restored by Sultan Medjid, 1852; Tableaux Historiques de la Revolution Française, 1788, in 3 volumes; Raoul and Rochette's Choix de Peintures de Pompei, 1867; Roberts's Illustrations of the Holy Land, 1852, in 4 volumes; Alphand's Les Promenades de Paris, in 2 volumes; Turner's Picturesque Views on the Southern Coast of England, 1826; Coesvelt's Collection of Pictures, 1836; Bourassé's La Touraine, 1856; Taylor's Voyage dans l'Ancienne France, in 27 volumes; Nash's Mansions of England in the Olden Time, 1874; Perrault's Hommes Illustrés en France, 1676-1700;

Barrie's Art Treasures of America; Artistic Houses, in 10 sections; the Vanderbilt Houses, in 4 volumes; and Cozzen's American Yachts, in atlas portfolio of 27 water color prints, with volume of descriptive text, 1884.

Of illustrated publications in large size relating to antiquities there are the great works of Piranesi, in 23 atlas folio volumes, and of Canina, in 16 imperial folio volumes; Layard's Monuments of Nineveh, in 2 volumes; Wood's Palmyra and Balbec, 1827; Murphy's Arabian Antiquities of Spain; Billings's Antiquities of Scotland, in 4 volumes; the Iconographia Simbolica of Pistrucci, 1819, in 2 volumes; Eckhel's Choix des Pierres Gravées, 1788; the Trésor de Numismatique et de Glyptique, 1835, in 9 volumes; and Loubat's Medallic History of the United States, 1872, in 2 volumes. There are also the works of Owen Jones, Racinet, and Shaw on Polychromatic Ornament; of Meyrick and Skelton on Ancient Armour; of Hope, McLan, Planché, Strutt, Shaw and Racinet on Costumes and Dress; Bridgen's Furniture with Candelabra; Lacroix and Seré's Moyen Age et la Renaissance, 1848-51, in 5 volumes; and the English translation, 1878; Hangard-Mauge's Les Arts Somp-tuaires, 1858, in 4 volumes; and Labarte's Arts Industriels au Moyen Age.

The series of Art Galleries in large folio is very full, comprising the Real Museo Borbonico, in 16 volumes; the Munich Gallery; the Berlin Gallery; the Dresden Gallery; the Galerie du Musée Napoléon, in 10 volumes; the Musée Royal, in 2 volumes; the Musée Français, in 4 volumes; the Dusseldorf Galerie; the Galerie du Luxembourg; the Florence Gallery, 1789, in 4 volumes; the Galerie du Palais Pitti, 1843, in 4 volumes; the Orleans Gallery, 1808, in 2 volumes; Gavard's Galeries Historiques de Versailles, in 19 volumes; Armengaud's Galeries Publiques de l'Europe; the Stafford Gallery, 1818, in 4 volumes; the Turner Gallery, 1812; the National Gallery; the British Gallery; and the Houghton Gallery, 1788, in 2 volumes.

The library also contains an extraordinary collection of Gillray's Caricatures, covering the whole period of his artistic work, from 1777 to 1811, mounted and arranged in eight thick imperial folio volumes, and bound in full morocco. Three of the volumes comprise the artist's political caricatures, from 1777 to 1802; four volumes embrace miscellaneous engravings and caricatures; and one volume is largely taken up with Gillray's original crayon drawings and pen-and-ink sketches. There is also a collection of Hogarth's early engravings, extended to three large volumes; a collection of engravings by George Cruikshank, mounted and bound in six volumes; and a large volume of caricatures, 1770-1784, from the library of Horace Walpole. Among the collections of portraits are the works of Birch, Lodge, Caulfield, and others; and a fine series of portraits of the Lord Chancellors and Lord Chief Justices of England, in a folio volume.

Besides the extra-illustrated books already mentioned, which have been extended by the insertion of portraits, engravings and autograph letters, there are the following:—Sir Walter Scott's Waverley Novels, the "Abbotsford edition," 1842-46, extended from 12 volumes to 35 volumes, by the insertion of nearly 4000 illustrations, and bound in blue levant morocco, full gilt; Moore's Life and Letters of Byron, in 4 volumes, with upwards of 450 engravings added; Bray's Life of Stothard, in 3 volumes, with 193 extra plates; Thornbury's Life of J. M. W. Turner, in 2 volumes, with 45 extra illustrations; Parton's Benjamin Franklin, extended to 4 volumes; Ticknor's Life of Prescott, extended to 3 volumes; Boswell's Life of Johnson, extended to 6 volumes; Macaulay's Life and Works, in 10 volumes, with 369 extra plates added; Horace Walpole's Biography, Table-Talk, etc., extended to 5 large volumes; Milton's Poetical Works, 1794, extended to 8 large quarto volumes; Butler's Hudibras, extended to 6 large volumes, with 192 plates; Thomson's Seasons, 1797, in folio, with 122 extra plates; Keysler's Travels through Germany, Bohemia, Hungary, etc., extended to 8 large folio volumes; Duyckinck's Cyclopædia of American Literature, in 5 volumes, with 300 added illustrations; and many others. A copy of Cromwelliana, 1810, is extended to 5 folio volumes, with 771 portraits, views, etc. A volume called the Milton Memorial has inserted in it the original proclamation of Charles II, dated August 16, 1660, suppressing two of Milton's books.

A volume of special interest is the History of the Tammany Society, from its foundation in 1789 to 1840, by R. G. Horton. The book has been extra illustrated by a number of water-color drawings of New York buildings in the olden time, the frontispiece being a view of old Tammany Hall (now the Sun building). There are also colored drawings of the Old Jail, of the Old Bridewell, of the City Tavern, of Baker's Museum, of the Old Brick Church, and of Harlem Plains in 1814, besides many engraved views and portraits. The binding is an elaborate piece of work, being in full crimson morocco, inlaid with mosaic in blue morocco, the inside covers in polished blue morocco, with gilt borders, finely tooled.

About forty-five years ago Mr. Tilden was counsel for Azariah C. Flagg, in his contested election as comptroller of the city of New York. Mr. Flagg had been prominent in State affairs, and he had preserved his correspondence with Silas Wright, W. L. Marcy, Michael Hoffman, R. H. Walworth, and others, relating to New York affairs, political and financial, from 1821 to 1847. These manuscripts are now in the library, bound in 8 quarto volumes. The most valuable manuscript in Mr. Tilden's collection, however, is the account-book or financial diary, kept by Thomas Jefferson from January 1, 1791, to December 28, 1803, while he was Secretary of State under Washington, Vice President under John Adams, and President of the United States. A description of this important volume is given in Harper's Magazine for March, 1885, pp. 534-542.

After Mr. Tilden was nominated for the Presidency in 1876, many of his admirers sent him gifts. Among these gifts there are two that may be mentioned here. One is a framed portrait of Mr. Tilden, inscribed: "Gov. Samuel J. Tilden of New York, National Democratic Candidate for President of the United States. This Picture contains Eighty Chapters of the Psalms of King David." Every line of the picture, including the border and group of flags above, is composed of minute Hebrew letters. The other gift is a small volume in Hebrew containing a topographical description of Zion and Jerusalem, printed at Jerusalem in 1876. On the fly leaf is the following inscription: "By request of the author A. M. Lunz of Jerusalem (Holy Land) Presented to His Honor Samuel J. Tilden Esqr. President elect of the U. States of America, and may the God of Israel bless the receiver, grant him many years of peace and happiness in the true fear of God is the true wish of his sincere friends and welwishers, Alfred A. and Kate Marcus and family, Tebeth 17, 5637."

EARLY BOOKS, MOSTLY RELATING TO AMERICA.

Presented to the New York Public Library by Alexander Maitland.

Cortes (Hernando). Copia delle lettere del prefetto della India la nuoua Spagna detta, alla Cesarea Maesta rescritte. Alla Sereniss. & Catho. Maesta Cesarea. [Florence?] 1534. (2) l. 4°.

Not mentioned by HARRISSE. One of the first publications relating to Pizarro and the conquest of Peru. There is another copy of this edition (HARRISSE 193) in the library, the same in every respect, except that it omits the date MDXXXIII and the Con gratia, & Priuilegio which appear at the end in this copy. The library also possesses an octavo edition of the same letter, [Florence? 1534?] in 4 ll., dated at the end "Data di XVI Magio M.D.XXXIII. Il Prefetto della India."

Cortes (Martin). The Arte of Navigation . . . First written in Spanish by Martin Curtis, and translated into English by Richard Eden . . . Corrected and augmented by John Tap. London: Edw. Allde for H. Astley, 1596. 5 pl., 90 l. 4°.

Cosmographiae introductio cum quibusdam geometriae ac astronomiae principiis ad eandem necessariis. Insuper quatuor Americi Vespucii navigationes. Vniuersalis Cosmographiae descriptio tam in solido quam plano eis etiam insertis quae Ptholomæo ignota a nuperis reperta sunt. Ad dominum Robertetum . . . [Lyons:] Impressa per Johānem de la Place [1517?]. (32) l., of which 8 l. (sheets C and E) are lacking, 1 map, 2 pl. 4°.

HARRISSE 63. The map and plates, which were engraved on copper, have been removed from the volume and are mounted separately. The first plate, $6\frac{3}{4} \times 7\frac{3}{4}$ in. in size, is called Astrolabium physicum and shows within a circular figure the various divisions of the heavens, etc.

The second plate, about $6\frac{3}{8} \times 7\frac{3}{4}$ in., bears at the top: motus . noue . spere . et . trepidacionis . octave . spere . 1514 ., and below, the following verses:

*Adte candentis terre diademate fultum
Robertet nostre mittitur artis opus
Inuenies istic cursus quos sidera seruent
Zodiaci: fixos quid ve planeta iuuat
Noua ualet sphaera quid: coelum quod ferat orbes Hinc lune ac phebi per sua signa giros uale*

Artificio Ludouici Boulengier Allebie 1514

This plate shows the four quarters of the winds, the twelve signs of the zodiac, and a general aspect of the heavens.

The third plate, about 14×7 in., consists of a map in the form of gores ready either to be cut and mounted as a globe, or, as the surrounding border would indicate, to be used flat. It is called vniversalis cosmographie descriptio tam in solido quam plano. In the place of the new world appears a long triangular shaped island accompanied by smaller islands and called America nouiter reperta. The map is the oldest one in the library containing the name America.

This book, with the map and two plates, was first brought to notice by the Paris bookseller Tross in 1887, in whose catalogue it is described, no. 4924, with a fac-simile of the gore map. The date of its publication is fixed by D'Avezac in his Waltzemüller, p. 123, and by HARRISSE in his Discovery of North America, pp. 494-496. See also Winsor's Narrative and Critical History, vol. 2, pp. 120, 172-173.

Another copy of the book, complete in 32 leaves, is also in the library.

Maps. [Map of the world in twelve gores, each $1\frac{1}{8} \times 11$ in., on two sheets of paper, each about $14 \times 11\frac{1}{2}$ in., printed from a wood block. Nuremberg? 1523-1540?] In portfolio.

A line encircling the globe, and marked Hoc navigationes itinere egressi and Hoc itinere reversi sunt, would seem to mark the path of Magellan's circumnavigation (1519-22); the outlines of the gulf of Mexico are shown clearly and the Florida peninsula is named La Florida; on the southern American continent appear C. S. Crucis and Brasilis terra; and in the east Indies the position of the Moluccas is given accurately. Dr. Wieser, Henry Stevens, and Mr. Coote have set forth the claim that this is the globe made by Johann Schöner in 1523 for the bishop of Bamberg, as an introduction to which he wrote his little tract De nuper sub Castiliae ac Portugaliae Regibus Serenissimus repertis Insulis, etc., Timiripæ, 1523. Mr. Harrisse, in his Discovery of North America, pp. 519-528, disproves this theory; and Nordenskiöld, in his Facsimile Atlas, assigns this map to the fourth or fifth decade of the century.

Maps. Typvs vniversalis terrae, iuxta modernorum distinctionem et extensionem per regna et provincias. [Map of the world on paper, $11\frac{3}{8} \times 5\frac{1}{8}$ inches, from a wood block.] [Basle, 1535.] In portfolio.

From the Basle, 1535, edition of Reisch's Margarita philosophica.

Maps. [Two globes, one terrestrial, the other celestial, each in twelve gores, each gore $\frac{7}{8} \times 5\frac{3}{4}$ inches, on a single sheet of paper about $12\frac{1}{2} \times 15\frac{3}{4}$ inches, printed from a wood block.] [n. p.] Faciebat Franciscus Demongenet anno 1552. In portfolio.

North America is called hyspania maior; the eastern coast is fairly well defined and ends in a peninsula named baccalea. The northern coast then swings sharply to the west; opposite Mexico is the legend H. Nova a F: Cortesio bis deuicta; the southern continent is called America; on it are marked the regions of the Canibales, bresilia, and where domus tota auro hic inueta.

NEW YORK BROADSIDES, 1762-1779.

The New York broadsides here catalogued were part of a collection originally brought together by Gerard Bancker, who served New York, province and state, as assistant clerk of the house of representatives, as deputy treasurer under Peter Van Brugh Livingston during the revolution, and as state treasurer from 1789 to 1798. The broadsides remained in the Bancker family until they were sold by auction for the estate of the late James E. Bancker, in Philadelphia, March 25, 1898, at which sale they were dispersed. The following eighty-six broadsides, comprising about three-fifths of the collection sold, came afterwards into the possession of the New York Public Library.

JANUARY.

New York, City. The Committee appointed by the Inhabitants of the City of New-York, on Wednesday the 29th of December last, to consider of the Expediency of entering into Measures to encourage Industry and Frugality, and employ the Poor, Do report, [Recommending the use of linen made by the Society for Arts, the use of divers home made articles, retrenchment after June 1 next in expensive wearing apparel and useless expence at funerals, discouragement of the importation of negro slaves, restriction in the use of various imported articles, the signing of the Form of the Subscription-Roll suggested therewith, and the appointment of a committee of seven to carry into effect the recommendations,] . . . [New York, January, 1768.] 2 pp. F°. Broadside.

The place of the meeting at which this committee was appointed was probably Bolton and Sigell's inn (later Fraunces' tavern, still standing at the corner of Broad and Pearl Streets) for it was here that the later meetings were held; the time of the meeting was probably Wednesday, Dec. 30, for on Tuesday, Dec. 29, a meeting of "The principal Knot, of the Friendly Brothers of St. Patrick, in the XVIth Regiment of Foot" was announced for Bolton and Sigell's, and it seems unlikely that two meetings would be held in the tavern on the same evening. The report of the committee was to have been presented on Jan. 25, but the meeting called for that evening was adjourned to Feb. 2 on account of the bad weather. For the notification for this latter meeting see the entry in this list under Feb. 2. The various notices are to be found in Gaine's Mercury for Dec. 21, 1767, Jan. 18, 25, and Feb. 1, 1768.

FEBRUARY.

New York, City. New-York, February 2, 1768. This Evening, at Six o'Clock, at the Exchange Room, The Committee to whom it was referred, by a Metting of the Inhabitants of this City, to consider of Means to promote Frugality, Industry, and the Employment of our Tradesmen and Poor, will make their Report. It is hoped there will be a full Meeting of the Inhabitants, to receive the same, that their Sentiments may be known on Matters of such Importance to the Community. [New York, 1768.] 1 page. 4°.

"On Tuesday the 2d Instant, at a full Meeting of the Inhabitants of this City, the Report of the Committee appointed to consider Means for promoting Frugality, Industry, and employ our Tradesmen and Poor, was delivered, approved of, and Directions given for carrying the same into execution."—Gaine's Mercury, Feb. 8, 1768, no 849.

THE ELECTION OF 1768.

Merchant's Hall. The sincere Friends to the Trade and Prosperity of the City of New-York, present their good Wishes to the reputable Tradesmen and other Electors; and hope they will join Heart and Hand to hinder a Lawyer being chosen to represent this Commercial City:—Let all true Friends to Trade declare their Minds freely and they may depend on being protected from any Oppression, that any Lawyer shall dare to attempt.—We will remember your good Offices with warm Gratitude; and it's requested that no Man will vote for a Lawyer, unless he prefers the Craft of the Law, to the Business of the Merchants, and the Welfare of their Friends. [New York: John Holt, February? 1768.] 1 page. 24°.

Word (A) of Advice.

Beware my good Friends of the Wolf's griping Paw,
And the Man who will rob, under Sanction of Law;
Nor trust your dear Rights in the Hands of a Knave.
Who will sell them for Gold, and your persons enslave.—

Consider before-Hand, mark well his Intent,
Or you'll find it—perhaps when too late to repent.

Word (A) of Advice.

Mark well the Barretor [sic]! replete with Pride,
 Who daily strives the People to misguide,
 Religion prostitutes, for basest Ends,
 And sows Dissention, twixt the dearest Friends;
 He could tamely see his country's wrongs,
 And brand with Treason, Liberty's brave Sons;
 Who basely strove with more than common Pains
 To banish Freedom, and to fix our Chains.
 Mark well this Rule, by Heav'nly Wisdom plan'd,
 "That a divided House can never stand."
 Firmly united, you may brave each Fiend,
 But if divided, Freedom's at an End;
 As direful Mischiefs do from discord flow,
 Unite in Time, against this common Foe,
 Convince the Wretch that all his Arts are vain,
 That his vile Purpose he shall ne'er obtain,
 This once prevent him, in his enterprise,
 He'll fall like Lucifer, no more to rise.

To the Freeholders and Freemen of the City of New-York: Gentlemen, On reading Mr. Parker's Paper of the 15th Inst. Articles 1, 2, 3, 4, 8, and 10, of the Political Creed are answered specifically, and articles 5, 6, 7, and 9, are dismissed as unworthy notice, and sufficiently contemptible in the eyes of all good men. THE ELECTION OF 1769.

Anecdote (An), Recommended to the Friends. It is an old Observation, that the People readily suspect others of those Crimes and Designs, which they find most prevalent in Themselves. [An anecdote of the success of the Presbyterians in New Jersey in opposing a Friend that was a candidate for the assembly, by preaching that the Quakers held opinions unfavorable to religion.] . . . The Independents take as much Pains now to traduce the Church, as they did then to asperse the Friends,—probably for the like Reasons.—It is absurd to suppose, that the Security of religious Liberty, is the Reason of their Efforts to gain a Majority in the Assembly; and it is equally absurd, to suppose that Men who thus wantonly sport with Religion, making it a cloak for the most unchristian Designs, should be worthy of public Confidence, or disinterested Guardians of our Rights and Property. [New York, January, 1769.] 1 page. F°.

The Misrepresentation about abandoning one of the old Members [Philip Livingston] is too well known to require an Answer.—He not only said, that he would not join either Party, but that he declined serving at all.—Let those be reproached with Ingratitude, who persuaded him to that Declaration. Honestus, pseud. An Anecdote of a certain Candidate for the ensuing Election. Happening to be at Newark, when he first heard that Mr. J—y. [James Jauncey], was acquitted of the Crime laid to his Charge—he shrugged up his shoulders, and said, That from the Disposition himself had observed in the H—s of A—y, (or Words to that Effect) the Event did not in the least surprise him; on the contrary, it was no more than [sic] what he expected; but at another Election, the dissenting Congregations would put up four Dissenters against four Churchmen. . . . Nor do I believe that a certain turbulent, restless, ambitious Candidate, would have been satisfied with the Nomination of four Members, out of his own Meeting-House; or even with Four Angels from Heaven, (if that could possibly be) unless his own dear, important, all-sufficient Self could have been One of them.—Nor will I ever believe, that any Man, would make so many, vain, idle, desperate Attempts, and that at a great Expense, to serve the Public—for Nothing; especially one, who is of a Profession not apt to undervalue their Services. One of the political sheets got out for the election to the assembly, held in New York City, Jan. 23-27, 1769. It is an attack upon John Morin Scott, and upon the sincerity of the dissenters in their proposition to nominate two of the candidates for assembly, the Episcopalians to nominate the other two. The "Crime laid to his Charge" refers to a charge of corruption in his election to the assembly, brought against James Jauncey by John Morin Scott on Oct. 29, 1768. Jauncey was declared not guilty on Dec. 16, 1768, but a motion moved by James De Lancey that the charge be declared "frivolous, vexatious, and litigious" was negatived by the assembly by a vote of eighteen to three.

Wonderful (A) Dream. The following Dream, &c. Publish'd near 20 Years ago, is now re-printed by particular Desire. [New York, 1769?] 2 pp. F°.

Near the top of the first page is written in a contemporary hand "Mercury 134 1755 [1775 changed to 1755] March 3 By B. Nicoll," referring to the issue of Hugh Gaine's Mercury in which the Dream was first published. It consists of a short introductory letter to Mr. Gaine, March 3, relating a dream that had been impressed upon the mind of the writer by reading the dream in The Watch Tower, no. 11 which was published in Gaine's Mercury for Feb. 3, 1755, no. 130; his dream was to the effect that a second revolution had taken place in England, independency had been established, revenues of bishops invested in the new clergy, the act of toleration repealed, Presbytery and independency declared to be synonymous terms, New York under this government for four years, and Connecticut united with it; following this is an article purporting to consist of the issue of The New York Gazette for May 20, 1775, relating the constant struggles between the Episcopalians and Presbyterians. The article was called forth first by the party struggles between the various religious sects at the time of the founding of King's college, 1754-56; it was reprinted probably as a campaign document for the elections to the assembly, held in New York city, Jan. 23-27, 1769.

JUNE?

Freeholder of Liliput (A), pseud. (Number II.) A Letter to the Majority of the General Assembly of Liliput. Gentlemen, You may possibly expect that the subject of my last should be continued in this letter. That the extensive mis-chiefs of your late order should be more fully explained, and the irregularity of that measure more clearly manifested;—but against this you are secured by the number of your misconducts. . . Go on then with spirit in the course you begun: no precedent can be wanting from past transactions, for each violation of constitutional rights. A Freeholder of Liliput. [New York, 1769?] 1 page. F°.

An attack upon the New York assembly for its action in the matter of regulating elections of representatives in general assembly, published probably in June. On April 26, 1769 on a question of contested election between John DeLancey and Lewis Morris for the borough of Westchester, the house resolved that non-resident freeholders have a right to vote for representatives to serve in general assembly, whereupon Mr. DeLancey for the purpose of embodying the resolution in the form of an act moved for, and received, leave to bring in a bill to alter and amend the act of May 8, 1699. The bill was presented Apr. 28, amended and ordered engrossed on May 17, passed on the 18th, and assented to by the governor on May 20. The letter of Moore to Hillsborough, May 26, 1769, criticises it as absurd.—N. Y. Col. Docs., vol. 8. p. 167. It was repealed by the king, June 6, 1770.

DECEMBER.

Son of Liberty (A), pseud. of Alexander McDougall. To the Betrayed Inhabitants of the City and Colony of New-York. In a Day when the Minions of Tyranny and Despotism in the Mother Country, and the Colonies, are indefatigable in laying every snare that their malvevolent [sic] and corrupt Hearts can suggest, to enslave a free People; [an open letter attacking the grant of money by the assembly for the support of the troops; suggesting a meeting in the Fields on Monday, Dec. 18, and thence proceeding in a body to the members to insist upon their joining the minority in opposition to the bill.] . . . Let the Ntoification [sic] to call the People, be so expressed, that whoever absents himself, will be considered as agreeing to what may be done by such as shall meet.—And that you may succeed, is the unfeigned Desire of, A Son of Liberty New York, Dec. 16, 1769. [New York: James Parker, 1769]. 2 pp. F°.

The above hand-bill was declared by the assembly, Dec. 19, to be "a false, seditious, and infamous libel"; the governor issued a proclamation, Dec. 20, offering a reward of £100 for the discovery of the author. The meeting had been held, however, on the 18th and resolves adopted declaratory of their disapproval of the action of the assembly, and a committee of ten appointed to communicate the transactions to the members; eight of the committee did so on the 19th. John Lamb who had presided at the meeting on Dec. 18 was charged by John DeNoyellis on Dec. 20 with being an abettor to the above hand-bill and to another signed Legion; hereupon seven of the members of the committee came out in a letter, Dec. 20, avowing themselves parties to Lamb in the meeting on the 18th, and on the following day Lamb was dismissed. An account of the proceedings and the proclamations of the governor are to be found in Gaine's Gazette, for Dec. 25, 1769. In February James Parker acknowledged that he had printed the hand-bill and that Alexander McDougall was the author. For McDougall's narrative of the proceedings against him, see Holt's New-York Journal for Jan. 24 and 31, 1771, nos. 1464, 1465.

It is the story of a cobbler of Messina that undertook to reform by a short Gun, a Powder Pouch, and a Bag of Balls, the disorders under which his country labored; it would be well for ministers that have acquired a boundless authority if they would ask themselves frequently, "What if the Cobler of Messina should arrive?"

JANUARY

Brutus, pseud. To the Public. Whoever seriously considers the impoverished state of this City; especially of many of the poor Inhabitants of it, must be greatly surprised at the Conduct of such of them as employ the Soldiers, when there are a Number of the former that want employment to support their distressed Families. . . . All the Friends to Liberty that incline to bear a Testimony against a literal compliance with the Mutiny Act, (otherwise called the Billeting Act) are desired to meet at Liberty-Pole, at Twelve o'Clock, on Wednesday next, which will be on the 17th Instant, where the whole Matter shall be communicated to them. Brutus. New-York, January 15th, 1770. [New York, 1770.] 1 page. F°.

This broadside, though dated Jan. 15, really appeared on the following day; and its appearance at this time was the event that induced the soldiers to complete the destruction of the liberty pole on that night.—Pennsylvania Gazette, February 15, 1770, no 2147. The meeting of citizens held on Jan. 17 was answered on the 19th by the broadside signed Sixteenth regiment of foot. Out of these troubles grew the affair of Golden Hill.

Sixteenth regiment of foot.

God and a Soldier all Men doth adore,
In time of War, and not before;
When the War is over, and all things righted,
God is forgotten, and the soldier slighted.

Whereas an uncommon and riotous disturbance prevails throughout this city by some of its inhabitants, who stile themselves the S—s of L——, but rather may more properly be called real enemies to society: [An attack upon the Sons of Liberty; declaring Brutus a seditious libel, expressive of most villainous falsehoods against the soldiers; defying the citizens.] . . . Signed by the 16th Regiment of Foot. [New York, January 19, 1770]. 1 page. F°.

The Liberty Pole that had been set up in 1766 in the Commons in commemoration of the repeal of the stamp act, had been destroyed several times by the soldiers, and as often restored by the Sons of Liberty. An attempt by the soldiers on Saturday evening, Jan. 13, 1770, proved unsuccessful; in discomfiture they attacked the neighboring tavern of La Montanye, broke the glass and windows, insulted the company, and beat the waiter. Attempts were made on the following nights, and culminated in the destruction of the pole on Jan. 16. On that same day a hand-bill signed, and dated the 15th, had been circulated, calling for a meeting of the citizens on Jan. 17. This meeting was answered by the appearance of the above broadside on Friday, Jan. 19. Out of these troubles grew the affair of Golden Hill. A full account of the disturbances by An Impartial Citizen, dated Jan. 31, is published in Parker's Gazette for Feb. 5, and is re-printed as a supplement to the Pennsylvania Gazette, Feb. 15, 1770, no. 2147.

FEBRUARY?

Freeholder of Liliput (A), pseud. (Number III.) A Letter to the Majority of the General Assembly of Liliput. Gentlemen, Though a free people may for a while submit to the injustice of their rulers, yet there is a time when they will awake from their lethargy, when the spirit of party will subside, and personal attachment be lost in their concern for the general welfare. . . Tho' the people may sometimes be ruled by the Vicious, yet the government of Fools is always insupportable. A Freeholder of Liliput. [New York, February? 1770?] 1 page. F°.

An attack upon the action of the assembly as absurd and unconstitutional; referring to various acts for regulating elections by ballot, for disqualifying, and for disabling members of assembly, which were brought up in the session begun Nov. 21, 1769 and ended Jan. 27, 1770.

MARCH?

Merchant (A), pseud. The Times, Mankind is highly concerned to support that, wherein their own Safety is concerned, and to destroy those Arts by which their ruin is consulted. [New York, March? 1770.] 4 pp. 4°.

It attributes to the schemes of ambitious politicians the discontent at the grant of money for the troops, the agitation about the balloting scheme, and the infamous, inflammatory piece, signed Brutus; it suggests further that the disorders are due to the struggles between a certain ambitious lawyer and the commercial interests which would keep the former out of the house.

MAY.

Dying (The) Speech Of the Effigy of a wretched Importer, which was exalted upon a Gibbet, and afterwards [sic] committed to the Flames, at New York, May 10, 1770. [New York, May, 1770.] 1 page. 12°.

On Thursday May 10, 1770, Nathaniel Rogers, a Boston merchant who had refused to come into the non-importation agreement, was on a visit to New York; because of a suspicion that his object was to induce New York merchants to break the agreement he was hanged in effigy upon a gallows, with labels upon the back and breast expressive of his crime; the spectators, some thousand in numbers, after parading the streets went to his lodgings, but not finding him there, they returned to the Commons and burned the effigy. About midnight they made a second visit to his lodgings, and again not finding him, left a letter signed "The Sons of Liberty," which was soon forwarded to him. Upon the receipt of the letter he sent his servant for his baggage and left for Boston at two o'clock in the morning. For an account of the proceedings and the text of the letter see Parker's Gazette, Monday, May 14, 1770, or Hugh Gaine's Mercury of the same date.

Brutus, pseud. To the Free and Loyal Inhabitants of the City and Colony of New-York. Friends, fellow Citizens, fellow Countrymen, and fellow Freemen, Nothing can be more flagrantly wrong than the Assertion of some of our mercantile Dons, that the Mechanics have no right to give their Sentiments about the Importation of British Commodities. . . In fine, let the patriotic Merchants, the respectable Body of Mechanics, and the virtuous of all other Ranks, conspire,—let them, I say, conspire, as it were with an oath, to brand with public Infamy, and public Punishment, the Miscreants who, while the odious Power of Taxation by parliamentary Authority, is in one single Instance exercised, even dare to speak in Favour of the least Infraction of the Non-Importation-Agreement, and who like accursed Villians,—would owe their Greatness to their Country's Ruin. O! ye Betrayers of the glorious Cause, remember the Boston Importer, Rogers, I say, remember him and tremble, Brutus. [New York, after May 10, 1770.] 1 page. F°.

Livingston (Robert R.) Speech of Mr. Justice Livingstone, Made on Friday the 25th of January, In Support Of His Claim to a Seat in the House of The General Assembly. [New York: Printed by Hugh Gaine? 1771.] 4 pp. F°.

On May 17, 1769, the house had resolved "That no judge of the supreme court shall, for the future, have a seat or vote as a member of this house;" it was because of this resolution that Livingston appeared to assert his right to a seat in the house, on Jan. 25, 1771; he had appeared before on November 24, and on Dec. 21, 1769, and he made subsequent trials on Feb. 5, 1772, and on Jan. 26, 1774, all alike unsuccessful.

Some of the typographical ornaments on page 1 are used in Gaine's Mercury for this period, and apparently do not appear in any of the other New York newspapers.

Free and Independent Elector (A), pseud. The Sentiments of a Free and Independent Elector, on the Resolution of the House of Assembly, for excluding Judges of the Supreme Court. The Determination of the House of Assembly Yesterday, on their Vote of Exclusion of Judges of the Supreme Court, has induced me to submit to the Public the following Considerations upon that Subject . . . To conclude, . . . The Conduct of our Assembly in the Case under Consideration, is directly the reverse, and appears to me to be not only founded on Power conformable to Precedents, but such as will probably be productive of the happiest consequences to the Liberties of the People. A Free and Independent Elector. New York, January 26th, 1771. [New York: Hugh Gainé? 1771.] 4 pp. F°.

An answer to R. R. Livingston's Speech, of Jan. 25. It is printed also in Gainé's Mercury, for Feb. 5, 1771, no. 1009.

Aristides, pseud. To John Cruger, James Jauncey, James DeLancey, and Jacob Walton, Esqrs.; The Representatives in General Assembly, for the City and County of New York. Gentlemen, The Author of this Letter bespeaks a moment of your attention; and wishes to be regarded, only in proportion to the importance of the subject, upon which you are addressed. [A letter maintaining that there is no need of an increase in the number of representatives as a counterbalance against the northern counties; that it is the jealousy of the southern counties that New York has most to fear.] ... Be it your study then to assert the rights of commerce, to expand its wings, to advance, not the aims of us, men or party, but the general felicity of the colony; and above all things, to restore concord to a town too long gulled and abused by faction, and to deliver the poor citizens of this metropolis, from the grievous burden under which they groan. Aristides. [New York, 1772?] 1 page. F°.

JANUARY.

Brutus, pseud. Important Doubts very interesting to the good People of this Colony, to be determined on Thursday next, by the General Assembly. To the Public. You may remember that in the late general election for Representatives to serve in General Assembly, Col. Lewis Morris and Mr. John De Lancey, were competitors for the representation of the Borough of West-Chester. [Lewis Morris and Philip Livingstone were unseated because of non-residence at the time of their election; the same rule should apply to John De Lancey who has become a non-resident since his election.] ... Brutus. Tuesday, the 14th day of January, 1772. [New York, 1772.] 2 pp. F°.

John De Lancey was unseated January 16, 1772.

New York, City.—Mayor. New York, 18th January, 1772. To the Inhabitants of the City of New York. Considering the extreme Danger of storing Gunpowder in this City, which must be manifest to every thinking Person; and that the Practice is in direct Violation of a Law of the Corporation, it is truly astonishing that any should be so far regardless of their own safety, as well as that of their Fellow Citizens, as to expose both to such imminent Hazard. ... Should any Persons, not duly impressed with a Sense of the Danger arising from such Practices, have any Powder stored in the City, I must beseech them forthwith to remove it, and thereby prevent the perilous Consequences to which, in the meantime, he exposes his Fellow Citizens. Whitehead Hicks, Mayor. [New York, 1772.] 1 page. F°.

The proclamation was called forth by the fact that a large quantity of gunpowder had been stored near a building that caught fire on Thursday, Jan. 16. The building belonged to John Burns, and stood on the wharf fronting the east side of Coenties's dock, between the stores of Mr. Theodore Van Wyck and Messrs. Ten Eyk and Seaman.—Gainé's Mercury, Jan. 20, 1772, no. 1056.

Melancholy (The) Case of Mrs. Ackerman. Copy of a Letter from a Dutch Farmer, in the County of Orange, to a Gentleman of the Law, in the City of New-York. [New York, January, 1772.] 1 page. 4°.

A satire in the form of a letter from Arie Ackerman, Tappan, de 27 Januariae 1772, and the answer from Z. W., New-York, January 29, upon an order adopted by the general assembly, Jan. 25, in the case of a lease of ejectment, served by James Jackson, on the demise of William Bayard, plaintiff, against John Stiles, Hendrick Oblinus, tenant in possession, holding under John De Noyellis, a member of assembly, the lands mentioned in the said lease of ejectment; the order was to the effect that the judges of the supreme court be acquainted that a member of assembly is entitled to privilege both in his person and estate, during the sitting of the house, and that the proceedings should be stayed during the session.

Debates On dividing Orange County. [New York, 1774.] 1 page. F°.

A burlesque report of the proceedings in committee of the whole, Crean Brush in the chair; a Dutch dialect speech of J—n D N—s, Esq., i. e. John De Noyellis, member from Orange, is given in full, in favor of the bill; other speeches are summarized. On Jan. 14, 1774, De Noyellis received leave to bring in a bill to divide Orange county into two counties; the bill was brought in and read the first time on Jan. 18; the second reading and commitment to committee of the whole came on Jan. 28; numerous petitions for and against it were received between the latter date and Feb. 22, when the committee reported and the bill was ordered engrossed; it was rejected however, by a vote of 14 to 12, on the day following, Wednesday, February 23, 1774.

MARCH.

To the Freemen and Freeholders Of The City and County of New-York. Friends and Fellow-Citizens, From the prudence of your councils, and the wisdom of your determinations, you have heretofore deservedly acquired the approbation of the wise and prudent. [A letter adducing six reasons, adopted at a meeting of citizens on Friday, March 3, at the house of the widow De La Montaigne, in support of postponing until April 20 the appointing of delegates to the continental congress; calling a meeting for Monday morning, March 6, to adopt resolutions to that effect.] . . . Agricola, pseud. To The Inhabitants of the City and County of New-York. Gentlemen, It is an invidious task to be employed in detecting and exposing the many falsehoods and absurdities, contained in the numerous publications that daily infest this city; two of which are now before me; one of them signed Alexander McDougall, the other a Moderate Man. [Accusing McDougall of duplicity and an itching for popularity; ridiculing the proposition of A Moderate Man that those members of the committee of fifty-one that had withdrawn, resume their seats.] . . . New-York, July 12, 1774. Agricola. [New York, 1774.] 1 page. F°.

Citizen (A), pseud. To John M. S----- [Scott], Esq; Sir, It was not from any Respect which is due to your Character, or dread of your much talked of Abilities, that would have induced me so long to remain silent; [Adverse criticism of his speech at the coffee-house on Tuesday, July 19, and of the resolve there adopted.] . . . A Citizen. New-York, July 23, 1774. [Followed by an address] To the Inhabitants of the City and County of New-York [supporting as delegates Isaac Low, John Alsop, John Jay, Philip Livingston, and James Duane; urging their support at the meeting on Monday; signed by] A Son of Liberty. [New York, 1774.] 2 pp. 4°.

At the meeting on Monday, July 25, at the City Hall, no action was taken except to send out as a hand-bill Henry Remsen's resolves calling for a poll on Thursday, the 28th; at this election the above named five were chosen.

Honest American (An), pseud. To the respectable Public. Have a good End in view, and pursue it. [A plea for immediate election of delegates to the congress; whether one set of resolves is adopted, or the other, is of little consequence; two methods of voting suggested; all parties should be reconciled.] . . . New York, July 25, 1774. Extract of a Letter from London, by Way of Philadelphia, to a Gentleman in this City. "The unhappy Disputes which at present subsist between Great Britain and America, fill our Minds with melancholy reflections, . . . We are credibly informed here, that General Gage told Lord North, that he knew many Persons of Consequence in New York, who could easily be brought over to sell their Privileges for a Pension from the Crown, . . . "We are informed here that it is the Purpose of Lord North, to offer one of your Printers, Five Hundred Pounds, as an Inducement to undertake and promote Ministerial Measures." . . . The Friends of Liberty, are therefore desired vigilantly to observe who are those Persons . . . and what Printer appears to promote Ministerial Measures, and endeavours to suppress Exertions in Favour of the Liberties of this Country. Snuffle (Ebenezer), pseud. At a Meeting of the True Sons of Liberty, in the City of New-York, July 27, 1774, Properly convened; Present, John Calvin, John Knox, Roger Rumpus, &c. &c. &c. . . By Order of the Meeting, Ebenezer Snuffle, Secretary. [New York, 1774.] 1 page. F°.

Fifteen resolves ridiculing the calling of a general congress, the non-importation agreements, and the proceedings of the committees of correspondence in general.

SEPTEMBER.

New York, City.—Committee of correspondence. Committee Chamber, Sept. 30, 1774, 6 o'Clock, P.M. It was resolved unanimously, That the following Narrative of the Proceedings of the Committee, be published, . . . By Order of the Committee. Henry Remsen, Chairman. [New York, 1774.] 1 page. F°.

It gives the text of the petition of Sept. 29 for a meeting at the City Hall on Sept. 30, the notification of the committee to that effect, and the resolutions adopted upon that occasion condemning the action of the Committee from the Body of the Inhabitants of the City.

New York, City.—Committee of correspondence. To the respectable Body of Gentlemen nominated by the publick Voice as a Committee, for managing the Affairs of the Inhabitants of this City, in the present Exigency of our publick Concerns. [Petition that the committee of correspondence would declare its disapproval of the action of the Committee from the Body of the Inhabitants of this City.] . . . Signed by the unanimous Desire of the Assembly, Joseph Totten, President. New-York, September 29, 1774, New-York, September 30, 1774. Being assembled in Committee, to consider the Requisition contained in the preceding Address . . . We give this public Notice, That . . . we shall attend at the City-Hall, at one o'Clock this Day . . . Signed by Order of the Committee, Henry Remsen, Chairman. [New York, 1774.] 1 page. 4°.

The above petition and notification, together with a report of the meeting thus called, are printed in Gaine's Mercury, Monday, Oct. 3, 1774, no. 1199, and in Rivington's Gazetteer, Thursday, Oct. 6, 1774, no. 77.

NOVEMBER.

New York, City.—Committee of correspondence. The following [sixty names] are the Names of Persons proposed to be elected as a Committee on Tuesday next, agreeable to the Recommendation of the Congress. New-York, Nov. 17, 1774. . . . [New York, 1774.] 1 page. F°.

The recommendation of the Congress referred to was contained in article 11 of the Association of Oct. 24, 1774, which suggested the choosing of a committee in every county, city, and town, attentively to observe the conduct of all persons touching the Association, and to publish the names of those that should violate it. The New York committee of correspondence recommended on Nov. 7, that eight persons be chosen in each ward on Friday, Nov. 18, to serve as the committee of inspection; on the 15th they changed their plan and recommended that sixty men to serve until July 1, 1775, should be chosen by the citizens on Tuesday morning, Nov. 22, at the City Hall at ten o'clock, the committee of correspondence agreeing to dissolve upon the election of the new committee. The committee was chosen as suggested; it met and organized on Monday, Dec. 28.

FEBRUARY.

New York, City.—Committee of inspection and observation. In Committee, of Inspection and Observation, February 5th, 1775. Whereas the Continental Congress did lately resolve, [that any person refusing to receive the continental bills of credit should be published as an enemy of his country] . . . This Committee therefore (the parties having declared that they did not mean to appeal to any other board) do hold up to the world, the said John Drinker, Thomas and Samuel Fisher, as Enemies to their Country, and precluded from all trade or intercourse with the inhabitants of these Colonies. Ordered, That the above be published. Extract from the Minutes, Peter Z. Lloyd, Secretary. [New York, 1775.] 1 page. 4°.

MARCH.

No Provincial Convention. Let us choose for ourselves The old Five Delegates. No Deputies. [New York, March? 1775.] 1 page. 24°.

New York, City.—Committee of inspection and observation. The following Extracts from the Proceedings of the Committee of Observation for the City and County of New-York, are by them directed to be published. [Proceedings from Feb. 27 to March 8, 1775; and a letter of Isaac Low, March 9, 1775, refusing the nomination to be one of the eleven deputies to meet deputies from the other counties and choose delegates to the continental congress; followed by a note stating that "this Address was not laid before the Committee."] [New York, 1775.] 2 pp. F°.

Americanus, pseud. To the Freeholders and Freemen of the City of New York. Fellow Citizens, Several Members of the General Assembly having declared, that the appointment of Delegates to meet in the next Continental Congress had better come from the people, than from their House; they having drawn up a list of grievances, similar to those contained in the proceedings of the Continental Congress, and intending also to petition the King on our behalf; have left this important matter to your nomination. [A plea for the immediate choosing of delegates, rather than delay until April 20 as suggested by John Thurman] . . . We have already chosen a respectable and approved Committee; as such let us strenuously support them in the measures they have adopted, and frustrate the wicked attempts of our enemies. Americanus. New York, March 4, 1775. [New York, 1775.] 1 page. 4°.

Citizen (A), pseud. To the Inhabitants Of the the City and County Of New-York. The wisest men in all ages, have observed and laid it down as a maxim, that whatever may be the particular opinions of individuals, the bulk of the people, both mean and think right. . . . Go then, on Monday, to the Exchange, and delay not to pursue the advice of the Congress, by forthwith declaring, that Deputies shall be chosen to meet those from the other Counties, and in conjunction with them, appoint delegates for the next Congress; remember that your delegates have, by their direction, pledged themselves for you, and don't give the world reason to think that you are capable of violating your solemn engagements. A Citizen. New-York, March 4, 1775. [New York, 1775.] 2 pp. F°.

Tory (A), pseud. To the very learned, loquacious, rhetorical, oratorical, disputative, flexible, incomprehensible, impenetrable, pathetic and irresistably eloquent Chairman. A Certain John Thurman who stiles himself Chairman of a certain ministerial Junto, who stile themselves a respectable number of the Freemen and Freeholders of this city having published his objections to appointing Deputies to meet those from the counties, and join with them in choosing Delegates for the next Congress; [Five specifications in answer; urging action on Monday next rather than delay until April 20.] . . . A Tory. March 4, 1775. [New York, 1775.] 1 page. 4°.

Freeman (A), pseud. To the Freeholders and Freemen Of the City and County of New-York. Fellow-Citizens, As it is well known, that you are determined upon sending Delegates to the next Congress, and that the Division among you, is only about the Mode of sending them, that is, Whether you shall elect them yourselves, or nominate others to do so for you? And, whether you shall have a Provincial Congress or not? Common Decency required, that you should have had an Opportunity of declaring your Sentiments upon these important Questions. . . . Upon the Whole, since you are not permitted to give your Voices as you would wish, but are confined by the Committee to one Question only, be not cajoled out of your Sentiments; but give your Negative to the Proposal for a Provincial Convention; and then unite with one Mind, in voting for your former Five Worthy Delegates, and Doubt not, but such of the Counties as are for a Congress, will confirm your choice. A Freeman. [New York, March, 1775.] 2 pp. F°.

Phileleutheros, pseud. No Placemen, Pensioners, Ministerial Hirelings, Popery, nor Arbitrary Power! To the Freemen and Freeholders of the City and County of New-York. My Friends and Countrymen, At this critical and truly alarming Time, when every Thing which we hold dear to us as Englishmen and Freemen, is on the point of being wrested from us, by a vindictive, arbitrary, and rapacious Minister, and his Adherents; [An open letter urging the necessity of supporting the committee of observation; its services, its sincerity, and its disinterestedness; expressing disapprobation of the meeting on Monday, March 6,] . . . And as Wednesday next [March 15] is appointed by the General Committee, for electing Deputies, to serve in Provincial Congress (for the sole Purpose of choosing Delegates, to represent this Colony in General Congress, the 10th Day of May next.)—I doubt not, you will make it a Point, to attend in your respective Wards, for the Purpose of electing those Gentlemen, whom the Committee have nominated. Phileleutheros. New York, 13th March, 1775. [New York, 1775.] 1 page. F°.

Voter (A) pseud. To the Public. Many citizens being desirous of seeing the Motion, made in Committee, on the 6th Instant, by Mr. Henry Remsen, it is now published for their Consideration: [Motion that two rolls be prepared for each ward, one for voters desirous of appointing deputies to meet deputies from the other counties who shall choose delegates to the congress, the other for voters desirous of appointing five delegates for the city and county of New York separately; the motion was rejected because there is a scheme to turn out some of the old five delegates to make room for some other folks.] . . . Mistake not the Business of next Wednesday; it is only whether you shall have a Provincial Convention, or whether you shall have your old five Delegates. A Voter. March 13, 1775. [New York, 1775.] 1 page. 4°.

Another Freeman, pseud. To the Freeholders, and Freemen, of the City of New-York. Fellow-Citizens. A Survey of the difficulties which press the enemies of the common cause, must afford the highest pleasure to its friends. [In answer to A Freeman; supporting the plan of choosing deputies on March 15, to meet deputies from the other counties to choose delegates for the continental congress.] . . . I intreat you, to receive this advice as cordially, as it honestly given by Another Freeman. New-York, March 14th, 1775. [New York, 1775.] 2 pp. F°.

It gives a review of the proceedings of the committee of inspection and observation from February 27 after the Assembly had refused to appoint delegates, until the meeting of Monday, March 13.

Low (Isaac). To the respectable Public. A Publication which appeared this Morning under the Signature of Veritas, asserts, That I approved of the Mode adopted by the General Committee, of chusing Deputies to join with the Counties in order to elect out of their Body Delegates to the next Congress; which is so far very true; . . . I now publicly avow, that it is my unalterable Resolution not to serve as a Deputy or Delegate, if even so unmerited an Honour should be conferred on me, having long been weary of Politics, which appear to be too much influenced by Malevolence and Faction, and aspiring at nothing higher than to approve myself a good Citizen in private Life. Isaac Low. March 15, 1775. [New York, 1775.] 1 page. 4°.

APRIL.

New York, City.—Committee of inspection and observation. New-York, Committee-Chamber, Wednesday, 26th April, 1775. The Committee having taken into Consideration the Commotions occasioned by the sanguinary Measures pursued by the British Ministry, and that the Powers with which this Committee is invested, respect only the Association, are unanimously of Opinion, That a new Committee be elected by the Freeholders and Freemen of this City and County [to consist of 100; 33 to be a quorum; to dissolve within a fortnight after the end of the next sessions of the continental congress; polls to be taken Friday next; that twenty deputies be chosen for a provincial congress, and the other counties to be urged to appoint similar deputies to meet at New York, on Monday, May 22] . . . By Order of the Committee, by Isaac Low, Chairman. [New York, 1775.] 1 page. 4°.

The election for a new committee was held on May 1, when the old committee was reorganized, with Isaac Low again chairman.

White (Henry). To the Public. The last news from Philadelphia, containing certain paragraphs, purporting to be a letter from England, containing imputations, that the subscriber has been instrumental by letters, to the sending out of Troops to this Country, to give aid to persons here, against America, . . . I have thought fit to subjoin the following affidavit. Henry White. City of New-York. Henry White, Esq; maketh oath that the imputations contained in the Philadelphia newspaper, above mentioned, so far as they respect him are utterly false, and groundless; . . . Henry White. Sworn the 29th day of April, 1775, before me, Whitehead Hicks, Mayor. [New York, 1775.] 1 page. 4°.

Letter: Sergeant (John). Washington, [D. C.,] Jan. 1, 1829. To W[illiam] L[eete] Stone [New York]. Owing to the short time in which Congress will remain in session, it would be impossible to carry through any measure on the subject [slavery] mentioned in Stone's letter of the 28th; for the same reason, this is not the time for public meetings; petitions, however, ought to be got up, and the public mind kept directed to the subject; in the South, there is entire union; every individual feels the question as his own concern; it is not so in the North; as for the District, there is no reason why slavery should not be abolished there; he would not invade the rights of the southerners, nor wound their feelings, but they are unreasonably sensitive, and would exclude even consideration of slavery; he will cooperate in any plan, but does not think the present a favorable time. No. 2.

REPORT FOR JANUARY.

During the month of January, 1899, there were received at the Library by purchase 740 books and 211 pamphlets, and by gift 9,847 books and 36,985 pamphlets.

There were catalogued 4,341 volumes and 2,987 pamphlets, for which purpose 20,815 cards and 2,328 slips for the printer were written.

The following table shows the number of readers and the number of volumes consulted in both the Astor and Lenox branches of the Library during the month:

	LENOX.	ASTOR.
Total number of readers.....	2,761	8,249
Daily average of readers.....	111	330
Number of volumes consulted.....	6,974	36,243

The most important gift of the month is that of the books and pamphlets of the Ford Library, as shown by the following letter:—

JAN. 3rd, 1899.

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES, NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY.

DEAR SIR:—

It is our wish to present to the New York Public Library the collection of books, pamphlets, prints, maps, etc., formed by our father, the late Gordon Lester Ford, and to constitute the gift a memorial to him. It numbers about one hundred thousand pieces, for the most part relating to American history and to Political Economy, in each of which subjects it is probably the largest private collection in this country; with a library of general character containing not a few rare and desirable books.

In offering this collection to the New York Public Library we do not wish to lessen the value of the gift by imposing conditions which shall hamper and clog its usefulness to you or to the public. We, therefore, only ask that each volume shall be so marked as to show that it is part of this collection, and that in the new building some suitable means be adopted to call attention to the fact that it contains the Gordon Lester Ford collection.

Should this gift be accepted, we shall not, in transferring it to your shelves, terminate our interest, but shall continue adding to it, as we have since our father bequeathed it to us.

Very respectfully yours,

(Signed) WORTHINGTON CHAUNCEY FORD.
PAUL LEICESTER FORD.

Gordon Lester Ford began as a collector of autographs about 1840, and was one of four men who were interested in manuscripts at that time. Of these four, three left large collections to be dispersed by sale—Tefft, Cist and Sprague;—and of those who came later, like Emmet, Leffingwell and Duer, only the stores of Emmet and Duer have remained intact. Buying at first the autographs of prominent characters, Mr. Ford gradually ceased to accumulate mere autographs and confined his attention to historical manuscripts, believing them to be a necessary complement to any historical library.

From autographs it was an easy stage to books and pamphlets. Beginning as a collector of general literature, Mr. Ford gradually specialized, and finally gave his attention almost entirely to works on American history, and especially its political history. The collection is particularly strong on pamphlets of local or family records, the fruits of the earlier years of collecting; while the long series of tracts and contemporary records of the Stamp Act and revolutionary periods point to the gradual concentration of effort in that particular line. Continuing at a later period, the history of the Constitution and of political parties under it was regarded, and thus the library is very full and complete in a form of controversial writings of high value to the student of the history of the United States, and one that is extremely difficult to obtain. The long series of political pamphlets relating to Jefferson, Adams, Hamilton, and Madison are proof of this; while the even longer series of tracts on political controversies from the Revolution through the Rebellion evidence the catholicity of taste and the ardor of collecting.

Strong as it is in this general feature of political and constitutional history, its strength and importance are shown in its special lines. The Franklin collection contains some unique features; while the Washingtoniana is very numerous. The Thomas Paine and William Cobbett features are notable, and the Noah Webster is very complete. In every part of the collection may be found volumes containing manuscript notes by the writers or by persons interested. It was not a mere presentation from the author that was wanted, but a copy containing his annotations or new material.

From government and politics the interest spread to political economy, and a very large collection of economic writings was the result. It was not only English and American works that were obtained, but those published in France, Germany and Italy were purchased freely. Even here some specialties were developed, such as the editions of Adam Smith, the controversies over the West Indian trade, the Bullion report, the Bank Act of 1844 and the repeal of the Corn Laws. In American matters there is special fulness on tariff legislation, taxation, and currency.

In the later years of Mr. Ford's collection he was assisted by his sons Worthington C. and Paul Leicester Ford; and after his death, November 14th, 1891, they continued to add largely to both books and manuscripts. The autographs and manuscripts of the collection have been purchased by Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, of New York, who will select from them such as he wishes to retain for his private collection and will present the remainder as his gift to the New York Public Library.

Among other important gifts of the month are the following:—From the Bibliotheca Nacional de Rio de Janeiro, 13 volumes and 11 pamphlets; from the Duc de Loubat, 1 volume, a reproduction of an old Spanish manuscript; from Charles Howland Russell, 14 volumes and 36 pamphlets, including a set of the Harvard Graduates' Magazine; from the Social Reform Club, 26 volumes and 192 pamphlets; from F. A. Sorge, 147 volumes, 276 pamphlets and about 400 newspapers; and from Everett P. Wheeler, 16 volumes, being partial sets of the Telegrapher and of the Journal of the Telegraph.

At a stated meeting of the Board of Trustees of the New York Public Library, held on February 8th, 1899, Mr. Bird S. Coler was elected as a member of the Board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of S. Van Rensselaer Cruger, in accordance with a change in the by-laws of the Board, in which it is prescribed that the Comptroller of the City of New York shall be elected a member ex officio.

CHARLES I's EXPEDITION AGAINST THE COVENANTERS IN 1639.

The following letters, from the Hardwicke papers, relate to the expedition of Charles I. against the Covenanters in the summer of 1639. The writer, Edward Norgate, illuminator and herald-painter, attended the king on this occasion as clerk of the signet. His correspondent was Robert Reade, secretary to Sir Francis Windebank, secretary of state and one of the comptrollers of the posts.

NOBLE COUSIN

I promised you news. Promise is a debt and debts [are] payable by the rich as they are willing, and the poor as they are able. In some, Payments in single money is still payment, and what I cannot send you by Gross, you shall have by Retail. For here we serve Fortune by the day, when the Season is as variable as the people and reports we meet withall. At our first coming the King was met, received, and brought in by the gallantaria of this Country, People bravely vested & mounted thereafter. No King in Christendom can wish better subjects, whose greatest contention was to exceed in all expressions of zeal to the Kings service, wherein was neither want of cost or want of Courage. The first few days of our Stay here was past over in feastings & entertainments, the Lord Mayor feasting the King who knighted him & the Recorder. For S^r Arthur Ingram is not to be named, whose every room is a several Apollo, and the Inventory of his dishes as long as these country miles. He lodges and feeds the Lo: General, the Earls of Pembroke & Salisbury, Secr^y Coke, with many others, & for Commanders and gallants of the short Robe, his house is the only Rendezvous. Hither are come more than a good many of the Scots, with many complaints of insolencies done by Covenanters, & losses sustained by themselves. But there is no greater discord between the two Nations, than in their reports. Some of them tell how narrowly they escaped, what Castles and Towns taken, what people imprison'd. That the Covenanters are all mad with rage & rebellion, and will venture upon any attempt, though never so dangerous or desperate. Others again deny this; and say they came fairly off, that the Covenanters have not hurt any man, not so much as a broken pate can appear, more than the stealing a little plate from the Earl of Winton; that they are instantly become very loving worms, & will lye prostrate at his Majesties feet upon the first appearance of his power, or signification of his pleasure. What to do with these reports, or how to reconcile 'em in faith I know not. You have what I hear, yet it is but sheet news, for you know I am of the Court, I am not of the Council and yet not the wiser. The Earl of Essex is in Berwick with 2000 men, from whence Sr Jacob Astley came hither this night, and hath been long with the King. Berwick and Carlisle are I hope secure. So that we may care the less what they do in Scotland. Some say they are all ready to disband, others that they are more vengeable minded than ever, and ready for any mischief. When I hear news of more truth and certainty, you shall have it. Present my humble service to the noble Secretary, & all my smaller friends there. Mr Thomas Windbanke came hither this Saturday night & is very well & merry. Mr Secretary is still at Sr Arthur Ingram's & hath no Diet but his. If I had as much matter as leisure, I could weary out a Quire of paper & you. Sr Abraham's quality of angling were to me a Revenue, for then I might hope to catch something towards a dinner in these catching times. But to live altogether upon expence, is a melancholy matter. Will present my love, and best wishes to my Bro^r Warwick, and intreat him to remember my Bro^r [Sir Balthazer] Gerbier* Selon que les occasions se presenteront. So I will conclude with Dulman in Ignoramus. Si ingrossas instrumenta bene est. Ego quidem non ingresso Instrumenta. I wish you all health & happiness because I am

S^R.

I thank you for your kind visit & am glad to hear that my wife was abroad and amongst em, I care more for her health than her housewifery & had rather she were well abroad, than sick at home, yet your love is not the less, nor my obligation. You shall not fail to hear how the world goes here, provided you will take things as we are made believe they are, for here are frequent reports as different & irreconcilable as the Nations. Yesterday came the news of the revolt of the Lo: Marquis Huntley to the Covenanters. He hath signed their Articles, sworn to their party, & feasted some of the principal, & is gone into the Mountains it matters not wither. Of this, & him, all here speak shame enough. The King was two days ago at Selby at the Horse quarter, whence he returned very well pleased with the sight & order of most goodly troupes about 700. They are gone now towards Newcastle whether we follow on Monday come sevenight, the King is lodged & feasted by Mr. Treasurer at his Castle at Raby on Monday and the next day will be at Newcastle. The King said last night at supper that he was told that Colonel or General Lesly (for so the King called him) should report, that he would meet the King upon the Borders, or rather near Berwick with 30,000 men, & there he would parley with him. Most intolerable insolency of so worthless a Vassal to such a Sovereign. The Foot Companies coming hither have committed many insolencies upon the way especially the Essex men who have killed a woman with Child, and others, besides robbing & spoiling passengers & houses as they pass. I send this Letter by Sr. Oliver Fleming* who hath this day taken his leave of the King and returns into Switzerland. He is a most worthy honest hearted Gentⁿ: and my ancient acquaintance, and one that is worthy of yours: the rather because he desires it. And though I need not appear in so just a request wherein his own merit is incomparably above my oratory. Yet I am confident—when you know him as I do, you will find, or make occasion to do him fair offices to the noble Secretary, whose affectionate servant he professes to be. Entreat my Bro^r. Warwicke to partake in what I write concerning this Gent: as well as in all the Services I have sent or shall send from hence, where in there is not a line, letter nor recommendations, but is, and is to be, divided betwixt you. Tell him that wherever I am, I am his and yours, and hope he will not marry yet because whether I live or die, he hath a wife & some children to look after, who hope he will prove as good a husband as he hath been a Bro^r. By this time I hope Mr. Secretary Coke may see how impertinent and inconvenient it was to trouble this journey with Sr. Abraham Williams and myself. There being not business for half a hand. He's now here at a great & unnecessary charge. Mr. Secretary bad me write to stay his coming which I did, which he did second with his own Letter to that effect. It seems that his wife hurried him away, fearing I got all & more too. And now having met with my Letter she swaggers with him to have him return as fast. But he will on. Mr. Secretary is still with Sr. Arthur Ingram who lodges & feasts eleven Lords & persons of Quality, besides a world of comers & goers incessantly. But I forget myself and think your leisure and mine alike. Present my service to all my friends, in especial to your self who extreemly oblige me by this favor and conveyance of my Letters to and again. But I may live to requite you by a better way than dying. Mr. Thomas Windbanke is very well and warm, arm'd in Buff, and made his appearance among the rest of those Cavalliers at Selby. So with my love remembered I rest and am

SAMUEL CHASE.

Letter: Chase (Samuel). At Captain Barney's, [Baltimore?] Jan. 4, 1800. To Mrs. Chase. Describes a narrow escape from death by breaking through some ice; he was saved by his son and an officer named Alexander. Lithograph fac-simile of an A.L.S. in the possession of F. J. Dreer Esq. Phila. 2 pp. F°. With a small wood engraving, on India paper, of the Res. of Judge Samuel Chase Baltimore Md. EM. 3463

Also in Brotherhead's Book of the Signers, Phila., 1861, p. 11.

Letter: Chase (Samuel). Baltimore Town, [Md.,] Jan. 23, 1777. [To the Legislature of Maryland.] The committee appointed by the inclosed resolutions of Congress [to inquire into the conduct of the enemy towards prisoners of war] request that the honorable body appoint gentlemen to take depositions on the matters contained in the resolve; the committee has heard that some of the British prisoners taken at Princeton said that they were ordered to stand until they were cut to pieces and take no prisoners, also that Gen. Mercer and Lieut. [Bartholomew] Yeates were killed after they had surrendered, and that several bodies have been found hanging on trees in the Jerseys. A.L.S. Endorsed. 1 page. 4°. EM. 3464

The address has been added in pencil by Dr. Emmet. For the resolutions of Congress referred to see the Journals for Jan. 16, 1777.

View: Baltimore, Md. Inscription: (left) Fac simile of the Original drawing by John Moale. | Baltimore Town in 1752. Lithograph. [Philadelphia? 1860?] 17 $\frac{3}{8}$ x 7 $\frac{1}{8}$ in. EM. 3465

Portrait: Chase (Samuel). Bust; after the painting by Jarvis. [Engraved by H. B. Hall.] Line. [New York, 1870?] F°. EM. 3466

Apparently a proof before letter of the plate in the Maryland Historical Society's Centennial Memorial, The Journal of Charles Carroll of Carrollton, Balt., 1876, p. 34.

Portrait: Carroll (Charles). Bust; directed facing, and looking slightly to the right; oval vignette. Inserted in an engraving of earlier date, representing Fame hanging a medallion (containing the portrait) upon a column; this again is inserted in a decorative frame apparently of still earlier date, and the inscription Charles Carroll is mounted below. Line. [New York? 1850?] F°. EM. 3461

Portrait: Carroll (Charles). Half length; directed, facing, and looking to the front; book in right hand. Inscription: Engraved by James B. Longacre from a Painting by Chester Harding. Line. [Philadelphia, 1830?] F°. EM. 3462

A pencil note reads, "From Longacre's Private Collection."

Portrait: Sharpe (Horatio). Half length; directed to the left, facing and looking to the front; braided coat and waistcoat. Inscription: Horatio Sharpe Governor of Maryland. Horo. Sharpe (fac-simile signature). Lithograph by Max Rosenthal. [Philadelphia, 1885?] 4°. EM. 3467

Letter: Sharpe (Horatio). Annapolis, [Md.,] June 9, 1755. [To Gov. Robert Hunter Morris, Philadelphia.] He has received a letter from Gen. Braddock; a duplicate was sent to Gov. Dinwiddie, whereupon the Virginia Assembly granted £6,000; if these governments follow the example, there will be no difficulty in complying with His Excellency's requisitions; rather than leave any troops at Fort Du Quesne without stores, he would, if he had provisions, try to bring out the militia to convoy them; whatever be the result of the Assembly's meeting, a few cannon and some arms shall be sent from this place; he hopes Pennsylvania will not refuse supplies; he has warned the back-inhabitants to be on their guard. A.L.S. Endorsed. 2 ll. 4°. EM. 3468

Printed in the Minutes of the Provincial Council of Pennsylvania, vol. 6 (Harrisburg, 1851) p. 420.

Letter: Harper (Robert Goodloe). Baltimore, July 2, 1800. To Gen. [Elias] Dayton, Elizabeth Town, N. J. Both parties mean to make a struggle in the election of the lower house of the assembly in October; the federalists will doubtless win, and they will then alter the law and substitute a choice by the legislature for the present district election of electors; Delaware is for Adams and Pinckney, the Carolinas uncertain; Brown and Relf's publication [the Philadelphia Gazette] containing Dayton's reply to the Aurora lies, was republished here; Dayton owes it to his country and to the cause of decency to prosecute this scoundrel [William Duane]; he himself has decided to pursue that course on the first occasion. A. L. S. Endorsed. 3 pp. 4°. EM. 3490

Letter: Key (Francis Scott). George Town, [D. C.], Mar. 13, 1823. To E[li] Ayres, Baltimore. Dealing with the affairs of the American colonization society; he approves the bargain with [Ralph Randolph] Gurley; the balance of this freight will bear hard on their funds, but he hopes to supply the brig and the people with provisions from contributions in Baltimore; he will speak to the Secretary of the Navy about McCauley's accounts. A. L. S. 1 page. 4°. EM. 3491

The address has been mounted on the back of the letter.

[Md.]. Introduces the Rev. Mr. Forbes, who is appointed to the late Mr. [William] Brogden's parish; he is chaplain to a regiment, and has gained the esteem of officers of rank, particularly Col. Maitland and Major Moncrieffe; he intends to reside at Marlbro'. A. L. S. 1 page. F°. EM. 3522

Letter: Eden (Sir Robert), Bart. Annapolis, [Md.,] May 21, 1774. To Gov. John Penn [Philadelphia]. The guardians of the proprietor of Maryland have refused to sign the return of the [boundary] commissioners, because, as he supposes, they think such an act improper without the especial direction of the Lord Chancellor given after the matter should have been brought before him in court; Eden cannot therefore take upon himself a power that they have declined; he deprecates the issuing of an ex parte proclamation by Pennsylvania; he leaves for England in a few days, and will lay Penn's letters before the guardians; in the meantime no steps will be taken here to indicate a concurrence in Penn's proposed measure. A. L. S. Endorsed. 1 page. F°. EM. 3523

Letter: Anne Arundel County, Md.—Committee of observation. Annapolis, Jan. 9, 1775. To the Baltimore committee. Their country needs gunpowder; they are concerned to learn from S. Purveyance [Samuel Purviance] that some merchants of Baltimore can furnish it, but at £14 per c., which is contrary to the resolve of the Provincial Convention; they do not doubt that Baltimore will strictly observe the resolve, and they hope to be supplied, on payment of 130 per cent advance in cash, with as much gunpowder as can be spared. In the handwriting of Samuel Chase. L. S., J. Hall, Chas Carroll, Ch: Carroll of Carrollton, Jn^o Brice, Cha: Wallace, Math^s Hammond, John Davidson, Samuel Chase, W^m. Paca. Letter: Vergennes (Charles Gravier de), Count. Autun, [France,] Apr. 17, 1770. To the Duke [de Choiseul]. Acknowledging a letter of the 9th, he says it is true as M. de St. Priest has reported, that the old translation of the agreement with the Porte is imperfect; on this account he engaged the Sieur Deval to make a new version, his object being not so much to control the demands of the dragomans, as to judge rightly of the propriety of the demands which his ministry obliged him to make at Constantinople; although the affairs of the Levant and Barbary ports are simpler, he believes that Deval's translation will prove useful to M. de St. Priest; he has but one copy, which he will send to the Duke immediately on his return to his country house. Letter: Jefferson (Thomas). Washington, [D. C.] Jan. 27, 1803. To Gen. [Horatio] Gates, New York. Expresses pleasure at the approval of friends; all that Gates recommended has been carried out; the matter has been in train since the preceding June, varying in one particular only from Gates's ideas; the site of Fort Rosalie being less favorable for a fort, the former administration built one called Fort Adams commanding the river near the southern boundary; there they have silently been making a place d'armes suitable to the number of men in its neighborhood; the most important matter now is to open a land office for the country obtained from the Choctaws; if it were granted in small lots the yeomanry would be able to defend it; if this speck on the horizon blows over, all is smooth water; Monroe leaves in a fortnight. A. L. S. 1 page. F°. EM. 3696

Letter: Jefferson (Thomas). Washington, [D. C.], July 11, [18]03. To Gen. [Horatio] Gates [New York]. Mutual congratulations on the acquisition of Louisiana; if the legislature is wise they will induce all the Indians on the east side to remove to the west of the Mississippi, and condense instead of scattering the white population; both Monroe and Livingston merit praise; the opposition are uneasy lest the administration should share some credit for the acquisition, the whole of which they ascribe to the fortune of war; the administration always meant to profit by war when it should come; the other party also had a war, but they did not make it a means of gain, they were for plunging into it, and for making this country an appendage to England; he believes that the present administration will not have as much to swallow from France and England as its predecessors had; probable disposition of the new territory. Letter: Jefferson (Thomas). Washington, [D. C.], June 2, [18]05. To Gov. [John] Page, Richmond. John D. Burke [sic], who is writing a history of Virginia, wishes to consult some volumes in Jefferson's collection, and has asked that they be deposited with Page; he has therefore written to T. M. Randolph to have them shipped; the volume of laws is the only collection extant of the laws from 1734 to 1772; it must be placed in careful hands, where it may be used by Burke and still be accessible for judiciary purposes; the volumes of newspapers Burke may take home with him; hopes to receive a visit from Page at Monticello in August; he approves Judge Tucker's plan of collecting historical materials, but fears that it would not be persevered in, having seen so many literary associations rendered abortive through indolence; people who love science are too few in this country. Portrait: Randolph (Mrs. Thomas Mann). Bust; directed, facing and looking to the front; white cap. After Sully. Inscription: Martha Jefferson Randolph. Wood engraving. 8°. EM. 3728

Also in Harper's Magazine, vol. 43 (N. Y., 1871) p. 367.

Portrait: Franklin (Benjamin). Three-quarters length; seated; directed to the right, looking at electric conductors to the left; pen in right hand; through a window to the right a house struck by lightning. Inscription: (left) M. Chamberlin, Pinxt. (right) C. Turner, Sculpt. A.R.A. | Benja. Franklin (fac-simile signature). Mezzotint. 8°. EM. 3730

Also in Bancroft's History of the U. S., vol. 3 (Boston, 1840) frontispiece.

Engraving: United States.—Congress, Continental, 1775–1789. Inscription: Declaration of Independence July 4th. 1776. Line engraving of a seal after the Trumbull painting. [Philadelphia? 1840?] EM. 3731

Portrait: Jefferson (Thomas). Bust; directed, facing and looking to the right; oval. Small line engraving. [New York? 1850?] EM. 3732 Unlettered.

Portrait: Monroe (James). Bust; directed, facing and looking to the left; after Stuart. Lithograph. [Philadelphia? 1830?] 4°. EM. 3733

Trimmed to an oval, without margins or lettering.

Letter: Monroe (James). Richmond, [Va.], Mar. 18, 1802. To Archibald Roane, Knoxville, Tenn. Acknowledges letter of the 3d inst. appointing May 3d for the meeting of the commissioners to adjust the boundary between the two states; he has communicated the letter to the commissioners. A. L. S. 2 pp. and 1 leaf with the address and the endorsement. 4°. EM. 3734

Letter: Madison (James). Montpelier, [Va.], Dec. 27, 1826. To J[ohn] H[artwell] Cocke. The inclosed papers from the University [of Virginia] give a sad account of the hotel keepers; desires to know his views on the subject; the utility of a military school seems to be admitted; inquires as to what steps would be proper for securing arms from the Governor. A. L. S., J. M. Draft. Narrow strip. EM. 3735

Letter: Madison (James). Montpelier, [Va.], June 26, 1828. To —. Forwards a letter just received, and asks him to give the case whatever attention may be proper on the part of the University. A. L. S. Narrow strip. EM. 3736

Documents: University of Virginia. 1832–1833. Three receipts by professors for payments of salaries, and two draughts on the proctor of the university. Signed respectively C. Bonnycastle, John P. Emmet, Robley Dunglison, Isaac Raphael, G. Blaettermann, George Tucker. Narrow strips. EM. 3737

Letter: Cabell (James Laurence). University of Virginia, Dec. 9, 1872. To Dr. T[homas] A[ddis] Emmet, New York. Mr. Wertenbaher may be able to furnish the signatures, nothing more, of the early professors; incloses two notes from [George] Long and [Thomas Hewitt] Key; he will bear in mind Dr. Emmet's wishes as to his father's MSS. in Prof. Smith's hands. A. L. S. 2 pp. 12°. EM. 3738

Letter: Key (Thomas Hewitt). London, Feb. 15, 1871. To George [Long, jr.]. He cannot speak with authority on astronomy, but he believes [Joseph Norman] Lockyer to be more a chemist than an astronomer; mathematical science is essential in the problems of astronomy; as to the site of the proposed observatory, the University of Virginia has a stronger claim to public support; he favors it because of his early connection with it; and he favors the College at Lexington because of his respect for the great and good Gen. Lee. A. L. S. 3 pp. 12°. EM. 3739

Letter: Long (George). Brighton, [England,] Feb. 24, 1871. To George [Long, jr.]. He favors the University of Virginia rather than the College at Lexington as a site for the proposed observatory; the College was a miserable establishment in his time, and its temporary success under Gen. Lee seems no reason for fixing an observatory there; the donor should aim to make his gift as useful as possible without regard to prepossessions; recommends that some young Cambridge mathematician be secured as observer. A. L. S. 4 pp. 12mo. EM. 3740

Letter: Lomax (John Tayloe). [University of Virginia,] May 31, 1827. To —. Inquires if he has heard yet from Algernon Sydney Brown's father; the faculty are dissatisfied that Mr. B. still continues in the precincts without having matriculated. A. L. S. Narrow strip. EM. 3741

Letter: Cooper (Thomas). Columbia, S. C., Apr. 26, 1825. [To — Dufour, Vevay, Ind.] He has received the circular, which he will give to his neighbor, Mr. Herbemont, the only person who has cultivated the grape for wine in this state; madeira at four dollars a gallon and port at two and a half are much used; the wild grape would make a better wine than any garden grape; the native North Carolina wines are made of this grape; they can be had at one dollar a gallon. A. L. S. 2 pp. 8°. EM. 3742

The address has been added by a later hand.

Portrait: Emmet (Thomas Addis). Half length; directed slightly to the left, facing and looking to the front. Inscription: Engd. by W. G. Jackman. | Thos. Addis Emmet (fac-simile signature). [N. Y. D. Appleton & Co.] Stipple. 4°. EM. 3743

Also in F. Moore's American Eloquence, vol. 1 (N. Y., 1857) p. 525.

Portrait: Tucker (George). Half length; directed, facing and looking to the left; oval. Inscription: (left) Painted by J. H. Brown. (right) On steel by John Sartain—Phila. | I am truly & cordially yours George Tucker (fac-simile signature). Mezzotint. [1860?] 4°. EM. 3744

Letter: Wertenbaher (William). University of Virginia, Dec. 16, 1872. To Dr. T[homas] A[ddis] Emmet [New York]. In compliance with Dr. Emmet's request in a letter to Dr. Cabell, he sends autographs of three of the first professors, Bonnycastle, Blaettermann and Lomax; Dr. Cabell has sent those of Long and Key, and the others are already in Dr. Emmet's possession, namely, those of Tucker, Dunglison, and his father. A. L. S. 1 page. 12°. EM. 3745

GEORGE WYTHE.

Letter: Wythe (George). —Williamsburg, Va., June 24, 1783. To Gov. [Benjamin] Harrison, Richmond. He is ready to undertake that part of the business assigned by the board, but begs to be excused from supervising the impression and correcting typographical errors; if it is intended that every judge of the chancery shall be employed, he wishes to know whether he should communicate the Governor's letter to [John] Blair. Lithograph fac-simile of an A. L. S. in the possession of Frank M. Etting Esq. Philada. 2 pp. F°. With a portrait (small wood engraving on India paper) of George Wythe, and a view of the Res. of George Wythe Williamsburgh Va. EM. 3746-7

Also in Brotherhead's Book of the Signers, Phila., 1861, p. 87.

Letter: Wythe (George). [Richmond? Va.,] June, 1789. To James Mercer, and other judges of the general court. Desiring their opinion on a point of law, he has directed the clerk of the court of chancery to wait on them with a statement of the question. A. L. S. 1 page. 4°. EM. 3748

The address has been pasted on the back.

Portrait: Wythe (George). Half length; profile to the right. Inscription: George Wythe. Drawn and Engraved, by J. B. Longacre, from a Portrait in the American Gleaner. Stipple. 8°. EM. 3749-50

Portrait: James I., King of Great Britain. Half length; directed and facing to the left, looking to the front; ruff and doublet; circular frame, beneath which two winged children are forming the royal arms, placing the lion and the harp in the shield. Inscription: (on the base) Jaques Premier.

(left) *J'unis sous mon pouvoir l'Ecosse et l'Angleterre,
Mais de mes Parlements j'encourus le mepris:*

(right) *Trop pacifique Roi d'un peuple aimant la guerre,
Le jouet de l'Espagne et de mes favoris.*

Line. [Amsterdam? 1700?] F°. EM. 3752

Letter: Pendleton (Edmund). Philadelphia, July 15, 1775. To William Woodford, Richmond, Va. They are at a loss by reason of not having heard from the General, who has been at the Camp a fortnight; a whisper runs that Gage has sent him proposals for a suspension of hostilities; a man of war is said to be in the river; if Dunmore is coming, he will not meet a polite reception; Woodford's things, with some of his own, are to embark next day for New Castle; if the colors reach Woodford's company safely, he knows that whoever would try to meddle with them afterwards must buy them dear. A. L. S. 1 page. 4°. EM. 3753

The address has been pasted on the back.

Caricature: Alternative (The) of Williamsburg. Inscription: The Alternative of Williamsburg. [left] Plate IV. | London Printed for R. Sayer, & J. Bennett, No. 53 Fleet Street, as the Act directs, 16 Feb. 1775. Mezzotint. F°. EM. 3754

On a board resting upon two barrels marked Tobacco. A Present for John Wilkes Esqr. Lord Mayor of London, lie papers entitled The Resolves of the Congress.—Non Importation. A fat man with a pipe and a long knife presides at the board; two gentlemen are signing their names, menaced by a rough fellow with a cudgel; various persons stand about; to the left, several others with clubs drag forward a third gentleman; behind, to the right, stands a gallows with a barrel of tar and a bag of feathers suspended from its arms, labelled A cure for the refractory; to the left is seen a statue of Botetourt.

Portrait: Mason (George). Half length; directed and facing to the right, looking to the front. Inscription: Etchd. by H. B. Hall, Morrisania, N. Y. 1872. | G. Mason. G. Mason (fac-simile signature). F°. EM. 3756

Portrait: Bacon (Francis), Viscount St. Albans. Half length; directed and facing to the left, looking to the front; hat, ruff and doublet; oval frame, with books, scroll, and a child holding a mace, below. Inscription: (on the frame) *Sr. Francis Bacon Viscount St. Albans Lord Chancellor. [(below, left) J. Houbraken Sculp Amst. (centre) In the possession of Martin Foulkes Esqr. (right) Impensis I. & P. REPORT FOR FEBRUARY.

During the month of February, there were received at the Library by purchase 719 books and 58 pamphlets, and by gift 5,865 books and 30,909 pamphlets.

There were catalogued 4,997 volumes and 3,502 pamphlets, for which purpose 19,056 cards and 2,003 slips for the printer were written.

The following table shows the number of readers, and the number of volumes consulted, in both the Astor and Lenox branches of the Library, during the month:

	LENOX.	ASTOR.
Total number of readers.....	2,475	7,330
Daily average of readers.....	103	305
Number of volumes consulted.....	7,105	29,110

Among the important gifts of the month were the following—from Mr. Avery, 23 volumes and 22 pamphlets; from the Envoy of Costa Rica, 18 volumes and 16 pamphlets, all documents relating to Costa Rica; from Dr. J. R. Chadwick, 32 old pamphlets; from Captain F. E. Chadwick, a map made by the sailors of the U. S. S. New York, to illustrate the movements of the fleet before Santiago; from Mrs. Henry Draper, a collection of fifty pieces of Hungarian music; from the Envoy of Venezuela, 14 volumes and 2 pamphlets, relating to Venezuela; from the Wyclif Society, England, 14 volumes of its publications; and from Jacob Ter, 30 volumes and 26 pamphlets.

REPORT OF THE EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE.

TO THE TRUSTEES OF THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY, ASTOR, LENOX AND TILDEN FOUNDATIONS :

As a new stage in the development of the New York Public Library may be said to have been practically reached, now that an actual appropriation of funds is about to be made by the city, and the work of the demolition of the reservoir and the construction of the new building is to be commenced, the Executive Committee is of opinion that it will be interesting and instructive to review very briefly what has already been accomplished since the consolidation. They therefore present this report.

NEW LIBRARY BUILDING.

The formal agreement of consolidation between the three corporations was made upon the 23d of May, 1895, and the consolidated corporation was organized on May 27, 1895.

Discussion of the many problems confronting the Trustees occupied the remainder of the year. In December, 1895, Dr. Billings was selected as Director. He did not, however, fully enter upon his duties until June, 1896.

The consolidation of the libraries compelled an early consideration of the question of the site of the future Library and of the subject of the future policy of the new corporation with reference to the character of library it proposed to establish and conduct.

If the adopted policy should confine the new corporation to conducting a library of reference purely on the old lines, with the aid of the funds of The Tilden Trust, public interest might not be excited, and probably the increased funds might before long prove to be insufficient and leave the consolidated corporation somewhat in the position the individual corporations had occupied. If, on the other hand, the new corporation proposed to adopt "the open door," and while preserving the character of the Library as a library of reference, nevertheless, to be ready to undertake circulation as far as possible and at least to sympathize with the general public, the public might be a hard taskmaster, but, notwithstanding, public aid was reasonably sure, and it was possible to place the consolidated Library in so strong a position as to be safe from all future competition and secure a career of real usefulness.

One of the earliest acts of the Board of Directors was to declare the intentions of the Trustees on this subject in positive and unequivocal terms. On the 14th of February, 1896, the Board resolved that it is the duty of the corporation "to adopt the broadest policy possible in reference to the nature and scope of the New York Public Library, provided the funds at the disposal of the corporation, or which can be obtained, permit." This policy was more generally stated and authoritatively made public in the address which was presented to the Mayor of the City on March 25, 1896, wherein it was stated that if the City of New York would furnish a proper site and provide the means to erect thereon a suitable building for the purposes of the Library, then the New York Public Library could, through the sale of its present sites, obtain such an addition to its funds as would justify it in providing for the circulation of books from its main building; and it was pointed out that in this manner an opportunity was afforded for the City of New York to establish and maintain a free public library on the broadest and most comprehensive plan.

As the result of these representations and the outspoken support of the public, the subject was presented early in 1897 to the Legislature, and the necessary authority was asked to enable the city to construct a library building in Bryant Park, and to contract with the New York Public Library for its occupancy, and an act for this purpose was passed May 19, 1897. Steps were at once taken for the preparation of plans for the new building, and as the building was to be essentially a public building it was deemed proper that the plan should be selected only after public competition, and arrangements were immediately made for such competition.

On the 19th of May, 1897, a scheme for a preliminary competition, which for some time had been under discussion, was perfected and approved, and on the 21st of May this scheme was made public, and participation invited. On the 15th of July this competition closed, and during the following week the awards of the preliminary competition were made. On the 2d of August the instructions for the final competition were issued, and on the 8th of November the report of the jury on the final competition was submitted. On November 10th the report of the jury was confirmed and approved, and Messrs. Carrère & Hastings were selected by the Board as architects. On the 1st of December, 1897, the plans so selected were approved by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and a definite contract was authorized between the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the City of New York and the New York Public Library for the permanent occupation of the building when completed, and the carrying on of the work of the Library, which was duly executed.

It may be remarked that the means adopted by the Board resulted not only in producing plans for what your Committee believe will be the most satisfactory building for library purposes in this country, and at the same time second to none in this city in architectural beauty; but the particular scheme of competition adopted has met with universal approval, and has since been recommended and used as a model in competitions of this character elsewhere, being generally accepted as a marked step in advance in securing the best results in an architectural competition.

The causes for delay in the actual commencement of the work are well known. We are now assured, however, that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment will probably be able to appropriate $1,000,000 for the work during the present year, and $500,000 thereof as soon as a requisition from the Department of Public Parks in due form is presented. We are, however, of opinion that no time has in reality been lost, and that the interval since the adoption of the plans has been most valuable as giving an opportunity for their study and development.

INCREASE IN BOOKS.

The Trustees, however, have not devoted their entire energies to the new building, and the extraordinary increase in the Library during the last two years and a half makes a remarkable showing.

Since July 1, 1896, there have been added to the collections of the Library about 80,000 volumes and 80,000 pamphlets, and by the end of the present fiscal year the Library, including the Ford Collection, will contain about 465,000 volumes and 180,000 pamphlets. The annual accessions have been at the rate of about 26,000 volumes and 25,000 pamphlets. The annual accessions of the Boston Public Library during the same period have been about 30,000 a year, and of the British Museum, about 28,000 a year; but these figures include both books and pamphlets, so that the New York Public Library has, in all probability, been growing far more rapidly than any library in the world. As regards the character of this increase, in so far as purchases are concerned, the established lines have been adhered to of creating a general reference library at the Astor, and improving and adding to the valuable collections relating to American history, commenced by Mr. Lenox; so that the increase in the New York Public Library has not only been great in numbers, but the standard has been entirely preserved.

The number of books and pamphlets received as gifts since the first of January, 1896, has been 125,000. These figures do not include the Ford Collection, which will number about 40,000 books and a like number of pamphlets. Some of the gifts received are, of course, duplicates; but, on the other hand, many of them have been rare and costly works or special collections of much interest. It is especially gratifying to see that it is becoming recognized among the citizens of New York that this library is the proper place in which to deposit such special collections, and thus make them available to students for the public good.

The addition of this large number of books has naturally involved many changes in the arrangement of the rooms in the two buildings and the addition of a large amount of shelving. At the beginning of 1896, the shelving in both buildings was insufficient and overcrowded. In the Astor the shelves contained two rows of books in some of the departments and at the Lenox many of the books were piled on the floor and more than half of the shelves were double-banked. To provide for this overcrowding and for the great number of books and pamphlets received, there has been added about 29,400 feet, or over five lineal miles of shelving, and of this new shelving 14,170 feet, or not quite one-half has been placed in the Lenox.

By using a large part of the first floor of the Astor Library over 50 per cent. has been added to the space in that building available for library purposes. The general catalogue for the whole Library is on this floor and the large rooms at the back have been filled with books.

CHANGES AND IMPROVEMENTS IN MANAGEMENT.

The following is a condensed statement of what has been accomplished in the way of affording increased accommodations to the public in the existing buildings:

1. The hours of opening have been extended, the libraries being now open from 9 A. M. to 6 P. M., as against the old hours from 10 A. M. to 4 P. M., or 5 P. M. in the summer. The libraries are not now closed on any days in the year, except Sundays, Christmas Day, New Year's Day and the Fourth of July.

2. The introduction of electric light into both the Astor and Lenox buildings was absolutely necessary to make the extended hours possible. The reading-rooms in both the Astor and Lenox are now well lighted by electricity, and the lower ranges of shelves in the Astor are sufficiently lighted to obtain books therefrom. In the upper part of the Astor it has not been possible, within reasonable expenditure, to introduce light, so that books cannot be obtained from these shelves after 4 P. M., in the winter.

3. Open reference shelves have been introduced in both libraries, on which many thousand books are open to the public freely, without the necessity of applying at the desk, which number of books it is intended steadily to increase.

4. The newest books at the Astor are placed on the desk in a special case open to the public view to give information as to the latest publications received.

5. The space formerly occupied by the catalogue department in the South Hall of the Astor has been removed to the first floor, and this space has been devoted to periodicals, the south reading room being also largely devoted to periodicals. The number of periodicals taken is increased, and the Library now receives over 3,000 of all kinds. A certain number of these are placed in an open reference case in the periodical room where readers can help themselves. This greatly relieves the crowd around the delivery desk in the center room.

6. At the Lenox the capacity of the reading-room has been doubled by the opening of a new reading-room at the north end for local history, genealogy and music, the books on these subjects at the Astor having been transferred to the Lenox.

7. Book lifts have been put in, both at the Astor and the Lenox, to increase the rapidity of service. The seats in the reading-room have been numbered, so that each reader can have his books sent to his numbered seat, as is done in the British Museum.

8. A subject catalogue on cards is in progress, which contains all the new books, and to which the old books are being added as rapidly as possible. This is the most effective improvement in progress, and at the same time the most expensive and difficult to complete. About one-half of the old books in the Library are now reclassified and catalogued in this subject catalogue. During the year 1898, 32,835 volumes and 21,074 pamphlets were catalogued and accessioned, making a total of 53,909. In the Boston Public Library the number of titles written in the catalogue department last year was 36,032, and in the same period in the British Museum it was 42,828.

9. A special attendant has been placed in charge of the open reference shelves at the Astor, whose duty it is to assist readers generally, to call attention to the shelves, and to aid in using the catalogue. It has been found that the services of this attendant are very highly appreciated.

10. A bindery on a moderate scale has been established at the Astor, which is chiefly devoted to repairing.

11. In the course of the reclassification of the Library a number of duplicates have been discovered, and a very considerable number of duplicates have also been received by gift. All such duplicates which appear to be suitable works for a circulating department have been carefully put aside separately for the use of such department in the future.

12. The publication of a monthly bulletin was commenced in January, 1897. Two volumes have now been published, and the substance and style of the publication has met with very general interest and approval among librarians and the public, and it is rapidly becoming a valuable medium of exchange with foreign institutions.

13. There are now at work in the Library twenty-one persons—one man and twenty women—who are learning the business of cataloguing, shelf listing, etc., by practical work in the several departments, accepting the instruction which they receive in lieu of compensation. It appears that the persons who are being thus instructed, as well as the Library, are the gainers by this, inasmuch as the time which a skilled cataloguer devotes to teaching these apprentices is more than compensated by the very considerable amount of work in copying, alphabetizing, filing cards, etc., which the pupils do in the course of their apprenticeship.

14. In 1897, what may be termed a library club was organized among the members of the staff, and meetings are held once a month in the evening. Various problems connected with library management are discussed, and especially questions of immediate interest to our Library. These meetings have been largely attended, have had an excellent influence in educating the younger members of the staff, and are of much interest to all.

The expenses of the Library exhaust its present income, taking into consideration the gaps to be filled in many departments, and the expensive "back work," in cataloguing and classifying, to be done. From this point of view, and particularly in view of the fact that we shall move from the present buildings within some reasonable time, it is doubtful whether anything of moment in the line of further extension or improvement can be expected with the present buildings. Any considerable increased use of the present libraries must apparently be by way of increased hours which, of course, implies the expense of increased service, besides considerable new plant, a large part of which will be a dead loss on removing to the new building. An estimate has been furnished the Committee, at the request of the Director, showing the cost of opening the Astor and Lenox reading rooms for three hours longer each evening, viz., only from 6 to 9, with the following result:

Astor Building :

Estimated increased clerical assistance, per month...	$530 00
Estimated additional fuel for light and heat.....	30 00
Estimated cost of night watchmen and attendant....	40 00
	<hr/>
	$600 00

or per year, $7,200.

(To furnish the necessary electric light, however, it would be necessary to duplicate the present electric plant, except boilers, at an expense of $1,750, and to undergo certain expenses for wiring in the upper alcoves.)

Lenox Building :

Additional clerical assistance, per month.....	$370 00
Estimated additional cost electric light.....	70 00
Estimated cost of additional attendant.....	20 00
“ “ fuel for heating	25 00
	<hr/>
	$485 00
	<hr/>

Total per year, $5,820.

Total annual expense for both buildings.....	$13,020 00
Sundry expenses not possible to estimate.....	1,980 00
	<hr/>

We are spending more than our annual income in order to get the Library properly catalogued and classified before moving, and such extra expenses must be continued for at least two years more. In view of this fact, and of the heavy expense which appears to be necessarily incident to opening the Library in the evenings, we are constrained to advise the Trustees that it is inexpedient to attempt to open either building at night. It might possibly be wise to open at least a portion of the Astor Building in the evening, as being the one most used, for some months immediately prior to moving to the new building.

It is a matter of great regret that the privileges of alcove readers have necessarily been curtailed at the Astor Building from actual want of space, and that it may be necessary to withdraw this privilege entirely. This will be a serious deprivation to many scholars whom the Public Library desires to serve; but fortunately such a deprivation will be but temporary.

NUMBER OF READERS.

The changes and improvements here outlined, accompanied by a rapid growth in the number of books, has largely increased the number of readers at both buildings. In the two Libraries in 1894 there were about 66,500 readers, who called for 243,700 books. In 1898, there were 106,000 readers, who called for 367,800 books, besides making very extensive use of the open reference shelves, of which, of course, there is no record.

On Saturday, February 18, 1899, there were in the Astor Building 395 readers, who called for 1,665 volumes, the greatest number on any one day in the history of the Library. Increase of readers is necessarily now checked because no further room can be provided for them, the limit of accommodation in the present building being exhausted. No further seats for readers can be supplied, and the capacity of the building for books is heavily taxed.

RESULTS OF CONSOLIDATION.

We have attached hereto certain schedules showing the expenses of the accessions, the attendance and various matters of interest by way of comparison, affecting our Library, the British Museum, the Bibliothèque Nationale and the Boston Public Library, which may be found interesting, and a comparative table, making comparison on several of these points, between the New York Public Library, the British Museum, the Boston Public Library, and the Congressional Library.

Entirely apart from the actual changes and improvements, and the growth, actual and relative, in books and readers, the results of consolidation and awakened interest have been apparent in every department of the libraries.

The Trustees will remember that, at the origin of the consolidation, it was thought prudent to secure a certain representation to the several libraries in the organization of the respective committees, and in the conduct of the affairs of the new corporation. They will recall with satisfaction that all such considerations have long since ceased to have the faintest weight, and that now no regard is paid to the particular needs of either of the three original corporations except as affecting the public interest.

The funds and material of each of the libraries have since the consolidation been fairly and intelligently devoted to increasing the uses of the Consolidated Library as a whole, with marked success, and with constantly increasing confidence from the public. This has been accomplished without friction in the Board, and with singular unanimity of opinion, especially when we bear in mind the many and varied subjects which have arisen or which have been under discussion.

It would be difficult in any moderate space fully to refer to all the proofs that the consolidation and improvements in administration have been appreciated by the public, and met by gifts, interest and increased use of the Library.

Apart from such large and valuable gifts as the Emmet Collection (the gift of Mr. Kennedy) and the Ford Collection (the gift of Messrs. Worthington and Paul Leicester Ford), many other valuable gifts of collections and rare books have constantly been made. One legacy of ten thousand dollars has already been given, and in addition every Trustee is aware of daily and constantly recurring manifestations of public interest and good-will.

All this has operated most effectively upon the staff of the Library, and the awakened and increasing interest and the quickened intelligence of the entire staff are most satisfactory.

It is moreover true that consolidation, increased resources and effective direction have enormously improved the general reputation and position of the Library as an educational agent, and in public consideration abroad. The readiness of the public authorities of other States, cities and countries, and the foreign representatives of the United States, to aid us in obtaining reports and publications shows an increased public estimate of the value of the work in which we are engaged.

It would be a matter of great injustice if due credit were not given to the Director, Dr. Billings, for the distinguished part he has taken in every improvement of administration, and for his large contribution to the present position of the Library.

When reference is made to the improvements effected, and the general improvement in tone, it must be clearly understood that no criticism or blame for past conditions is implied or intended. The difficulties and shortcomings of both the Astor and the Lenox were largely the result of having reached the limit of their possible development with the funds at their disposal, and under the then existing surroundings.

Organized as they were, and while invaluable to a class of students, they failed to excite public interest and to attract individual support; for nothing can compel large and increasing public interest except adequate endowment and the resulting capacity to keep entirely abreast of the public demands. This, of course, both the Astor and the Lenox Libraries absolutely lacked. It was difficult, and often impossible, for either to keep up with the necessary purchases, the increasing demands for periodicals, and other publications. It was never possible for either to properly catalogue and make accessible their purchases, to extend their hours, or to provide the necessary assistance. Such a situation was rapidly becoming intolerable, and the Trustees of both the existing libraries were helpless. If each proceeded with its own scheme of general development much duplication would necessarily arise, with a corresponding waste of funds and energy. If the Astor, the more general Library, could have succeeded in obtaining the funds needed to enrich its collection and permanently secure its position, the value of the collection would have imperatively demanded an improved fire-proof structure, which could not have been supplied except at a prohibitive cost.

If, in the face of the difficulties attending these two existing corporations, the Tilden Trust had proceeded to establish a third library, all these serious questions would have been repeated and multiplied.

If nothing had been done, the public authorities might have thought it necessary to establish still another Library, which at least would have possessed a dignified and safe library building.

Looking back four years, the experience of that period has plainly justified the prevision of the Trustees of the three consolidating corporations. The added endowment, which has come from the Tilden benefaction, has enabled the existing stores of books to be made accessible to readers; it has given opportunity for keeping the collections fairly up to the times; and it has supplied the means for greatly increasing the comfort and convenience of readers. Beyond, and more important than all this, the consolidation and change of name has enabled those conducting the New York Public Library to present it to the public and to the city authorities as an institution existing for the welfare of all the citizens of the metropolis, and appealing for support to all who are interested in the spread of learning. What the result of such a policy may prove to be in future can only be conjectured. In the four years which have passed the fact that the city authorities, with the unanimous approbation of the Legislature, have set apart a site, and have agreed to spend two and a half million dollars of money in erecting an adequate and permanent home for the Library, abundantly fulfills the hopes with which the consolidation was undertaken.

RICHARD HENRY LEE.

Letter: Lee (Richard Henry). New York, June 17, 1785. To —. Congress has just finished an ordinance for surveying and selling that part of the land north-west of the Ohio that has been purchased lately of the Indians; this and more to be acquired later will be devoted to payment of the domestic debt; the foreign debt will not be oppressive then; an American coinage, the regulation of the post office, and other important affairs are now before Congress; they hope for peace with the Barbary states; he inclines to think however that commercial finesse has been more operative than the enmity of those people to distress American commerce. Lithograph fac-simile of an A. L. S. in the possession of F. J. Dreer, Esq., Phila. 1 page. F°. With a portrait (wood engraving, on India paper) of Richard Henry Lee. EM. 3766

Also in Brotherhead's Book of the Signers, Phila., 1861, p. 95.

Letter: Lee (Richard Henry). Baltimore, Feb. 19, 1777. To John Page, Williamsburg, Va. Thanks him for his last letter; if their large galleys were manned, gunned, and fitted, the navigation of the bay would receive no interruption; wishes Virginia and Maryland would act jointly in the matter; advantages of the galleys; events of war are at a standstill until the new army assembles; the horses of the enemy are nearly all dead for want of forage; it is disgraceful to Americans that 6000 men determined upon their ruin should winter in their country; urges Page to press forward their quota; a war in Europe is not far off; they expect news soon upon the return of the vessel that carried Dr. Franklin to France; Page's brother and sister were inoculated three days ago; Congress is to return to Philadelphia on Wednesday next; a postscript adds that seamen put ashore by Com. Hotham report that the ships have great fear of our galleys. A. L. S. 2 pp. and 1 leaf with address. F°. EM. 3767

Portrait: Berkeley (Sir William)? Three-quarters length, standing; directed to the left, facing towards and looking to the front; long wig, lace cravat, breast plate, sash, left hand on hip. Mezzotint. [London, 18th century?] F°. EM. 3768

The inscription has been cut away and the print reduced to 8½ in. in height by 5 15-16 in. in breadth. Compare the engraving described in J. C. Smith's British Mezzotinto Portraits, part 3, p. 1367, by R. Thompson after Sir Peter Lely; this latter is a portrait of Sir William Berkeley (1639-1666), vice-admiral, and not of Sir William Berkeley, governor of Virginia.

Document: Lee (Richard). [Fairfax, Va., Sept. 19, 1771.] Deposition to the effect that he, with others, had agreed to ship tobacco by Joshua Pollard of the ship Fryar of Liverpool, Pollard engaging to be in the Potomac in March; that since Pollard did not appear until about June 5, they considered themselves released from the contract; though Lee shipped his tobacco by Pollard as a favor, others refused to do so. D. S. Certified to before John West, at Fairfax, Va., Sept. 19, 1771, and signed by him. 1½ pp. F°. EM. 3771

Letter: Lee (Thomas). Stratford, [Va.,] Dec. 20, 1749. To [James Hamilton, deputy-governor of Pennsylvania]. Since he wrote last he has written also to the Lords of the Treasury asking for the King's order for running the dividing line between the two colonies; otherwise great difficulty will arise upon the seating of the grants to the westward of the mountains; this was the method adopted by the Earl of Grenville and Lord Fairfax; he acquaints him with the matter that there may be no surprise and no delay in so important a case. A. L. S. 1½ pp. 8°. EM. 3772

FRANCIS LIGHTFOOT LEE.

Letter: Lee (Francis Lightfoot) and Wormeley (Ralph). Mount Airy, [Va.,] Mar. 12, 1784. To George Washington. The enclosed letters were received last summer, but they delayed sending them until he was at leisure and free from public cares; they are totally ignorant of Col. Tayloe's part in the affair, which is the subject of Mr. Montagu's letter; they know only that the estate has been sold; they ask if he can give them, for Mr. Montagu, any light on the subject. Letter: Lee (William). London, Mar. 21, 1771. To John Tabb [James River, Virginia]. Informs him that he is now settled in London in the tobacco trade, and would esteem Tabb's favors a peculiar obligation; he is almost sick of politics since the base desertion by the northern colonists of every good and noble principle; the most provoking circumstance is that there was the greatest probability of everything's being set right had they persevered one season more; small chance of redress now; by the papers sent herewith he will see that America is not alone in feeling the iron rod of ministerial tyranny. A. L. S. 2 pp. 4°. EM. 3810

Portrait: Jefferson (Thomas). Monticello, [Va.,] Dec. 8, [18]21. To Mrs. Elizabeth Page.

Regrets that he can give her no information, as requested in her letter of Nov. 27, respecting the sacrifices of property to the relief of his country made by her father, Thomas Nelson, while in office during the revolution; Jefferson retired in May, 1781, before the continental currency had become so greatly depreciated; General Nelson succeeded him; the rapid depreciation of the currency and the expenses attendant upon the siege of Yorktown probably led Nelson to assume responsibilities for which the public credit was insufficient; Jefferson was at home at the time and was soon after sent to Congress and thence to Europe. JOSEPH HEWES.

Letter: Hewes (Joseph). Edenton, [N. C.], May 12, 1779. To Gov. Richard Caswell. News has come that the enemy have landed at Portsmouth in Virginia and are marching on Suffolk; it is thought that this town will be one of their objects; the public stores are being put on vessels to be carried up the river, and preparations are making for defence, but it must be a very feeble one unless succors arrive in time. Letter: Hewes (Joseph). Edenton, [N. C.], May 11, 1777. To Thomas Burke, Philadelphia. He intended to set out for Philadelphia Apr. 1st, but the Assembly elected [John] Penn as a delegate in his place; a story had been circulated about him by Penn, that he held two offices, incompatibly with the constitution, being a member of Congress and of the secret committee of Congress, and that he was making a fortune through the latter office; [William] Hooper was chosen also, but resigned the next day, and [Cornelius] Harnett was then elected; the latter is laid up with the gout; sympathizes with Burke, knowing how disagreeable it is to serve alone in Congress, and doubts how much the arrival of Penn will relieve him; he himself will soon set out for Boston to prosecute the owner of the privateer that took his brigantine. JOHN PENN

Letter: Penn (John). Philadelphia, June 25, 1777. To Gov. Richard Caswell, N. C. On his way hither he learned that salt sold at $20 a bushel in Maryland; a number of merchants have made it a business to buy up the necessities of life in order to fix what price they please; cautions the Governor to prevent this pernicious practice in North Carolina; the enemy have retreated from Brunswick; Gen.

Washington thinks that the willingness with which the militia turned out is one reason for their desire to get back to New York; the people here have postponed all disputes about their form of government. REPORT FOR MARCH.

During the month of March, there were received at the Library by purchase 798 books and 490 pamphlets, and by gift 6,695 volumes and 4,644 pamphlets.

There were catalogued 5,933 volumes and 1,909 pamphlets, for which purpose 23,126 cards and 2,963 slips for the printer were written.

The following table shows the number of readers, and the number of volumes consulted, in both the Astor and Lenox Branches of the Library, during the month:

	LENOX.	ASTOR.
Total number of readers.....	3,254	9,156
Daily average of readers.....	117	339
Number of volumes consulted.....	8,883	34,815

Among the important gifts of the month were the following—Major S. T. Armstrong, 176 volumes, 559 pamphlets, 215 newspapers and 13 maps. Among these were 30 volumes of the Boletín oficial de la Provincia de Puerto Principe, 1885–1898, annual reports of the various provinces of Cuba, a copy of the colonial constitution of Cuba and Porto Rico, accompanied by the laws of the autonomous regimen relating to imports and exports, and a large number of acts, orders, proclamations, Chinese cooley contracts in manuscript, and also a rare directory of Havana for 1859; from S. P. Avery, 41 volumes and 7 pamphlets; from John Bigelow, 299 miscellaneous documents and 1,200 pamphlets; from the Century Association 1,090 volumes and 880 newspapers; from the Military Governor of Cuba, 38 General orders; from Mrs. Henry Draper, 4 volumes of Hungarian music; from Alexander Maitland, 13 volumes and 61 pamphlets; from the Rev. F. H. Marling, 74 volumes and 20 pamphlets, all relating to the Presbyterian Church; from the Mexican Secretary of Foreign Affairs, 11 volumes and 4 pamphlets; from the Military Governor of Porto Rico, 182 General Orders; from M. Taylor Pyne, a copy of the Sesquicentennial of Princeton; and from the Venezuelan Legation, 14 volumes and 8 pamphlets, relating to the Boundary question.

The Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the City of New York has authorized the issue of bonds to the amount of $500,000 to be used in removing the 42nd Street reservoir and in laying the foundations for the new building for the New York Public Library, and this action has been approved by the Board of Aldermen. The plans and specifications for this part of the work have been approved by the municipal authorities and the Park Department is now advertising for bids for the work.

VIRGINIA PAPERS, 1616-1619.

The following documents are printed from the papers collected by John Smyth, one of the early colonizers of Virginia. He was educated at Oxford and at the Middle Temple, then became steward to his friend Lord Berkeley, and later retired to his estate at North Nibley, four miles from Berkeley. In 1618 he entered into a partnership with Sir William Throckmorton, Sir George Yardley, Richard Berkeley, and George Thorpe, for a plantation in Virginia. A calendar of this collection of papers was printed in the Bulletin for July, 1897, and two selections from the papers have been printed before in the issue for March, 1897. The arrangement here is chronological.

BRYAN CAVE TO GEORGE THORPE.

Salutem in Christo.

S^r vnderstanding by our governour that you haue beene by some discouraged as touching your shaire, insomuch that when you came into the court to tender your monny for the supplying of the sayd shaire you were informed that your land was nothing woorth, but full of rocks, whervppon you reserued your monney telling them that when you were informed the truth thereof you would supply it accordingly till when you would make stay of your supply. wherfore that lying next vnto m^r webbs shaires whose land I mannage, on v acres wherof of I haue taken some paines, supposing the first deuision should stand, I haue thought it fitting and expedient to make you acquainted of the truth therof; and as concearning the same I assure you that as the olde subdeuision stood your ground was little woorth, in regard your land was soe narrow that there could bee noe fences left, but as our new subdeuision now stands which must continue being that all your ground lyeth together your shaire is as good as any one in all the trybe both for ground, timber, and fresh water and fishing, and as conveniently it lyeth: wherfore I would not haue you to bee discouraged a whitt touching the same: for though the ill resolution of your subdeuision hath hindered your proffitts, yet I doubt not, but that if you supply, both with plants and other necessaryes; your commodities shall bee greater. furthermore being that your ground lyeth next to our sheares, I will if it shall seeme pleasing vnto you vndertake the ouerseeing & ordering therof, and allsoe our gouernour will allow mee a man for the mannuring therof which charg (if this my motion shall woorke effect) I must and will by gods grace vse my best indeauors. there is hope of these Ilands, and much more would there bee, if wee were ridd of our generall enemyes the rattts, whose increase is innumerable, and much is to be feared wilbee the subuersion of this plantacon, if you and all other woorthy minded aduenturers doe not deuise some course for their distruction: In meane tyme our gouernor (by whose prouident care all inconveniences shall bee prevented) (whose industrious example all other men shall be induced to follow) hath given straight charg and comãd to all inhabitants, both by poison & trapps so much as in them lyeth to woorke their confusion. Thus not doubting but that you shall receiue letters of encouragment from more than my self, with my loue & comẽdacons vnto you I committ you to gods preseruatiõ resting

THROCKMORTON AND THE OTHERS TO SIR GEORGE YARDLEY.

To our honorable frend Sr George Yardley knight governour of Virginia geve this.

Sr we hold it fit to let you knowe, That since your departure from England, we have procured our patent for plantacon in Virginia (a copy whereof we herewith send vnto you written by the virginian boy of mee George Thorpe) wherin accordinge to your agreement with mee George Thorpe, your name is vsed for five shares, done by the advise of Sr Edwine Sands, but if you please to cast more of your shares amongst vs (which we also wish) we shall willingly assent theirvnto.

We had also sent our men and ship at this tyme, but that it hath pleased god to keep her wind bound in Ireland since before your departure to this present, where yet shee remayneth: By which onely accident we have lost this season, but doe entend (god willinge) that shee shall leave the coast of England, by the first of August next with fifty men furnished for that country. And doe earnestly desire before that tyme (if possible) to vnderstand from you what proportion of victuall and munition will bee fit to send with them.

Of which ship and company we hereby offer you a full fift parte if it soe please you to accept thereof, And doe entreat your effectuall furtherance in choyce of the place where wee shall sit downe, and all other favors whereof you will be pleased to make vs your friends partakers, which we in England shall be most willinge to requite.

If of this our offer you accept Then are you to send by the returne of this ship soe much good marchantable comodities as doth amount to a fifth parte, An accompt of the charge whereof we will send you by the ship.

Even soe with our frendly respects we rest

Your very lovinge frends

Whereas a voyage is (by the grace of god) intended into the land of Virginia with a shippe called the Margaret of Bristoll, of the burden of forty seven tun or therabouts, within ten dayes next at the farthest, furnished with thirty & two men and other necessary provisions at the charges of the said parties, for plantacon in the said land, with an intent and agreement amongst themselves to encrease the said number aswell with men already abydinge in the said land, as with others to be hereafter sent out of England, And wheras for the intent and purpose aforesaid, and the better to enable the said plantacon, they the said S^r Willm Throckmorton, Richard Berkeley, George Thorpe and John Smyth have in their owne names and in the name of S^r George Yardley knight nowe governor of the said land of Virginia, procured in ffebruary last past from the Treasurer and company of Adventurers and planters of the city of London for the first Collony in Virginia, by the advise and consent of the Counsell of the same, one Indenture of Covenants and grants to the effect aforesaid, as by the same may appeare.

* "Cancelled" is a marginal note set opposite this in the hand of John Smith.

And wheras also for the better orderinge and government^t aswell of the said people and men nowe ready to be shipped, and of those that shall hereafter bee sent in augmentacon of their number, and of some others alredy beinge in Virginia, As also of all such affayres and businesses that may in the said Cuntry happen to arise, they the said S^r Willm Throkmorton Richard Berkeley George Thorpe and John Smyth have made and delyu^{er}ed to the said John Woodleefe vnder their hands and seales one Comission of the date hereof, thereby nomynatinge and authorisinge him to bee Captayne and governor over the said people and men, to performe and execute his said office and authority by and accordinge to such ordinances directions and instructions as they the said S^r Willm, Richard, George, and John have lymited in writinge and delyu^{er}ed vnto him the said John Woodleefe, and of such other as they shall hereafter prescribe, which the said John Woodleefe hereby covenanteth to execute and see performed accordingly; Nowe it is mutually and particularly further covenanted and agreed by and betwene all and euery the said parties to theis presents in manner and forme followinge.

1. And first they the said S^r Willm Throkmorton, Richard Berkeley, George Thorpe and John Smyth doe mutually agree, That the place in Virginia where their said governor and people shall first sit downe, plant and build vpon, shall bee called Berkeley, And their lands and territory about the same shalbee called Berkeley Hundred, as well that land accruinge vnto them vpon this their first plantacon and shares already purchased, As also vpon the second accrument, allotment, or division, and of all shares hereafter also by them to be purchased (if any bee) vnles the same shall fall out in a farre remote distance from the place of their first plantacon, And the same towne to be hereafter incorporated in such manner and forme and with such lymits and bounds as hereafter by them or any three of them shall be in wrytinge agreed upon.
- 2 Item it is mutually Covenanted and agreed vpon each with other by and betwene the said S^r Willm Throkmorton Richard Berkeley George Thorpe and John Smyth, That all manner of charges and disbursements already made or hereafter to bee made in any wise touchinge or concerninge the affayres or businesses of Virginia, or the prosecution of this or any other future voyages, shall be borne and defrayed at their equall costs and charges in all things, And the property and interest of all things touching or concerning y^e said affaires of Virginia bought or to bee bought or payd for, or which in any kind or Condition either in England or Virginia shall accrue or arise to them or their benefit, shall come and remayne in equall partes benefit and interest to each of them. And that noe losse or damage, benefit or gayne shall fall or accrewe to any of them their executors, admynistrators or assignes by the death or survivor of any of them more or lesse, then if they were all of them fower still lyvinge
3. Item it is likewise mutually covenanted and agreed vpon by and betwene the said S^r Willm Richard George and John, each with other seuerally and respectively each for himself to and with the other That in all their Counsells consultacions resolutions and determynacions in or about any the said voyages or affayres, or of any thinge in reference or relation theirvnto, If they fower shall not agree entirely and fully in one and the same mynd opynion or determinacon, but that any one of them shall differ or discent from the mynd or opynion of the other three, That the resolution, determinacon and proceedinge shall bee as the greater parte of them fower shall agree vnto and determine of in wrytinge.* And that noe matter of busines in any wise concerninge the promisses, shall bee agreed vnto but as aforesaid, And beinge once agreed vnto & determined as aforesaid shall not bee altered infringed or neglected in the prosecucion but by like assent agreement or dispensacon of three at the least as aforesaid, and as the case shall requyre.

- 4 Item whereas the said Richard Berkeley hath not hithervnto procured or purchased any land in Virginia by way or course of one or more shares, as the said Sr Willm Throkmorton George Thorpe and John Smyth have already seuerally done, It is neuerthelesse mutually agreed and assented vnto by all of them, That if more Shares shall bee hereafter purchased bought or obtayned, by any of them fower Joyntly or severally, That (to the end equall privyledge may bee enioyed by them all fower) the same shall be payd for equally and each of them to bee equally interested in the land obtayned by such purchase of such shares, wherein each of them is leaft at his severall liberty to contract and buy as himself pleaseth more or lesse of such Shares, not exceedinge in all to any one aboue 10 the peece, with those already had.
5. Item wheras the said John Woodleefe hath at his owne charges about Aprill last transported fower men into Virginia beinge in his family nowe there abydinge with his wife and children who are by severall agreements by severall Indentures to serve him for fower yeares the peece or neere therabouts, And hath also furnished them at his like charges with apparell and Armes It is agreed That the charges layd out and sustayned by him about the same shall bee allowed againe vnto him (deductinge his owne partes pro rata as after followeth) And that the said fower men and such others as shall bee by him the said John Woodleefe drawne into the Virginia family wherof hee is appoynted Captayne and governor, whether natives or English shall bee as Joynt servants in equall interest pro rata, to all the parties herevnto, and to stand assocyated in each respect and as members and parts of the said family
6. Item the said John Woodleefe hereby Covenanteth and agreeth with all and euery of the said parties to theis presents, That none of such men or servants as hee hath or shall have any iurisdiction power, government or authority over, whether of his present family nowe there abydinge or derived from Sr Thomas Wayneman or any others, shall bee setled or placed or abide on that side the ryver called the kings ryver, where this present Collony, whereof he goeth governor shall sit downe, vnles full ten English myles from them. And that hee will not have directly or indirectly any other family or parte of any then this Colony aforesaid nor any other government by himselfe alone, or Joyntly with any other person or persons, Then onely with amongst and over such as nowe are sent with him under his conduct, and of such as by the other parties herevnto shall

* The following was written and then stricken through: "And the same to bee forthwith redily and willingly assented and submitted vnto, by that party (otherwise opynionate) as if such party had not dissented or otherwise argued or spoken against or differently at all, without any vnwillingnes or longer resemblance thereof."

bee hereafter sent vnto him, and shall and will lvye and converse with and amongst such their said Colony and servants, and not of elsewhere. And also shall and will from tyme to tyme doe his honest and faithfull best endeavors to benefit and advance the same Colony and the particular profit of the parties herevnto, without drawinge or derivinge to himselfe from henceforth any pryvate or particular gayne or profit, directly or indirectly, other then what shall truly come and redownd to himself and the parties herevnto vpon accompt, accordinge to his seuerall portion and portions in theis presents expressed.

7. Item whereas also it is purposed by the parties herevnto within one yeare next (god soe assistinge) to transport thirty or more other men for like plantacon in Virginia, vnder the gouernement of Willm Chester Esq;., It is hereby expressed and declared, That the like Commission and instructions with like power and authority and vnder the like Condictions respectively shall bee conferred on him, as nowe it is vpon the said John Woodleefe (mutatis mutandis) And that both their Colonies and companies shall bee from tyme to tyme as neere as may bee, supplied and maintayned in equall numbers of men and all other provisions, And that each of them the said Willm Chester and John Woodleefe shall have contynuanee in their severall governments till a Division bee made by the said Sr Willm Throckmorton Richard Barkeley George Thorpe and John Smyth or three of them. And that each of them in lieu of their seuerall intertainments cares and paynes shall have allowed vnto them a full xxvth parte apeece of the wholl cleere gaynes and profits from tyme to tyme duringe their governments cominge and arysinge from their Colonyes or families in Virginia, To bee payd vnto them after sale of such goods in England or elsewhere.
- 8 Item it is agreed That at the tyme that particon of lands, men, goods and chattles, shalbee made betwene the parties herevnto whome it shall concerne, That each man shall first make his choyce of such three men as best liketh him, out of eyther of the said two Colonyes or families, as were by himselfe drawne into the Journy and provided to bee sent over, Consideracon beinge theirin had of their severall termes of yeares then not expyred, to bee set downe by the rest of the partners or the more parte of them.
9. Item whereas the said Sr Willm Throckmorton Richard Berkeley George Thorpe and John Smyth have heretofore agreed at equall charges amongst themselves to buy and provide all things touching their said plantacions, aswell past, nowe present and to come, And wheras Sr George Yardley knight nowe governor of Virginia, beinge named a Joynt patentee in the said Indenture hath heretofore by his lettre dated the fourth of December last, written to the said Sr Willm, vndertaken to furnish and lade backe the parte of his adventure out of such goods and comodyties to be sent from Virginia vpon returne of this ship as might countervaille his fift parte desiringe that his said parte of charge might bee layd out and disbursed for him in the meane tyme. It is nowe agreed vnto vpon the desire of the said John Woodleefe, That if in case the said Sr George shall relinquish his said fifthe parte vpon conference to be had betwene them two in Virginia, That then the said John Woodleefe shall be admitted theirvnto payinge vpon returne of the said ship in mony or good merchantable wares soe much as vpon accompt shall appeare to bee a fifthe parte, And as the fifth parte of the other patentees iustly cometh vnto, which he covenanteth hereby to pay and performe accordingly.

[10] Item it is hereby agreed and declared that the said John Woodleefe shall stand Adventurer with the said Sr Willm Throkmorton for a full third parte of his adventure, over and besides his fifthe parte from Sr George Yardley if it accrewe to him, Each of the said Adventurers and parties to theis presents hereby mutually and respectively covenantinge and promisinge with each other, to beare satisfy and pay at the dayes and tymes requysite and appoynted, All such monies as to their seuerall partes doth or shall from tyme to tyme appertayne, for the good and effectuall furtherance and prosecucon of the said voyage & affaires, it beinge not restrayned to any of the said patentees to take vnto them, vnder theis agreements such partners as they shall like of but not to beare voyce in any consultacon or resolucon

11. Item whereas—xxxiiij^{li} by the month is agreed to bee payd to Edward Williams of the City of Bristoll marchant for hire of the said ship, And—iiij^{li} x^s by the month to Toby ffelgate pylot for his wages within fiftene dayes after returne of the said ship As by bonds and other securities given for payment therof by some of the parties herevnto may appeare, It is hereby agreed That for the more assured payment therof there shall bee by the said Sr Willm, Richard, George and John Smyth delyuered to Mr William Yeomans vicar of St. Phillips (appoynted Treasurer for the said voyage & affaires) fifty pounds the peece before the Twentieth of January next for the better performance whereof, and of all and singular Covenants and agreemen^{ts} in theis presents mencioned, each party bindeth himselfe his heires executors admynistrators and assignes seuerally and apart each to other respectively in the penall some of Two hundred pounds the peece. In witness whereof the said parties to theis presents Enterchangeably as appertayneth have put their hands and seales the day and yeare first above written.

[Endorsed by John Smyth:] Covenants & agreemen^{ts} mutually amongst ourselves. 1619. 17. Jac.

REPORT FOR APRIL.

During the month of April, there were received at the Library by purchase 2,193 books and 550 pamphlets, and by gift 15,435 volumes and 8,360 pamphlets.

There were catalogued 7,085 volumes and 2,389 pamphlets, for which purpose 22,114 cards and 2,493 slips for the printer were written.

The following table shows the number of readers, and the number of volumes consulted, in both the Astor and Lenox Branches of the Library, during the month:

	LENOX.	ASTOR.
Total number of readers.....	2,683	7,605
Daily average of readers.....	107	304
Number of volumes consulted.....	7,210	31,071

Among the important gifts of the month were the following—from Lady Meux, 1 volume, a fac-simile of an Ethiopian manuscript, entitled “Lives of Mabâ Sěyôn and Gabra Krěstôs;” from the Equitable Life Assurance Society, 493 volumes and 241 pamphlets; from Charles H. Russell, 16 volumes; from S. P. Avery, 14 volumes and 5 pamphlets; from Miss S. C. Hill, 42 volumes and 132 pamphlets; from the Diocese of New Jersey, 16 volumes and 8 pamphlets; from the Baltimore City Library, 25 volumes of City documents; from Eliot Norton, 3 volumes and 58 pamphlets; from the New Jersey State Geologist, 10 volumes; from Mrs. Henry Draper, 42 volumes and 8 pamphlets, being the works of Dr. John W. Draper, translated into Russian, Georgic, Arabic, etc.; from Earl Cowper, 2 volumes, “Cartularium Monasterii Sancti Johannis Baptista de Colecestria"; from the Government of Costa Rica, 38 volumes and 90 pamphlets; from Hon. Bernard F. Martin, 26 volumes and 5 pamphlets; from the Mayor of Genoa, 56 volumes and 16 pamphlets; and from the Ford brothers, 1,538 volumes and 8,718 pamphlets, making the total number of their gift 33,549 volumes and 73,718 pamphlets. Mr. Maitland presented the following books:—"Maffei of Volterra, Commentariorum Urbanorum, etc.," Rome, 1506, containing a brief account of the discovery of America by Columbus; "A true account of the unjust, cruell, and barbarous proceedings against the English at Amboyna in the East Indies, by the Neatherlandish governour and counsell there," London, 1624; "Life and adventures of Colonel Daniel Boone, written by himself," Brooklyn, 1828; "A collection of psalms and hymns," Charles-Town, printed by Lewis Timothy, 1737, being John Wesley's first hymn book (an extended account of the book is to be found in Notes and Queries, fifth series, vol. 10, page 305, 1878); and "A true and historical account of the colony of Georgia in America," by P. Tailfer, Charles-Town, printed by P. Timothy, 1741, being the first American edition and very rare.

Among the important purchases of the month was a volume of a collection of Maryland laws, 1727, being one of the first books printed in Maryland, and the first collection of laws published there. This was the only volume needed to complete the Library's set of the early laws of that State. Another purchase was that of a collection of Spanish laws, namely, "Colleccion legislativa de Espana,—Decretos del ray,—la reina,—las Cortes, etc.," edicion oficial, 1808-1891, Madrid, 1810-1893. The set comprises all the laws relating to the Spanish colonies, as well as all general acts of the Government.

VIRGINIA PAPERS, 1619.

INSTRUCTIONS TO CAPTAIN WOODLEAF.

Ordinances direccions and Instructions to Captaine John Woodleefe for the gouernment of o^r men and servants in the Towne and hundered of Bearkley in Virginia giuen by vs S^r Willm Throkmorton knight and barronet Richard Bearkley Esq; George Thorpe esq; and John Smyth gent wherevnto our commission of the date hereof made to the said captaine Woodleefe hath reference, the fourth day of September 1619 Anno xvij^o Jac. regis Angliæ &c

- 1 Impr wee ordaine that the day of our ships arrivall at the place assigned for plantacon in the land of Virginia shall be yearly and perputualy kept holy as a day of thanksgiuing to Almighty god.
- 2 Item wee doe ordaine that the lords day be kept in holy and religious order and that all bodily labour and vaine sports and scandalous recreations be refrained, and that morning and evening prayer (according to the english booke of common prayer) be Dayly read and attended vnto and such other divine exercises of preaching and reading to be on the said day vsed, as it shall please god to enable the minister for the tyme there being to performe. And that all such other festivalls and holidayes be observed and kept which are authorised and appoynted by the lawes and statutes of this realme of England, And the rites and ceremonies authorized prescribed or apoynted by the ecclesiasticall lawes or channons of this realme of England and booke of co^mon prayer (established by authority) be in all things observed and kept, according as it is vsed in the church of England.

- 3 Item wee do ordayne and direct, that you our gouernor and all our people and servants assemble togeather once a day to prayer, imediatly after the fore-noone labour ended and before dinner And that the person then absent (you our gouernor and yo^r assistants hereafter named exepted) shalbe punished with the losse of his supp the same evening vnles the minister or yo^r selfe allowe of his excuse or cause of his absence
- 4 Item wee will and require that vpon yo^r arrivall in the kings river in Virginia or in any branch thereof that yo^u take especiall care for choice of the place where yo^u first sett downe and entend for yo^r settled habitacon, (be it one this side or beyond James towne) that the same be healthy for ayre and accomodate with fresh water and easy for accesse vnto with shipe pinnace or barge rich also in mould and soyle and of most likelyhoode to bring fourth the best commodities of that cuntry either already knowne or 'by vs hoped for, And iron oare silke grasse mulbery trees for norishing of silke wormes, apt for vines, english wheat, maize and other virginia corne and for rice, Aniseeds flax oade oyle seede and the like, rich also in meadow and pasture for cattell and in timber for shipping and other vses, and alsoe convenient and vsefull for fowle fish and the like, And that yo^u resolute not on the place without the advice of yo^r assistants hereafter named and the assent of the greater number of them, Wherein allsoe wee will yo^u to proceede with the advice of S^r George Yardley gouernor of that kingdome, deliuering our letters written vnto him in that behalfe, provided that you settle not but where the natiues, (if any be or clayme) are first avoyded by composicon
- 5 Item wee doe ordayne and direct that imediatly after the place of habitacon is agreed vppon in manner aforesaid, that yo^u cause forthwith to be erected houses fit for the present shelter and succor of our people which as wee suppose, may be for the better expedicon built homelike and to be couered with bordes of which we commend to yo^r especiall care the framing of twoo, where of the one for the safe keeping of the tooles implements of husbandry powder, shott, Armor, and victuall, which we wish may be be [sic] strongly planted on the inside: And the other for your assemblies at time of prayer and time of diet, and our further direction is, That if the ship shall disburden for lading before the said storehouses for receipt thereof cane be built, That then the same be vnladen into the co^mon warehouse in James Towne, or the Bermuday grana^y by the gouernors order and therevnto first obtained.
- 6 Item wee doe ordaine that with all convenient expedicon, yo^u cause to be inclosed 400 acres (or more) with a stronge pale of seaven foote and halfe highe whereby such corne grayne seeds vines Tobacco, and the like as shalbe sown or planted and such cattle as shalbe transported by vs or provided in Virginia, will be more safely preserved.

- 7 Item wee doe nominate and comēd vnto yo^u as yo^r assistants for yo^r better exection of the authority by vs on yo^u conferred, fferdinando yeat, John Blanchard Richard Godfrey Rowland Panter and Thomas Coppy, of whose seuerall integrities and discretions wee hauing made a sufficient triall do therefore ordaine, that in all businesses of import of what kind soever, you take theire advise, and the assent of the greatest parte of them fūe: And that they diet with and as yo^r selfe, at one and the same table togeather And that alsoe all the rest doe diet togeather, and to be equally provided for as nere as may be:
- 8 Item we doe ordaine, that there shalbe an ordinary Corps dewe gard each night in our towne of Bearkley, to consist at the first of fūe, to succede in torne as the company will afford and afterwards as yo^r number shall encrease whereof one to be of the number of those seaven that shall be deputie and called, captaines of the watche.
9. Item for the more decent and comley gouerment and ordering of our famyly wee substitute and appoynt, fferdinando yeat to be antient, and Rowland Paynter Sergeant of the company, And John Blanchard to be steward of the houshold and clarke of the store of apparrell and beding And the said Rowland Paynter to be clarke of the kitchin, with two or more (as Caters or cuntry Purvires) to be associated vnto him, And Henry Perce to be vsher of the hall and Thomas Partridg now abiding in Virginia (if he mynd vnto to be balyffe of our husbandries, if not, then whone yo^u and yo^r assistants shall thinke meete, and the said fferdinando yeat to take care of our Armor and of all our tooles of husbandry.
10. Item wee doe ordayne that if it shall soe please god that M^r Woodleefe dye before the Arivall of M^r Chester, That then the gouerment of our families and of our affayres shall remaine with and vnder those Assistants, and the survivors of them that we haue before associated vnto M^r Woodleefe and if it shall please god that either M^r Woodleefe or M^r Chester shall die after both of them are arrived in Virginia, That then the gouerment of both famylies shall remaine with and vnder the survivor of them ayded with the assistants of bothe families.

REPORT FOR MAY.

During the month of May, there were received at the Library by purchase 601 volumes and 1,117 pamphlets, and by gift 1,385 volumes and 3,667 pamphlets.

There were catalogued 5,956 volumes and 3,470 pamphlets, for which purpose 23,005 cards and 2,958 slips for the printer were written.

The following table shows the number of readers, and the number of volumes consulted, in both the Astor and Lenox Branches of the Library, during the month:

	LENOX.	ASTOR.
Total number of readers.....	2,428	7,127
Daily average of readers.....	90	264
Number of volumes consulted.....	6,479	34,989

Among the important gifts of the month were the following—from the Century Association, 82 volumes and 1,465 periodicals; from Mr. Paul L. Ford, 151 old pamphlets; from the Russian Minister of Finance, 122 volumes and 26 pamphlets; from Mrs. Henry Draper, 2 volumes; from the Northern Jurisdiction of Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite, 23 volumes; from various departments of the Government of Mexico, 235 volumes and 237 pamphlets; and from Mr. Alexander Maitland, one volume of the Royal Pennsylvania Gazette, covering the period from March 3d to May 22d, 1778. There were also received a large number of municipal documents from some of the more important European cities, such as Copenhagen, Bergen, Turin, Marseilles, etc.

The contract for removing the Reservoir on Fifth Avenue and 42d Street, and for constructing the foundations of the new Library Building, has been awarded by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, to Contractor Eugene Lentilhon, and the work of removal has commenced.

SMYTH TO BERKELEY.

Sr:

I perceiue by Compayringe former lettres with these of m^r Woodleefes now receiued, That our payment to m^r Willms for the freight of our ship & the wages of Toby flfelgate must be payd by .4. parts because the fift part as was articled & hoped by vs cometh not nor is likely to come eyther from Sr Geo: Yardley or m^r Woodleefe: I rather much doubt by many aduertisements which I dayly receyve from his both old & newe doares & doings whether he will be be able to hold a third part with m^r Tracy for he hath deeply sophisticated with vs

Then admiting that we are to pay for .9. monthes for the ship at .33^{li} the month that cometh to .297^{li} & for Toby flfelgates wages at iiij^{li} x^s the month & for his mans xvij^s the month cometh to .48^{li} 12^s of which m^r Williams is to pay to them by his agreement (at least) .25^s the month & then to them two resteth for vs to pay .37^{li} 7^s Sm total which we are to pay to both of them cometh to .334^{li} 7^s ex. Towards which m^r Williams for our ship sold him hath vnder his hand acquitted vs of .60^{li} And also he received .44^s in .2. pieces in part in earnest of m^r Woodleefe, which Woodleefe accounted to vs And also .1^s he took into his hands from Songer who should have gone surgeon for vs which we imprest to him towards furnishing his surgeons chest And also m^r Woodleefes present lettres enform vs That m^r Williams is to allowe for .56^{li} of biskets one great iron frying pan and one great iron pot which as I gather by your book of accompt stood vs in somewhat above .xv^s And also .7^{li} 10^s for fish & xij^s for .2. bushels of corne delyuered by m^r Woodleefe in Virginia for the mariners provision in their return homewards. All which being 73^{li} 11^s And allowed vnto vs. Then resteth to m^r Williams and m^r flfelgate for vs to pay .260^{li} 16^s

The .4.th parte wherof being .65^{li} 4^s is yo^r owne, And the .3. parte for m^r Thorp m^r Tracy and myselfe cometh to .195^{li} 12^s Towards which three partes of ours you have of m^r Thorps mony in yo^r hands .45^{li} 18^s And of myne .34^{li} v^s x^d In all—80^{li} 3^s 10^d Then resteth more to come to you in all for our .3. parts .115^{li} 8^s 10^d which to bring to your hands my man by me is purposely sent to you from london.

I have sent you Woodleef's ioynt lettre agayne which gives to vs here small content, & the foolery of his contemplative newe magazen (not to be furnished for .1000^{li}) & of y^e newest fashion, lesse. But of him & it, more when I wayt on you in July next if god soe please, In the meane tyme we have a gouernor none of the wisest providentest nor observantest of our direcons breaking through orders for dyet and society, sale of our men taking newe charge of others servants to drawe to his pryvate vnder color thereof, our publike ec. I cannot for the present but much marvell that you have noe pryvate lettres from Rowland Painter, nor I any from John Blanchard who vowed to mee, true & secret aduertisement^t (which I beleeeve because he is honest) especially touching m^r Woodleefe & his estate, behaviour & vsage of our men & other observacons, neyther hath the wife of Rich Godfrey any lettre from her husband, I fear the old Virginian trick of surprise of lettres (if not counterfeiting also) is cast vpon vs by m^r Woodleefe, And the rather because he followed the ship to the mouth of the ryver, as the date of his postscript .Hickaton .18. marcij.

Onely our ancient Yate none of the wisest wryteth too much but all of one syde. Besides what is aforesaid of right we are in all equity (as to mee seemeth to have abatemen^t from m^r Williams for .2. monthes needles stay in Virginia above our .50. dayes for noe occasion of ours but to amend his weak ship which I leave to yo^r consideracon, not knowing what the order of merchants is herein.

M^r Tracy contynued at his departure from london 6. dayes past constant in determynacon for Virginia making his provisions accordingly. And hath obtayned the lone of .2. kyne from S^r Edwin Sandis And others, and goates from the lady Dale, And is to have lettres to be admitted of the Virginia Counsell there. Being willing to ad my sollicytacon for whatsoever may bringe him eyther gayne or grace, because all goeth in comon. That allowance which is to come from the company towards m^r ffelgates wages by the promise of the deputy fferrar at .xv^d the month I will doe my best endeavor at his cominge vp howbeit I doubt of the receipt because m^r fferrar the last quarter court delyuered vp his accompt, and is not likly to bee agayne newe chosen for the next year.

Touching the goods returned from Virginia I pray your care & disposicon as you think best soe that it may come into mony against the feast of S^r James.

I have returned to you fferdinand yates lettres to mee which you sent me vnopened, which soe to doe I pray noe more for noe secret or pryvate lettre vncommunicated must be in partnership.

I have noe leasure to read agayne what I have scribled wherefore I beseech you pardon faults & false castings as you find them. I rest euer with my service remembred

COMMISSION TO TRACY.

A Commission graunted by vs. the Treasurer Counsell and Company for Virginia vnto Willm Tracy Esqr for a voyag intended to Virginia.

WHEREAS wee the Treasurer Councell and Company for Virginia for the better aduancemen^t and supporte of that Plantacon haue given leaue vnto such as shall furnish out our good Shipp of Bristoll called the supply of the burden of Threescore and Tenn Tuns or thereabouts to passe with all convenient expedicon vnto Virginia, William Tracy Esquire beinge ordained to be the master and Captaine therof and to Comaund and governe the said Shipp and Marryners and alsoe all the passengers put aboard for the said voyage to be landed in Virginia for a particuler plantacon beinge to the number of sixty five persons or thereabouts with all such necessary provisions as are shiped for their vse and necessary releife We doe therefore hereby Charge and Comaund him to take his direct course accordinge to his best skill and knowledge vnto the said plantacon in Virginia and there to land and put on shore all the said persons and goods soe shipped of what kind soeuer. Straightley chargeinge and Comaunding the said William Tracy to sett saile from England with the first oportuenty of wind and to make all possible speed he may to the port intended and not to Interrupt any shiping of the subject^s of any his Ma^{ty} ffrends or allies or any other whosoever duringe his said voyage. But if he shalbe Chased or encountred by any man of warr or other saile whatsoever That shall goe about to hinder his proceedinge or to doe him any violence In such cases accordinge to the power graunted to vs by his Matie we will and comaund him with all his power and vttermost endeavor to repell resist and defend himself and our honors against the vniust force of what nation soeuer aswell in his passage outwards and homewards as in all our harbors and Rivers Members of the Territories of our Plantacon And this our Command shalbe his sufficient warrant herin In wittnesse wherof wee haue herevnto annexed our Comon Seale. Dated by order of a generall Court houlden for Virginia the twelfth day of July in the yeare of our lord God .1620. PROJECT FOR MAKING ARTIFICIAL WINE.

July .1620.

There is in Virginia and is like to be shortly .3000. people, And the greatest want they complayne of is good drinke, wine beinge too deere, and barly chargeable, which though it should there be sowed, it were hard in that Country beinge soe hote, to make malt of it, or if they had malt to make good beere.

This .3000. people I accompt beinge most labouringe men, and the country very hote, will drink one with an other a wine pottle a day, which for .3000. people is .23. tunns and .28. od gallons accomptinge .4. hoggesheads to the Tunne and each hoggeshead to contayne .64. gallons wyne measure.

There shalbe shewen a way to make an artificall wyne of a vegetable which there growes plentifully without any manner of charge or labour in plantinge, which artificall drink shall not cost accomptinge all charges of gettinge the said commodity and makinge it into drink above vj^s a Tunne which is .xij^d a barrell accomptinge .6. of our beere barrells to a Tunne.

Each houshold if they please may brewe it themselves, wherin they cannot miscary as vsually they doe in makinge of beere or ale.

This artifitiall wyne beinge as cleere as any well-fyned wyne without any hipotesis, grounds or lees, shall be as harty, holsome pleasinge and comfortable for the body as any beere or wyne whatsoever.

This kind of drink shall not growe flat decay or sower, though it be kept a wholl yeare, which all sorts of beere and wyne are subiect to, especially in such hot countries.

Though there be never soe much drunk of it at a tyme, it will make noe man drunk.

It is an excellent preservative against the scurvy and other diseases, and infections which are incident to people at the sea in longe voyages, there being many in a shipp, As also very medicinable for all such as live in lowe marshe grounds subiect to many vnholosome fogs and dampes.

It may be caryed to sea in longe voyages instead of water beere or wyne, for neyther heat nor cold nor any alteracon of the ayre or contry will cause it to putrify decay or growe sower.

This artificiall drink is as good the first day it is made as ever after, wheras beere or ale newe brued, or wine in the must, requyre tyme, as well before their grounds or lees be separated, as also before they come to perfection. And then being come to perfection they keep not longe, but growe hard, eager, sower and lastly turne to vineger.

It maketh noe body heart burnt at sea, as cheap, eager and sower wyne or beere doth.

If there were in the collony ten tymes as many people, they may have sufficient of this drinke at the foresaid rate.

The makinge of this artificiall wyne may here be showne either in a Tonne or .10. tonnes, or what one pleaseth: we have likewise of that comodytie in England.

The propounder desireth upon demonstracon of it here to the company that he may have but .1000! besides the benefit in Virginia of serving the collony, with the said artifitiall drinke at the said rate of vj^s the Tunne.

Agreed* with some litle varyacon with M^r Russell: the Acmunist & chimist. S^r John Brooke .2. Apr. 1621 told mee, that of his c[orrec]t knowledg, this wine was made of sassaphras, & licoras boyled in water: he had got y^e drynke.

MOTTEUX'S TRANSLATION.

The history of the renown'd Don Quixote de la Mancha. Translated by several hands: and publish'd by Peter Motteux. London: S. Buckley, 1700-3. 2 v. 12°.

There is some uncertainty about the date of the first edition of the Motteux version, which, whatever the reason, seems to be rare. Watt gives 1701; a bookseller's catalogue before me 1700; other authorities 1706; others again 1712, which is the date of the third edition, the earliest I have seen; while Lowndes gives 1719. (J. Ormsby.)

VIRGINIA PAPERS, 1620-1632.

(Continuation of the documents printed in the Bulletin for April, May, and June.)

AGREEMENT BETWEEN BERKELEY, THORPE, TRACY, AND SMYTH.

Covenants and agreements had and made by & betwene Richard Berkeley of Stoke in the county of Gloucester Esq; on the first parte, George Thorpe late of Wanswell in the said county Esq; on the second parte, Willm Tracy of Gayles in the said county Esq; on the third parte And John Smyth of Northnibly in the said county gent on the fourth parte the xxviiijth day of August .1620. Anno xviiij^o regni Jacobi Regis Angliæ &c et Scotie liiiij^{to}. as particularly followeth.

Wheras a voyage for plantacon into the land of Virginia was in the month of September last past vnder taken and performed with a ship called the Margaret of Bristoll furnished with men and provisions necessary at the charges of Sr Willm Throkmorton of Clowerwall in the said county of Gloucester knight and baronet, and of the said Richard Berkeley George Thorpe and John Smyth: which said ship in November followinge arryved there in safety togeather with all the men goods and provisions soe transported, and is sithence returned to the port of Bristoll in like safety for which all thanks be given to allmighty god.

And wheras also for the better orderinge of the said voyage and plantacon, divers covenants and agreements were had and made betwene the said parties and one John Woodleefe w[h]o was appoynted to goe Captayne and governor of their said men and servants shipped for the said plantacon bearinge date the fourth day of the said month of September, as by the same subscribed with their hands and sealed with their seales enterchangeably, doth and may appeare.

And wheras also the said George Thorpe in the month of March last past departed this Realme of England in a ship called the merchant of London and is before the date of theis presents (as is hoped) safely arrived in his owne person in the said land of Virginia, the better by his presence to order and direct the affaires and busines of the said plantacon, with whome also was sent in supply three men six kyne and other provisions equally bought and provided by the said parties to theis presents.

And wheras also the said Sr Willm Throkmorton by his Indenture vnder his hand and seale bearinge date the seventh day of May last past before the date hereof (sithence the departure of the said Geo: Thorpe) for the Consideracons therein expressed, hath given granted assigned and set over vnto the said Willm Tracy, All the interest benefit property and advantage which he the said Sr Willm then had or by any wayes or meanes whatsoever should or might have or make of or by reason of the said plantacon or of or by reason of any article covenant grant or agreement^t at any tyme then before any manner of wayes had or made by or betwene the said parties As by the said Indenture amongst many other things therin contayned more at large appeareth which said Willm Tracy entendeth (by gods sufferance) to goe likewise in his owne person into the said land of Virginia within one month nowe next ensuinge. NOWE IT IS MUTUALLY & particularly covenanted & agreed vpon by and betwene all and euery the said parties to theis presents in manner and forme followinge.

And first it is mutually agreed and declared by and betwene all the said parties to theis presents That all and euery covenant article and agreement^t direcon or instruction heretofore made or given touching the said voyage and plantacon or any wayes in relacon thervnto subscribed with their hands or sealed with their seales (not being contrary or repugnant to theis presents) shall stand and be in full force and vertue, All and euery of which articles covenants and agreement^{ts} which on the parte of the said Sr Willm Throkmorton were or ought to be performed or kept, the said Willm Tracy covenanteth and promiseth with the said Richard Berkeley George Thorpe and John Smyth Joyntly and seuerally to execute performe and doe in such sort manner and forme and soe farforth as the same was or were by the said Sr Willm to bee done payd or performed to all intents and purposes whatsoever.

Item it is further agreed that for the better augmentacon of the number of their said servants and collony already in Virginia That another ship called the supply shall in the month of September nowe next followinge be sent from the said port of Bristoll furnished at their like equall costs and charges in all things with .540. persons or therabouts, And that the authority and governem^t of the said men and all others eyther already in Virginia or hereafter to be sent and of all other their affayres in Virginia shall be in the said George Thorpe and Willm Tracy Joyntly as sole gouernors and directors of all manner of businesses there soe longe as they two shall agree in one and not be divided in opynion, accordinge to directions and instructions nowe delyuered and hereafter from tyme to tyme to be delyuered from the said Richard and John, But if in case they the said George Thorpe and Willm Tracy shall differ or discent in advise opynion or direcon in any matter or thinge fittinge or necessary, or directed to be done, whereby their said servants men or people in the said Collony shall rest doubtfull what to pursue or whom to followe or obay, Then in euery such case (and not otherwise) it is hereby directed declared and agreed upon, That the resolucon determynacon and proceedinge shall bee as Arnold Oldisworth Esq; Robert Pawlet and John Woodleeffe gent or any two of them shall agree vnto and determyne of in wrytinge accordinge to the foresaid direccions & instruccions wherin they stand as vmpiers for such differences onely wherto the said George Thorpe and Willm Tracy faythfully promise to submit themselves without longer contradiction argument or gaynsayinge.

Item it is further agreed and declared That if in case the said Richard Berkeley and John Smyth shall in their consultacions about any the affaires dispatches supplies or other matters touching Virginia or their said Collony men servants goods or otherwise, vary or dissent in opynion or direction betwene themselves, wherby any suspension delay or neglect of prosecution of the said busines shall or may be like to arise or to be delayed neglected or hindred eyther here in England or in Virginia by that meanes, That the resolucon determynacon and proceedinge shall be as S^r Willm Throkmorton knight and baronet S^r Tho: Roe knight and S^r Tho: Tracy knight brother of the said Willm or any two of them shall agree vnto and determyne of in wrytinge, wherto they the said Rich Berkeley and John Smyth faythfully promise to submit themselves without longer contradiccon argument or gaynsayinge. Given Enterchangeably vnder their hands and seales the day and yeare first above written.

INSTRUCTIONS AND ADVICE FROM BERKELEY AND SMITH TO THORPE.

After our very harty comendacions: wee send herewith vnto you, a Comission to discharge the governem^t and authority, which last yeare was by vs and yourselfe conferred vpon Captayne Woodleefe wherto your owne hand and seale is to be affixed, if you have cause to make vse therof, which we leave to the wisdom of yourselfe and M^r Tracy we have conferred the wholl gouvernement of all our people and affayres ioyntly by one other Comission vpon yourselfe and M^r Tracy accordinge to the tenor of the former to captayne Woodleefe, makinge noe doubt of your prudent vsage therof, profitably also for yourselves and vs: wherein if difference in execucon arise betwene yee we have taken order for vmperinge therof, as by other Covenants quadripartite amongst vs may appeare, wherof one parte is sent for you to seale and returne agayne to vs by this ship.

We pray you forget not to procure an effectuall lettre or other declaracon from Sr George Yardley that he wholly wayveth any entermedlinge in our plantacon or affayres, vnder or by colour of that Indenture which we heretofore passed in his name and our owne, which we suppose he will readily doe, as vnwillinge to pay in redy money in England .450^{li}. which his fifth parte at least cometh to, with the wages for hire of this ship and of the Master and maryners: His last lettres give vs also a kynd of assurance therof.

ffor many respects we hold it expedient to the expedicon in passinge our patent from the company here for th' inheritance of our land or some parte therof, wherfore we pray you to get the same measured bounded and plotted (which Thomas Kemis vndertaketh out of his owne sufficiency exectly to performe) And to procure from the governor such certificat as the nature of that busines and the vsage of the country there doe requyre, wherin we pray your best diligence and myndfullnes and returne therof by this ship: for which by our Chartre party we are to pay for six monthes hire, though shee returne in shorter space.

Your care also must be to procure a certificat from the gouernor and secretary of the arryvall of the fifty persons (or more) which we nowe ship for plantacon, and are particularly mencioned in the certificat of the mayor of Bristoll, wherof Mr Tracy hath a copy; we pray you to be carefull in the receipt of such materialls, tooles and implements of husbandry and other furnitures and provisions, aswell nowe sent in this ship as which were sent in the former to our and your owne excessive charges, and to cause exact inventories therof to be made the better to requyre due accompts from such as under you shall have the charge of them.

In performance of the last years promise made by you and ourselves to Tho: Coopy your Carpenter, we nowe send over his wife and sonne and daughter for whom he hath twice specially written, the same also beinge by her much importuned at our hands; wherin in regard of our charges (loosing also therby the transportacon of .3. laboringe men) such Condicions are to be made with the husband as may retribute to vs a competent satisfaccon, which we refer to yourselfe and Mr Tracy, be the same in augmentacon of the years of his, her and their sonne and daughters services, or in increase of his rent for the land he is to receyve of vs at the end of his .3. years or otherwise as in your wisdomes you shall thinke more fittinge.

We send you a copy of our agreement with Richard Smyth and six others, who are our first tenants or vndertakers to the halfes in that kynd: If they fynd respect and performance from you of what we have promised (which is most iust they should) vpon their lettres (which covertly or openly they will send over to their frends and neighbors) dyuers others (by their private agreements) will be like affected and sutors to vs: And therefor howe you like of those Condicions or wherin you wish any variacon or addicon, we desire (for our better instruccon in the future) to have your advice by this ship.

ffive of our servants have written to their frends, and some of them to ourselves, by lettres dated in ffebruary and march last to have two servants the peece sent over for their owne pryvate benefit and imployment by this Ship, promisinge ap-parell and dyet out of their meanes in your family and that country, wherin as none of their requests are by vs or their frends yet satisfyed (because the desire seemeth somewhat strange) yet we would not have you to leave them without assurance of our favor and satisfaccon of their reasonable requests in our future returnes and supplyes, if you and m^r Tracy shall signify the same to be convenient, But to have satisfyed one and not all would have begot murmur or discontent in the neglected persons: herein we pray you carry a tender hand, because they are all of the better sort: perhaps also your vnexpected (yet welcome) cominge amongst them, may have buried in them that humor or desire.

We must pray you to bend your vtmost care and diligence to subsist, as much and assoone as is possible of yourselves: for theis great supplyes are insupportable in longer contynuance, as more particularly by this or the next Ship that cometh from England, you will both in our generall and in your particular accompt vnderstand from me John Smyth.

Markhams* and Goovges books of all kynd of English husbandry and huswifry, and .2. others for the orderinge of silk and silk-wormes are nowe sent, which take into your owne hands from Thomas Lemis, otherwise you will bee defrauded of them.

We have sent you also a great quantity of the best seeds for a kitchen garden, and of the most vsefull kynds, wee need not comend to you the effectuall care of them, because a great parte of the food of your family must aryse from them: with them cometh also a reasonable quantity of the seeds of cotton wooll, which Thomas Combes your partener hath procured in London.

M^r Smyth hath this day drawne out of his nurseryes a great number of yonge stocks and of apple trees grafted with pippens, pearmaynes and other the best apples, which he hopeth for his owne humor and affeccion sake therin you will have somewhat the more care of, as also of the bagg of abricots damosell & other plum-stones he nowe sendeth.

We hoped of your lettres from the way of newfoundland from whence dyuers ships are arryved at Barstable & Bristoll .6.3 and two dayes nowe past, as by parte of the newe fish we nowe furnish appeareth, but till the date hereof cannot heare from you or of your arrivall.

With our affectionate comendacions we bid you hartely farewell and rest

Yo^r assured loving frends

* The works of Gervase Markham sent on this occasion may have been his English Husbandman (3 parts, London, 1613-15. 4°), or his Cheap and Good Husbandry (1614), and the second book of his Country Contentments (1611) which was entitled "The English Huswife" and was often issued separately. "Goovge" probably refers to Barnabe Googe who translated Conrad Heresbach's work on husbandry and issued it as Foure Bookes of Husbandrie, etc. (London, 1577. 4°); the edition of 1614 was edited by Markham. See also in the Bulletin, p. 286. For titles of early English works on silk and silk worms see Watt's Bibliotheca Britannica (Edinburg, 1824), vol. 4, s. v. silk, silk worm; see also Bruce's Economic History of Virginia (N. Y., 1896) vol. 1, p. 241, and passim.

TIMOTHY GATE TO TRACY.

Good cosyn I beare a parte in my mind of your vnhappines I receued a lettre from my brother Cuynter which my cosyn Bridges brought me vnto Ockle the contents was that I should take such security for his mony as I thought fitting from thence I went with him vnto Cleue from thence to Beckford vnto m^r Wakemans house and there I toocke all his part of tobacco assigned vnder hand and seale before Wittnesses with m^r Wakemans consent. my brother vpon my knoledg was content to take 2000 pound of his tobacco. he hath formely told me soe and writt soe vnto me my cosyn was content to passe his corne or any thing he had for your releaf but I thought that sufficient and that y^t would content him I am hartily sorry he should deale thus cruelly with you I writt vnto my brother what I had donne and that he would release you according vnto his lettre for my cosyn Rob Bridges he is soe sensible of your hinderance and his owne discreditt by your Arrest that he seemeth vnto me as I protest vnto you infinitely perplexed in his mind he hath travelled twise vnto my brother and backe agayne little meats and rest serveth his turne. he would doe any thing in his power to free you he voweth vnto me and I am confident he will performe yt if you can procure any suerties he will with all speed possibly he can se them discharged. If he should be slack I will remember him but he is as carefull of you as he can be and would vndergoe any losse or paynes to free you but vpon the suddayne he cannot doe what he would or should doe herin if you will write vnto me to speake vnto any frend you haue here If my payns care and best furtherance shall not be wanting for I desyre god to bleshe me and myne as I wishe your wellfayre I hope the Sea wilbe more mercifull vnto you then your frends are hire I hope after this storme you shall have fayer weather my prayers and best endevors shalbe for you

THOMAS COMBE TO SMYTH.

S^r I was in great hope to have seene you here this Terme, which was the cause I kept these inclosed so long, for I was told that you would haue ben here the last day of the Terme. But seeing you came not, M^r Street of Sadbury being to com downe, I take the opportunity to send them you by him. I told you when you were last here that I had written into Virginia by Jo: Gibbes to the Governour and to the Counsell there, and lykwise to Richard Milton, but I receaue no other Answer then what I send you but there being other Shippes to com home I hope to receave some letter from the Governour. But howsoever, you see by these how our cattell are disposed of, And the Governour is not so much our ffrend as he professed he would be, which I pray M^r Berkeley and you to take notice of, and to write to him accordingly. He makes over our Cattle to others rather for their advantage then ours, for Milton would haue kept them as he did, and haue bred vs some increase, I doubt now our increase will be given away in favour to those that kepe them. I wrote to Mylton by John Gibbes that they should vnite themselves together and take our stock and go vppon our plantacon, but I collect by his Answer, that he had rather do that by himself then with a partner, And therefore as you may see by his letter he would haue vs send him over .3. servants for himself and .3. more for vs, that he might be sole Master of them. What you please to do therin, I shall willingly agree vnto, so as we may have a Joynt stock & proceeding therin. And if John Gibbes were as ffree as Mylton is I thinke he would be the fitter man, but I thinke he is in Covenant with M^r ffarrar with whome he went over for a yeare. But you see he desiers to buy both o^r land & our Cattell which shews his intencon to be a planter for himself. But considering we haue both land and cattell there and some ground allready cleared and that Mylton and Gibbes may both be made their guydes, I hold it more wisdom to adventure somewhat now then heretofore, because such servants as we shall now send over shall haue wherewithall to kepe them, only they must be furnisht with apparell and munition and Corne for halfe a yeare, which would be no great charge for .3. men.

But I leave it to M^r Berkeley & you to advize better thervvpon. And wheras there is a challenge made of two of our kyne, though It is not vnlike to be true that so many of them were borrowed, yet we lost there more good than they were woorth both by the Governour and the Counsell, And beside I knowe not what Company they now belong to in Virginia, but when our Charter here was on foote, there was no Company then but ours And for aught I know yet we haue the same Interest as before. But you better vnderstand this poynt then myself which I leave to your consideracon. I haue one letter more from John Gibbes to my selfe in partycular and by another messenger, but to the same effect as those I send you, and therfore I reserv it. There are other comodities now brought over besids tobacco, as pot ashes to make soape the rarest in the world, and some samples of Cedar & black wallnuttred beside Beaver & deare skinnes, And as those that com from there tell me, they begin to plant vynes and to make wyne in that Contry, having bothe bread & beare and butter & cheese as plentyfully there for those that are to spend it as we haue here, wanting nothing at all but hands to attempt some greater matters. I pray you conferr with m^r Berkley and some other ffrends for the revyveing of o^r plantacon though we adventure but a smalle matter, and let it growe till we may have proffytt from thence to make it greater. I hope to see you here the next Terme and to vnderstand what m^r Berkeley and you haue resolved vvpon that we may retourne Answer to those letters accordingly. Till when with my humble service both to him & you I take my leave And rest ever

At you^r pleasures to be

CALHOUN-GOUVERNEUR CORRESPONDENCE, 1823-1836.

* * The following letters from James C. Calhoun to Samuel L. Gouverneur are printed from the original manuscripts presented to the New York Public Library by Mr. John L. Cadwalader.

WASHINGTON

9th April 1823

MY DEAR SIR,

These are times in which honest men should know each other. I have long known M^r Edwards, and have ever considered him distinguished for a high political integrity. He is the decided friend of the administration, and the determined opponent of M^r Van Buren and the rest of the intriguers. I wish him to know you, and you to know him, to effect which, I have taken the liberty of making you this communication. I am more confident every day, that as we, the Republicans, have defeated the Federalists, so will we trample over the Radicals and intriguers.

Truly

J. C. CALHOUN.

S. GOUVERNEUR Esq.

[Endorsed:] 1823. April 9 J. C. Calhoun.

WASHINGTON,

28th April 1823

MY DEAR SIR,

It is high time for honest men to unite in your state. New York is the centre towards which all of the political managers over this widely extended country have turned their attentions, at this time. If a candidate can be elected without services, as qualifications by sheer management, it must be by the instrumentality of that active, but unprincipled class of politicians, which a powerful combination of causes has engendered in your state. Unsustained by New York the cause of intrigue is desperate, but with its support the struggle must be severe and doubtful.

M^r Edwards I have long known, and can say with great confidence that he is perfectly trustworthy. I do hope, that the *New York Patriot will rear a standard around which all of the friends of the administration and sound principles will rally. Let the honest become acquainted with each other, and expose to the Union the real character and history of such men as Van Buren &c who have done so much to alienate the Republican party of the state from that of the Union. The principles of concert ought to be extended from the city to the whole state, and all possible jar between the two be avoided.

The reaction is going on in Virginia. If I mistake not, Richie will not be able to sustain himself in his course. He will not be supported by the old standards of the party in the state. Col. Taylor is decidedly opposed to his course. I was surprised to find how accurate his information is, as to passing events. He sees distinctly, that the course adopted by a certain class of their politicians, is calculated to elevate Mr Van Buren at the expense of the real interests of the state and Union.

With proper efforts, I feel confident that the sound side will prevail, and the intriguers be put down. It is now well ascertained, that the Radical candidate will be the last choice of the West; and that he cannot take a majority of the South. His hope is reduced to New York and in that state to Mr Van Buren to whom, if elected, he will owe his success.

With sincere regard

J. C. CALHOUN.

S. L. GOUVERNEUR Esq.

WASHINGTON

25th May 1823

MY DEAR SIR,

I have read your letter with much pleasure. I hold the political renovation of the state to be certain, with due effort on the part of our friends in the city. The whole Union has a deep interest in the reform, and, I do trust, that the animation and zeal will be in proportion to the importance of the object at stake. Some anxiety is felt at the delay of the appearance of the Patriot. Tho' precipitancy ought to be avoided, yet there is no time to loose. The next fall in a great measure will determine your political complexion. The enemy is busy; and we must remember, that truth is only stronger than error, when maintained with equal energy and activity.

As to the general aspect, Maj^r Van Deventer, to whom I have entrusted this communication, is so well informed, that you can learn all from him. Let New York do her duty and all will go right. It is no uncommon crisis, as time will show. We must remember that Radicalism is the last and most dangerous enemy of Republicanism.

Sincerely

J. C. CALHOUN.

MY DEAR SIR,

Apprehending that General Swift may be absent from the city, I take the liberty of troubling you with some of private business. I will take it as a singular favour, if you will attend to the subject of the enclosed. Should any expense be incurred, please to inform me of the amount, and it will be forwarded without delay. If an opportunity should not offer for the District, by having it forwarded to Norfolk, it could be sent from that place to this by the Steam Boat.

Radicalism is daily declining. South and west of this, it has been entirely prostrated, excepting in certain portions of Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, and a small portion of East Tennessee. Should the result of the approaching election prove, that no cost, management, or combination can withstand a free and manly discussion, it will give the greatest confidence in the permanency of our system. It is a trial of the real character of our people and institutions; and, the example, whatever it may be, cannot fail to have great effects on all future elections.

We look with solicitude to your state. One of our disiderata at present, is to see New York restored, under her new Constitution, to a sound political condition, and to take her proper stand in the Union. We want her weight to sustain the present sound system of measures.

I wrote you some time since in answer to yours, shortly after your return to New York. I hope that you have received my answer.

Sincerely

J. C. CALHOUN.

BALTIMORE

4th Oct. 1823

MY DEAR SIR,

I am here celebrating M^r Van Deventer's nuptials. He has been very happy in uniting himself with a very fine intelligent woman. We take our departure from the city to-day.

Our friends in New York are the best judges of the time for making the move to which you refer. As to the man there can be no doubt. He possesses advantages above all others, and is the best man on whom the Republicans of your state can rally. I have written to Judge Edwards fully on the subject, who has not, I think estimated, the Judge as highly as he ought. I hope what I have said will induce him to think as highly as we all do of the excellent individual in question. To bring this about you may contribute; & I hope will, for it is indispensable that we should all think alike on great points.

No more ought to be made without Judge Thompson's assent, and it is highly disirable, that the Vice President should heartily acquiesce in it. He is still a favorite with a large portion of the Republican party of your state. He will not, I take it for granted, think of departing from the 8 years rule, even as applied to the Vice Pres^t; but I am decidedly of opinion, that the government, or administration ought to make after the expiration of his term, such arrangement as would be agreeable to him.

We are going on well every where. The ancient allies of Virginia will seperate themselves from her, if she puts herself under the Richmond party. I consider North Carolina as already lost to her side. The truth is that the plain and obvious course for the State is to support the present administration with zeal, as standing on those great principles of the Republican party, which brought the state to power. To attempt to seperate the present from M^r Jefferson's admin. will prove ruinous to the influence of the State.

This will be delivered to you by Mr. McDuffie who will converse freely with you on all points.

With sincere regard

I am &c. &c.

MY DEAR SIR,

Great is your victory;* and we and the nation have cause to triumph. If I have a faculty for anything, it is to know and estimate the nature of political junctures; and, since I have been in publick life, I have seen one only greater than the present; I mean that, which terminated in the late war. There the real issue was national independence. The virtue and energy of the people triumphed in that great issue, under a complication of difficulties, which can nearly occur again. Here the issue is different but not much less important. Can a combination of powerful individuals, by securing many of the long established and influential presses, bring into disrepute an administration, which has acted wisely and virtuously, but which has only relied on the people for support? This is the point now in trial; and it is one of the deepest moment. On its determination depends the fact, whether our government can be administered in reference to principles and policy, or whether it will not be necessary for it, to throw itself into the hands of those, who by any means, may obtain what is a control over leading presses, and what is called party machinery. Your city has lead in this great contest, and has done nobly; continue your exertions and the triumph of the country is certain. It was in the state of New York, the enemy expected to find materials for his triumph, and to that point he had directed mainly his attention. He found indeed suitable instruments, but he has, I trusted, under estimated the virtue and intelligence of your people. Prostrate him effectually there, and the work will be finished every where. Between the Regency at Albany and the junto at Richmond there is a vital connection. They gave and received hope from each other, and confidently expected to govern this nation. What you have done will be felt as much at Richmond as Albany.

Give me all of the details. I will be glad to hear every thing. I trust you will be in the city this winter. Your presence will be important. The last contest will be here.

With sincere regard

MY DEAR SIR,

Not long since I received a letter from General Swift, stating that a vacancy would probably soon occur in the Post Office in your city, and suggesting your name as a successor to the present incumbent. I saw the Postmaster Gen^l. on the subject, and learning that he had also been written to in relation to it, I had some conversation with him on it. He informed me, that anticipating a vacancy and not adverting to you, he had corresponded on the subject of filling it with a gentleman in New York and that he felt himself committed, which he regretted as no one would be more agreeable to him than yourself, if he had supposed it would be acceptable to you. Judge Kent is the person to whom he referred. Should he accept, nothing can be done; but should he not, I have no doubt, if you desire it, that you may receive the appointment. I, however confess, that I would be sorry to see you in it. I think your true course is in another direction. I speak freely and without flattery, when I say, that your prospect is too good for the office. A higher destiny, I think, awaits you. I know no man of your age in your great state, who has started more fairly than yourself, or who has a fairer prospect. I think duty, honor and interest lead in the direction in which you have started; and I should, as a friend deeply regret to see you in an office, which would so completely change your destiny. If I do not mistake your State is going through a great change very salutary to itself and the Union. Better men will gain the ascendancy; and, I hope, that you will not place yourself without the current of rising events.

I am gratified, greatly so, that your state has districted for the choice of electors. It compensates for many of the adverse events of the times. I see in it a certain prospect of amending the Constitution of the Union, if proper efforts be used. I trust your state will follow up what has been done; and that at the next session of your Legislature suitable resolutions will be passed on this great subject. Let two principles be solemnly affirmed, that the Constitution be so amended as to give the choice direct to the people voting by districts and without the intervention of electors; and that if there be no choice on the first trial, that the election be again referred back to the people to choose from the two highest candidates. I trust, that you will again be elected to Legislature, and that you will take a lead in this great reform. I deem it essential to the preservation of our liberty. Without it, we must fall into the hands of political traders. The scene of last winter will be repeated till the people will become disgusted with nominal liberty. We will set out in three or four days. My address will be Pendleton So. Carolina where I will be happy to hear from you as often as convenient. With sincere regard

ABBEVILLE

10th June 1825

MY DEAR SIR,

I have read with much interest your letter of the 1st May, and I concur with you in almost every particular in the views, which you have taken of your State politicks. I trust, however, that you will not think of retiring at your next election. I should consider such a determination as unfortunate both on your account, and the State. The reformation of New York, which I deem so important to the Union, must be the work of young men. The more advanced in age have been so corrupted, under the former order of things, that I expect no good from them. Among the young, I know of no one better calculated to lead in giving a new character to the State, than yourself. It is the sphere for you; and one in which you will not only acquire an elevated standing in the state, but will have the conscious satisfaction of having acted an useful part. I deeply appreciate the motives, which impel in a different direction; but I do trust our venerable and excellent friend will be able to pass through his difficulties with the rising prosperity of the country towards which he has so largely contributed by his enlightened administration. With the present prosperous condition of the country I trust that a correspondent rise in real estates will follow, and that he may be enabled to bring such portions of his estate into market at a fair price, as will free him from difficulty, after Congress has rendered to him, what is strictly due to him. At all events, I trust, that you will not find a continuance of your Legislative career as incompatible with that degree of attention to your private affairs, which under any circumstances may be necessary. In a political point of view, I do believe, that now is your time, both for the state and nation. Among other things, I do trust, that your state will not rest satisfied with giving to the people of New York, that control, which they ought to have in the choice of a President; but that your Legislature will follow up the subject and by new resolutions be felt on this great subject over the whole Union. She is now on this point placed in a situation, in which her interest and duty strictly coincide. I do firmly believe, that an amendment of the Constitution, as to the mode of choosing the President, is indispensable. The present mode will end in deep corruption. Let the people have the power directly; let the votes be by districts; and, if there be no choice, let the two highest candidates be sent back to the people, and all will be well. To effect this great object your Legislature can do much, if put in action; and I know of no one better calculated to put it in action, than yourself, who so well understands the present dangerous defects.

I have met with a hearty welcome every where on my return, which has gratified me, not as a matter for vanity, but as affording evidence of the popularity of the principles which have governed me in publick life. A few days since business took me to Augusta, where, contrary to my expectations, I was no less kindly received, than on this side of the river. I find a strong disposition to support the measures of the administration so long as it acts on the policy of Mr Monroe's; but, if I am not mistaken, Mr. Adams will find at the next election that the people have too much sense to confirm the dangerous precedent, which he and Mr. Clay have created. I find not one who does not consider the example as dangerous; or who will be willing to see it confirmed by the people by electing Mr Adams.

I will return to Pendleton in a few days where I will be stationary through the summer and be happy to hear from you.

With sincere respect

I am &c &c.

MY DEAR SIR,

On my arrival here I found your letter of the 30th Nov^r. on my table, which I have not been able to acknowledge till now from the multiplicity of my engagements. You do no more than justice to my friendship in anticipating the pleasure, which your appointment would afford me. Few occurrences of late have given me so much gratification. Under all of the circumstances it does much credit to the President's good feelings.

I saw with pain the persecuting spirit, with which you were followed; but never for a moment doubted your integrity, or final triumph.

I am much gratified with the frankness of your remarks and hope that you will often favour me with communications in the same free spirit. I do not in the least doubt, but that efforts will be made to control the next presidential election, by the same machinery, which so signally failed in the one preceding the present. Cunning men without merit have no other means of advancement, but so long, as the people are sufficiently enlightened to govern themselves, it must fail, when applied on so large a scale as the Union. It may succeed in a State; but when the operation comes to be so greatly extended, the advantage of a good cause fairly supported, becomes irresistible, if the people be at all worthy of their liberty. The individual in this place to whom you allude, I think is friendly. His course towards me appears open and unreserved. I believe great efforts have been made to enlist him, as an indispensable part of the system of management, but I am of the opinion without success.

The constant attachment of my friends, particularly in your quarter, under all circumstances has been to me a source of great pleasure. It seems to me, that their proper course, is to be silent for the present, but watchful. Let time and circumstances develope the movement of others, while on our part let us be careful to place our cause on the sure basis of truth, and the publick welfare.

MY DEAR SIR,

I cannot apprehend the least danger in your case. To guard against the possibility, I will, however, leave a letter for Mr. Barry, which will guard against the effects of misrepresentation, should it be attempted.

You do not mention, whether you had received an answer to your letter, which I received on my arrival here, and which was answered shortly afterwards. I hope it came safely to hand. I left the Senate yesterday and expect to set out for my residence near Pendleton S^c. Carolina, in a few days, where I will be happy to hear from you.

We are all distressed at the dangerous illness under which Mr. Monroe now labours; and feel great anxiety about the issue, I have reason to believe, that the efforts so industriously made to alienate him, and Gen^l Jackson have failed, and that the General reciprocates his kind feelings.

Mrs. C. desires best regards to you & Mrs. G.

MY DEAR SIR,

I see from your letter you understand thoroughly the game, which is playing in a certain quarter. Had you been here all winter, you could not have described it more accurately. It is, however, not calculated to do those engaged in it any service. I am surprised, that one so artful, as the author, and who occupies so favorable a position for his operations, should so completely fail. His strength, which was never great, has been steadily declining all the session, and he may now be pronounced feeble. I see no cause to fear him, unless of enfeebling the administration by his devious course. To prevent such a result, has been an object of solicitude on the part of my friends. So far from opposing, we may appeal with confidence to the proceedings of both houses to prove, that our support has been more uniform and effective, than any other portion of Congress. It is an object of ambition with us to carry the General through with glory; and while we see with pain every false move, we have never permitted our feelings to be alienated for a moment. Our's is the position of honest and sincere friendship, and for us a perfect contrast to that pursued, in the quarter to which I allude.

The accusation, that the delay and difficulty in the Senate have been owing to my friends is utterly false, as the Journals will prove. In truth, the whole subject of nominations has been on our part in the Senate with great judgment. Not a day has been unnecessarily lost. We had great difficulties to contend with, and could not have taken a different course with equal success.

I was much gratified with the confirmation of Swartout's nomination. I had great fears at one time, but he was finally carried through with honor, and I feel confident he will not disappoint the expectations of his friends. I take interest in Mr. Noah's success, and hope sincerely that he may pass. His nomination will not be acted on for some time. He will not lack active friends in the Senate.

Sincerely

MY DEAR SIR,

I have just heard from a respectable source, that a book is now writing at Washington under the auspices of Gen^l Jackson and to be published when he retires, on the subject of the Seminole affair; in which an attack will be made both on Mr Monroe's character & my own, and in which the affidavit of John Rhea is to form a prominent part. I deem it important to apprise you of the fact, that it is believed at Washington, that such a work is in progress.

I had no doubt that any effort, that baseness & ingenuity can devise will be resorted to induce you, by them, who believe that all are venial & base like themselves, to abandon the defense of Mr Monroe, but I feel perfectly confident without the slightest effect. Gen^l Jackson feels deeply mortified with the situation he occupies in relation to the affair; and is determined that nothing shall be omitted to reverse it, if possible in the eyes of posterity. As to myself individually I certainly can have no objection that he should renew his attack on me in relation to it. He has heretofore gained nothing by his attacks, and I shall take care, if he should renew it, not to let him off as easily as I have in the correspondence.

I would be glad to hear from you, and to learn, whether you have any information as to the supposed contemplated publication, and in particular who is to be the author.

Mrs. C. joins her best respects to yourself & Mrs. G.

MY DEAR SIR,

Tho' I am not much of a sportsman, I would have been delighted to attend your approaching races had circumstances permitted me to visit New York at this time. But it is quite impossible for me to leave my place in the Senate at this time. The deposit bill, of which I have had special charge, is now before the Senate, and will not be disposed of till it will be too late for your noble sport. From the account of the competitors, an arduous struggle is anticipated, that I would delight to witness; tho' my sympathy would be such, between friendship on one side, and local attachment on the other, that whatever result fate may decree, would be weighed with a due proportion of pain & pleasure. Anna joins me in thankful acknowledgment for the hospitable invitation of yourself and Mrs. Gouverneur. And, had it been in our power to visit your city, we would have accepted with much pleasure.

REPORT FOR AUGUST.

During the month of August, there were received at the Library by purchase 696 volumes and 214 pamphlets, and by gift 1,019 books and 1,927 pamphlets, and by exchange 524 volumes and 1,487 pamphlets.

There were catalogued 1,725 books and 994 pamphlets, for which purpose 8,115 cards and 662 slips for the printer were written.

The following table shows the number of readers, and the number of volumes consulted, in both the Astor and Lenox Branches of the Library, during the month:

	LENOX.	ASTOR.
Total number of readers.....	1,886	5,602
Daily average of readers.....	73	207
Number of volumes consulted.....	5,474	34,966

Among the important gifts of the month were the following—from the American Colonization Society, 600 pamphlets; the government of Chili, 10 volumes; Elisha Mitchel Scientific Society, 21 pamphlets; various departments of the French government, 194 volumes and 48 pamphlets; Dr. Frank Donaldson, 24 rare pamphlets relating to Salmon P. Chase; A. Gareau, 6 volumes of early Canadian documents; Leipzig Bureau of Statistics, 9 volumes and 3 pamphlets; City of London, 2 volumes; Alexander Maitland, 105 volumes and 6 pamphlets, all Syriac; Moscow Imperial Archæological Society, 9 volumes and 4 pamphlets; the City of Odessa, 3 volumes and 57 pamphlets; Madame Constance Dunca de Schiau, of Budapest, 3 volumes and 6 pamphlets, in memory of her brother and daughter; Societatea Geografica Romina, 6 volumes, 1 pamphlet; Societa Siciliana, Palermo, 22 pamphlets; Socrates Spiro, Alexandria, 6 volumes and 4 pamphlets, all Egyptian documents; and from 6 County Councils or Committees of England, were received 5 volumes and 38 pamphlets.

MEMORIAL OF FERDINAND COLUMBUS TO CHARLES V. FOR A NATIONAL LIBRARY.

The following petition of Ferdinand, son of Christopher Columbus, was written probably before 1535. It is here printed from the transcript in the New York Public Library, made about 1780 for Muñoz, the Spanish historian, many of whose papers are now in the library.

S. C. C. M.

Don fern^{do}. Colon besa los reales pies y manos de V. M. porque fue servido de le hacer merced, qu^e su peticion sobre lo tocante â la perpetuidad de la libreria se pusiere par^a la consulta y porque â V. M. conste de los buenos efectos qu^e de ella tienen de resultar.

Dice: que el primero será qu^e haya cierto lugar en los Reynos de V. M. â d^o se recojan todos los libros, y de todas las lenguas y facultades qu^e se podrán por la Cristiandad, y aun fuera de ella hallar. Lo qual hasta oy no se sabe que Principe haya mandado hacer: porque una cosa es instituir libreria de lo qu^e en sus tiempos se halla, como algunos han hecho; y otra es dar orden, como para siempre se busquen y alleguen, los qu^e de nuevo sobrevinieren.

Lo 2^o. es qu^e demas estar los libros juntos par^a qu^e no se pierda la memoria de tan notables varones, como se desvelaron par^a mismo bien, segun de muchos está ya perdida, de cuia copia y posesion pudiera resultar certidumbre y sosiego par^a en las cosas qu^e tocan â la religion, y al gobierno de la republica, asi mesmo servirán par^a beneficio comun, y par^a qu^e haya refugio, donde los letrados puedan recurrir â qualquier^a duda qu^e se los ofreciere.

Lo 3^o. es, qu^e par^a qu^e en todas partes haya de los susodichas autores noticia: el dicho don Hernando Colon, juntamen^{te} con los Ministros y personas de letras qu^e consigo par^a ello tiene, reduce â orden Alphabetico todos los Autores qu^e ha havido, y se prosigue, y proseguirá en los qu^e oviere, diciendo: tal Autor compuso tal i tal libro, poniendo todas las obras, que hobiere hecho, asimesmo par^a orden alphabetico, par^a qu^e con mas facilidad sean hallados las obras, y sus autores.

Lo 4^o. es que hacen otro libro diviso par^a titulos de las ciencias generales, como es Theologia, Jus Canonicum, Jus Civile, &^a i en cada titulo de estos pone por orden alfabetico todas las especies ô individuos, que tiene aquella ciencia, expresando los libros qu^e hai escritos en ella, como si es derecho dirá: sobre el titulo de Summa Trinitate et fide Catholica escribió fulano, y fulano, y sobre tal ley hizo una repeticion fulano, y un tratado fulano &^a. y asi se hace en todos los miembros de las otras ciencias como seria decir: sobre los libros de anima de Aristoteles escribió fulano, y fulano: y sobre Job escribió fulano, y fulano.

Lo 5^o. es qu^e par^a qu^e haya mas noticia de lo que los tales libros tratan, hace otro libro, en qu^e se dice, y refiere la summa y sentencia de lo qu^e cada libro contiene, qu^e en efecto es un epitome ô argumen^{to} del tal libro, por manera qu^e con leer aque^l epitome ô argumen^{to}, conoce quien lo lee si aquel libro satisface â su proposito, para haver de buscallo ô de leello todo, ô si le basta, ô satisfice aquella breve relacion; que no puede leer toda la multitud de libros, que en cada ciencia hai escritos.

Lo 6°. es que para que hai personas que para leer publicamente ô predicar, ô para componer obras querrian tener quien las enderezar, o les propusiere las materias de que piensan de tratar, y no tienen noticia de los lugares de lo podrian hallar: se hace otro libro de proposiciones ordenadas por alfabeto, segun la diversidad de las materias en que dice: sobre tal cosa escribe fulano, está en tal parte, y fulano esto en tal, y asi se ponen todos los autores que de aquello hablan con señal que denote si la tratan breve ô largamente, el qual libro será general para todas las ciencias y facultades, como para muchos de derecho lo es el Bertachino.

De estos quatro generos de libros es mui gran parte hecha, porque los dos primeros se sacan ya en limpio, y los dos postreros que son de los epitomes, ô de las proposiciones ô materias, estan sacadas mas de 38500.. libros en quince años ha que en ello se entiende: y este mismo exercicio han de tener las personas para cuio sustentamento y para allegar los libros nuevos suplica el dicho doⁿ Hernando por la merced en su peticion contenida. Por manera que con el tiempo ven[d]rá esta libreria no solo â tener todos los libros que se pudieren haver, pero todo lo que en ellos hai estará en otros libros reducido á orden alfabetico segun es dicho, á efecto que facilmente cada qual sea instruido de lo que saber quisiere.

Y pues que estas son obras, que asi en general no se hallan hechas, y son de calidad de que Nuestro Senor y V. M. serán tan servidos, y la republica Cristiana aprovechada Suplica el dicho doⁿ Hernando á V. M. que atento al buen fin á que se enderezan, y que es criado de V. M. el que lo procura, y que no desea, que de sus servicios, y de quanto su Padre le dexó quede otra memoria in Mayorazgo, sino que esto sea hecho con la merced y favor de V. M. sea servido de acetar la merced que para ello suplica de la perpetuidad de los 500.. pesos, que para aiuda de lo susodicho de por vida se le hace merced, pues â V. M. como â Principe y Emperador compete ayudar y favorecer, y ser acompañado de las lettras juntamente con las armas, segun que sus claros predecesores en la copilacion de sus leyes lo testifican.

The Memorial may be roughly rendered as follows:

MAY IT PLEASE YOUR MAJESTY:

Don Fernando Colon kisses the feet and hands of Y. M. because you were pleased to grant him the favor that his petition concerning the founding of the library should become the subject of consideration in council and because the happy results that have come from it are due to Y. M.

He says, first that there will be a certain place in Y. M. kingdom where all books in all languages and divisions of knowledge that it is possible to find, in christendom and out of christendom, will be collected. Up to this time it is not known that any sovereign has ordered this done; because it is one thing to establish a library of that which is to be found at the time, and it is another thing to order that there be a continual search and collection of what newly turns up.

Second, that besides the fact that the books are collected so that the memory of such worthy men may not perish (a thing men are watchful over for their own good) since much is lost already, a copy of which, or possession of which, would give certainty and quietness both in matters of religion and in those that concern the government of the commonwealth, this will serve for the good of all, and will provide a place to which men of letters would have recourse for whatever perplexity might arise.

Third, in order that there may be notice for the aforesaid authors in all localities, the said Don Hernando Colon, together with those officers and men of letters he will associate with himself in the undertaking, will reduce to alphabetical order all authors that there are, and he will go on, and continue with those that may come to light, saying: such author wrote such and such a book; putting all the works he has written in alphabetical order likewise, so that the works may be found most easily, and their authors too.

Fourth, that another book will be divided according to the general divisions of knowledge, e. g. theology, canon law, civil law, etc., and in each division will be put in alphabetical order all the classes or individuals which that science contains, specifying the books that there may be written in it, e. g. So-and-so wrote on the subject of the supreme trinity and catholic faith, and So-and-so composed a dissertation on such and such a law, and Such-and-such a one wrote a treatise, etc.; and go on so in all divisions of the other sciences, e. g. So-and-so wrote on Aristotle's De Anima, and Such-and-such a one wrote on Job.

Fifth, that there may be more particular notice of what such books treat of, there will be another book, in which will be entered the sum and substance of the contents of each work, which in effect is an analysis or argument of such book, so that by reading that analysis or argument any one may know if that work supplies his want, in place of having to find the book and read it all, or, if the short analysis answer his purpose, he will know that there is no need to read the great multitude of books written about each science.

Sixth, since there are persons that, for public reading or for speaking, or for writing books, wish some one to direct them or to lay before them the materials on which they are to write, and who have no knowledge of the places where they can find what they want, there will be another book of questions arranged alphabetically according to the diversity of subjects, in which it will say: on such a subject So-and-so wrote, this is in this part, and that in that; and so will be treated all the authors that treat of it, with a mark denoting whether they consider it briefly or at length; this book will be common to all the sciences and divisions of knowledge, as Bertachinus* is for much of law.

Of these four classes of books a great part is finished, for the first two are already completed and the latter two, the analyses and the subjects, show more than 38,500 books upon which one has been employed for fifteen years; and this task itself requires workers, for whose support and for the collecting of new books, the said Don Hernando begs the favor of his petition. In time not only will this library contain all the books which it is possible to procure, but also all that there may be in them will be reduced to alphabetical order in other books, as has been explained, with the result that each and every person may easily learn what he wishes to know.

* Joannes Bertachinus was a celebrated Italian jurist of the fifteenth century. His Repertorium juris utriusque was printed at Rome in 1480-81.

And since these are undertakings that are not carried on as a common thing, and are of a nature to redound to the glory of God and of Y. M., and to prove a blessing to the whole of the Christian commonwealth, the said Don Hernando, anxious for the good purpose at which he is aiming, a servant of Y. M. that will carry it out, and who asks for no more than that of his services and of all that his father willed to him, there may be no other memory or recollection, but that this was done by the aid and favor of Y. M., begs that he may be granted the favor for which he prays on this behalf, the continuance of the 500 pesos, the settling of which upon the aforesaid for life is his petition; for it is fitting for Y. M., as sovereign and emperor, to make this settlement and grant this favor; and he asks that it may be accompanied by letters patent and sealed, as your glorious predecessors do testify in the collection of laws.

INVASION OF CANADA IN 1775.

The following letter from Col. James Livingston was written probably at Chamblée in August, 1775, to Philip Schuyler, in command of the forces designed for the invasion of Canada. The original is in the New York Public Library.

DEAR SIR

I had the pleasure to write you by Major Brown, & in your Absence had the honor of an Answer thereto from Brig^d General Montgomery, since which Nothing material has happened in this part; A few Indians from the Castel of S^t Louis have joined the Troops at S^t Johns, owing in a great Measure to two of their Tribe being killed upon their last scouting party near f^t Ofaire. The Number of their Tribe (supposing they were all joined) Does not consist of two hundred effective Men, together with a few of the S^t francois Indians. The Upper Country Indians are mostly returned, so that with what Col:^o Johnston brought with him by the Way of Oswego, may amount to about 4 or 5 hundred. The Canadians have waited with the utmost Impatience your coming & begin to despair of seeing you; tho I hope to revive their Spirits by sending Sircular Letters to the Captains of the Different Parishes of your coming soon to relieve them. The Harvest has been very favourable here, tho' attended with some Rain, I expect it will be finished nearly about the time you may arrive at S^t Johns, which hope will be in about a fortnight at farthest.

I shall endeavour to join the treaty you propose sending this side the River (with what men I can muster) to block up the Communication from Montreal to S^t John's C^a; You'l be kind enough to send an Express a day or two before the party arrives that I may get the Necessary Provisions ready. I had the pleasure to acquaint you last of the Number of Troops at the three different Posts, Viz. Montreal Chambly and S^t Johns, they are now mostly at S^t Johns. I am sorry to acquaint you that they are well fortified with Ammunition Provisions &c Their Canon consist of sixes, nines & eighteen pounders; If I had a party of five hundred Men only I cou'd have taken all their Ammunition as they passed by my Door.

The Soldiers are much harrassed & wou'd be glad of your Arrival. I make no Doubt Numbers will desert upon the sight of your Army. I shall endeavour to get some loose Timber in the Form of Scow Boats got ready to cross your party the other side the River immediately upon their Arrival. General Carleton has been expected at Montreal for some time past, the true Reason of his not coming is, that, there being no Troops at all at Quebec, he can't quit it for fear of a Revolt. I think there is littel to fear from that Quarter, tho' he has very industriously reported that a Reinforcement was to come from Europe or Boston. I shou'd rather be inclined to think from the latter. Notwithstanding they have their hands full at Boston. He has made a Proposition to the Canadians in Case they wou'd inlist under the Crown of Great Britain to gratify every Man that will turn out upon this Occasion with one hundred Acres of Land at Boston, New York, C^a The Proposion was heard with Disdain. Col^o McLean who arrived here with Col^o Johnston has orders from the King to raise Rejiments of Canadians upon these Termes. I can assure you from Three Rivers to Chambley he got not a single Man. I belive he got a few in and about the Subburbs of the Towne of Montreal. Make haste then & prevent any further Reinforcements. My best Wishes & those of the Canadians attend you. May God prosper your just Undertaking, & unite this flourishing Province with the Rest of the contending Provinces for Liberty is the Sincere wish of him who is with

The greatest Esteem

Yours &c^a

JAS^s LIVINGSTON.

THE CANADA CAMPAIGN OF 1776.

James Caldwell, the writer of the following letter, was Chaplain to the 3d New Jersey regiment, commanded by Elias Dayton. The original manuscript is in the New York Public Library.

ALBANY, JUNE 11, 1776.

MY DEAR FRIEND,

Not a line have I rec^d since here except once from Mr^s Caldwell & Peggy & a few sentences from Mr Hazard.

Of the Cowardice, mismanagement, & confusion at Canada, you will hear enough to sicken you. Our Generals there have acted upon the sordid principles of opposition to one another, while the small pox & Commissioners of the Congress, ruined the army & our friends. I have not seen a man of any party in the Army or out of it who does not agree that the Commissioners have been the principal means of all the confusion that hath reigned there. Since Gen^l Sullivans arrival our officers wear another face. The Army is collected & supplied, & animated. I am persuaded Sullivan dies or conquors. Thompson will not be behind him. The army there at present is about 9000 half fit for duty & half sick.

Col^o Daytons Battalion have now settled matters with the Tories And we were in hopes to have leave to join our Brigade in Canada. But the state of the Indians will not admit of it. We will probably rebuild Fort Stanwix & thereby comfort our Indian friends. A Treaty will soon be held & the Indians required to take a decisive resolution for, or against us. General Schuyler will not permit me to go to Canada till that is over, then if I can be spared, & there is a prospect of usefulness, I expect to go. Or if we can have a sufficient force & other supplies it will be the best method to enter thro' Oswego & sweep the country down to Montreal & settle matters fully with the Indians. To effect this we want, under the common smile of Providence, but one Rifle Battalion to join ours. The Indians will not fight ag^t rifle men.

Consultations with the General &c. will not admit me to enlarge. I wish I could tell my friends how much I love them. How highly do I enjoy the even distant prospect of an interview! I need not tell you & my dear Mr^s Boudinet to comfort Mr^s Caldwell as much as you can. I leave Deacon Ogden letter & that to the Congregation open for you, after perusal to seal & send.

With the kindest wishes, & tenderest affection, for you and yours

Your JAMES CALDWELL.

[Addressed:] Elias Boudinot Esq.

JAMES WILKINSON ON THE MEXICAN REVOLUTION, 1823.

The following letter from James Wilkinson is printed from the original manuscript in the New York Public Library. It was probably addressed to Thomas Aspinwall, who was at a later period U. S. Consul at London.

MEXICO April 17th 1823.

MY DEAR COL.

I cannot suffer my Friend Col. Campbell to depart hence direct for London, without sending you a testimonial of my remembrance & my Friendship.

If you have heard of my arrival in this Capital last Spring, you will be surprised at my continuance here, & my absence from my beloved Family—but Man cannot controul his destiny.

I came here to restore a Constitution shattered by hard labour, on the Delta of the Mississippi, in pursuit of that Independence which I would not barter (you know) for all the gifts & goods, subject to the disposition of the little Jesuit Maddison or his Bifaced successor Monroe; I was desirous also to take a peep at this celebrated & little known Region—unfortunately my Health has not been reestablished & and my Curiosity is more than gratified.

I was followed by certain claims of my Friends against this Country, for Cash, Arms & Munitions of War furnished during the Revolutionary conflict, to the Amount of $400,000 and have been detained here by delusive assurances, from the late Government, of a satisfactory adjustment, which I have still to seek, under the new order of things, which promise to be more auspicious. I am however preparing to depart hence about the commencement of June, for my dear Celestine & our beloved Son & Daughter, who reside in New Orleans.

The scenes which have occurred here since my arrival are well worthy record, & may employ my feeble Pen at a future Day—they can but Interest you & therefore I will give you such conspicuous details as may be comprized in a Letter.

Yturbide has cheated his most intimate military associates, demonstrating in the last stage of Royalty, more of the Lamb than the Lion—more of the Spinster than the Soldier of courage & resource—by a ferocious sanguinary disposition in War, he acquired the character of dauntless Intrepidity—by a fine Person & the most seducing address he established strong prepossessions—and by the cunning of silence & reserve he imposed Himself for a Man of Intelligence—I have myself been deceived as to his physical Energy & his moral faculties, but have known for eight months, nay Eleven months, that he was made up of Ambition & Vain glory, & was a stranger to Integrity.

I first visited him when Generalissimo, on the 7th of May last, having previously passed Him a note of Ceremony, which he answered with a charming Billet doux—I was received with great Courtesy, & prattled to Him & his wife for more than half an hour during which he did not utter a sentiment—on the 11th I think. he returned my visit with the parade of two Coaches & six; and at that Interview he assured me, he should make the Carreer of our great Washington the model of his Conduct, i. e. to give Liberty to His Country & retire to private Life—yet on the 18th at night, at 20' after 11 oc: a chosen Serjeant & 2 or 300 selected men of his own Regt. with Drums, Trumpets & the firing of small Arms with Ball Cartridges, commenced an awful tumult, in which they were soon joined by thousands of the “Lepros”, vagabond Indians or casts of all colours who infest this City, hailing Yturbide as Emperor & insisting on his Coronation; He appeared in the Gallery of his palace & affected to sooth the rioters, who became more violent & traversed all quarters of the City. The Troops were kept under arms in quarters by their Commanders, ready to suppress the riot, but no orders were received—the tumult was kept up until day Break when all became quiet, but a panic Horror had been excited, and a gathering of Troops around the Chamber of the Congress, when that Body met, alarmed them so much that they demanded the presence of the Generalissimo for their protection, and he was forthwith draged in his Coach by the Populace to the Hall of Congressional deliberations, whence he made an ex-cusatory address for the Riot, the Galleries & every avenue being crowded by the Military in arms—so soon as he sat down a motion was made & seconded, to elect Him Emperor, which was opposed by two or three members, whose lives were immediately threatened from the Galleries, with the cry of “turn Him out put Him to Death” the Election then ensued & Yturbide was chosen by about 75 votes to 15, this majority being inadequate to a constitutional choice, & the dissenting members were obliged to seek safety by flight; on the 21st He took the oath of office, a most solemn one indeed, binding Himself to pay obedience to Congress, to support the Laws they had made or might make, Sacredly to respect the Persons & property of Individuals, &c. &c. on the 21st June he was crowned in a manner which I considered clumsy & be-tinseled; and extraordinary scenes of extravagance ostentation & folly ensued—in July I, in the frankness & Independence of my spirit, observed to the Monk Herrera, Minister of State “Tis rumoured Sir that your Imperial Master intends to reinstate the Jesuits to restore the Inquisition & to turn the Congress out of doors, now Sir mark the Words of an old Politician, if he does the one or the other he is a lost Man.” he listened to me, smiled & treated the observation with ridicule, yet He a few days after asked me to send for my Family & consent to remain in the Empire. I laughed in his Face & answered "not for one half of it" and to those circumstances I ascribe the deceptive game subsequently played on me—on the 26th August under the pretext of a conspiracy against His Majesty, and during the obscurity of Night, Men of the first Rank & Fortune soldiers & citizens were torn from their wives & about sixty Persons were put in confinement, including 23 members of Congress. This outrage spread general dismay among a poor spirited corrupt community, & men spoke in whispers—in a few weeks the discontents increased & the Ladies began to clamour audibly, the Congress in course plucked up courage, & began to oppose the Usurpations of the Tyrant, who still held out the Idea of a Constitution, on which he required a Veto, which demand was scouted by a great Majority—He then demanded of the Congress the reduction of their members from 203 to 60 which was also rejected; finally on the 31st Oct. He turned them out of doors & instituted a provisional Hunto of his own choice see "Acta de instalacion" enclosed—on the 10th of November His Majesty determined to go to Xalapa, from thence to tamper with the Spanish Commandant of St Juan de Oloa for the surrender of that fortress, which commands Vera Cruz, but his first proposition was promptly rejected—He had previously sent for Santana Commandant of Vera Cruz, a former favourite & consummate villain, to inveigle Him to this City, for the punishment of some misconduct in Command. Santana arrived at Xalapa & knowing his Master discovered his design—he therefore feigned an excuse to remain behind, when the Emperor set out on his return from Xalapa, and a few Hours after retraced his steps to Vera Cruz, where he immediately declared for the reunion & Independence of the Congress & set up the Cry of Republicanism—this happened the 2nd December—a Column of 2 or 3000 men was soon after ordered, under Majr. Genl. Echavarri to beseige the place which was accordingly invested, but on the 3rd Feby. the beseiging force joined the beseiged.

For the ensuing Events I will refer you to the Bearer Col. Campbell, whom I recommend to your particular acquaintance, as a Gentleman of worth & Intelligence, who has been here three months & is master of the varied & Interesting Scenes of that Period; and to this source of information I have added a file of Papers which may give you the proceedings of Congress down to the 15th Inst.

My beloved Celestine with our charming little Son & Daughter are in New Orleans, where I hope to embrace them in the Month of June—it has pleased the Almighty to take our Eldest Twin daughter to Himself. This child at five years of age was too perfect for this World.

If Mrs Aspenwall be near you embrace Her for a stranger, who wishes Her every happiness, and if you have Children I will implore our God to bless them—farewell dear Sir & believe me ever your affectionate Friend & Brother Soldier.

JA: WILKINSON.

This scral is for your own indulgent Eye. Write me at N. O. on receipt of it, and give me all the important news we expect from Europe. J. W.

The Holy Continental alliance in attempting to coerce the Will of Spain, & restore Her to a state of grinding despotism, may I hope rend the shackles of all Europe, & pave the way to the rational liberty of Mankind. The People of England will be on the side of the oppressed, but what will be the course of the Government on the contrary should the rights of Man be abandoned of God, in further punishment for his sins, and Ferdinand be restored to plenary Power, I presume the legitimates may turn their Eyes & their Arms this way, in which case we must begin to look at Home, because we are the original Sinners, the Parents of Revolution & a standing Monument of Reproach to the Governments of the World—On this ground alone can I account for the extraord[i]nary appointment of General Jackson as Envoy extraordinary & plenipotentiary to this Government, for he is certainly as little qualified for the business of diplomacy, as any man of the least distinction in our Western Wilds—but if the Levy of ten thousand Gallies should become necessary on the Western Waters, to aid this People in any Emergency, then indeed he is the first man of the U. States—but the Papers say he has declined the appointment, which, if true, is a wise determination on His part—You will consider it almost incredible, but the following are facts—that the formation, discipline, composition, Arming & subsistence of Military Corps, are little understood here—and as to the array of Battle & the Art of War, beyond the Helter-Skelter combats of Guerrillas, are utterly unknown— It is decidedly my opinion that a well appointed Column of 15,000 British or French Troops, after a single Combat, might march directly to this place, which would assure the conquest of the Country, divided as the Population is & always will be—A single Troop of strong active dragoons would bear down a whole Reg^t. of their lean, lank, diminutive Cavalry, without Boots & with Broadbrimmed Hats of various instead of Helmets. But these opinions are offered you in confidence. Again I repeat, excuse this hasty scral.

No. 10.

REPORT FOR SEPTEMBER.

During the month of September, there were received at the Library by purchase 506 volumes and 190 pamphlets, and by gift 641 books and 1,357 pamphlets.

There were catalogued 3,216 books and 2,975 pamphlets, for which purpose 15,414 cards and 1,203 slips for the printer were written.

The following table shows the number of readers, and the number of volumes consulted, in both the Astor and Lenox Branches of the Library, during the month:

	LENOX.	ASTOR.
Total number of readers.....	2,072	6,188
Daily average of readers.....	81	248
Number of volumes consulted.....	4,768	26,911

The most notable gifts in September were as follows: from Mr. S. P. Avery, 19 rare volumes and 2 pamphlets relating to early printing; from Miss Isabel F. Hapgood, a portfolio of Russian photographs; from Dr. Wm. R. Huntington, 6 volumes and 1 pamphlet, his own works; from Mrs. Henry Draper, 3 volumes in folio, published by the Imperial Austrian Commercial Museum, namely: 2 volumes of plates on Oriental carpets, printed on white silk, and one volume of plates of specimens of Oriental enamelled glass, by Gustav Schmoranz; from Francesco P. C. Siragusa, 1 volume; from the Duc de Loubat, 1 volume and 2 reproductions of Mexican manuscripts; from Mrs. C. F. Roe, a photograph of an old painting of the Surrender of Ticonderoga; from Mr. B. F. Stevens, 3 photographs of 3 portraits of Benjamin Franklin. Government documents were received from Mauritius, Natal, Denmark, Zurich, Queensland, Grenoble, Portugal, New South Wales, Peru, Sierra Leone, the Netherlands, Valparaiso and Rome.

Mr. Maitland presented three works: one, Leeds's "Temple of Wisdom for the Little World," printed by William Bradford, Philadelphia, 1688, in which is the first publication of Francis Bacon's Essays issued in this country; the second, "News of a Trumpet sounding in the Wilderness, or the Quakers antient testimony revived," by the same author, printed and sold by William Bradford, New York, 1697; and third, a reissue of the preceding under the title, "A Trumpet sounded out of the Wilderness of America, which may serve as a warning to the Government and people of England to beware of Quakerism," printed by William Bradford, New York, 1699. Mr. Cadwalader presented a collection of about 2,000 letters to and from Mr. Monroe, covering a period from 1794 to 1826, which includes a considerable number of papers and documents of historical interest relating to his service in this country and while abroad, as a Minister. Among the more important papers is a collection of letters from Andrew Jackson, in reference to a controversy between himself, as Commanding General of the Army; Mr. Calhoun, as Secretary of War, and General Scott.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR

FOR THE YEAR ENDING JUNE 30, 1899.

July 1, 1899.

Hon. JOHN BIGELOW,

President, New York Public Library.

SIR:

I have the honor to submit the following report of the work of this Library for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1899:

NEW BUILDING.

On March 19th, 1899, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the City of New York authorized the issue of bonds to the amount of $500,000, to be used by the Park Board in removing the Forty-second Street Reservoir and in laying the foundations for the new building for the New York Public Library. This action was approved by the Board of Aldermen on April 5th, and by the Council on May 9th; and the Ordinance was approved by the Mayor on May 10th. The plans and specifications for this part of the work having been approved, and proposals for bids for the work having been duly advertised according to law, the contract for removing the reservoir and for constructing the foundations of the new building, was awarded by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to Eugene Lentilhon, and the work of removal began on June 6th. It will probably require about fourteen months to complete this work.

The delay in beginning building operations has been well utilized by the architects in perfecting the plans, and the convenience and artistic appearance of the building have been greatly improved.

SHELF DEPARTMENT.

During the fiscal year the number of volumes received by the shelf department, entered in the accession catalogues and placed on the shelves, was 34,182, of which 16,994 were purchases and 17,188 were gifts. The number of pamphlets received and accessioned during the same period was 16,986; of which 5,138 were purchases, and 11,848 were gifts.

The number of volumes actually received during the year is much larger. The Ford gift, which will be noticed further on, is estimated at about 100,000 volumes and pamphlets, of which nearly 8,000 have been catalogued and accessioned.

Volumes and pamphlets actually received during the fiscal year:

VOLUMES.					PAMPHLETS.
Purchases	.	.	.	10,581	Purchases	.	.	.	7,311
Gifts	.	.	.	45,012	Gifts	.	.	.	94,387
				55,593					101,698

The total number of volumes on the shelves and available for use at the end of June, 1899, was 459,248, and of pamphlets, about 117,000.

Steady progress has been made in the re-classification of the Library, the subjects of French, Italian, Spanish and Portuguese literature, general science, gardening and forestry, fisheries, learned societies in part, Spanish and Portuguese and French history, and the anatomical and physiological periodicals, having been arranged and the books and pamphlets marked with the new relative location marks, and the corresponding marks noted in all catalogues.

The number of works re-classified and marked in this manner during the year was 24,722 volumes and 1,880 pamphlets, of which about 7,500 volumes are in French history, over 1,200 volumes in Spanish and Portuguese history, 3,452 in learned societies and 6,500 in French literature.

At the Lenox Building the R. L. Stuart Collection and the Drexel Music Collection were re-classified and the volumes marked.

About 600 volumes of Theology, which were received with the American Bible Society's library, were shelved with the other theological books at the Lenox Building.

The new classification has been so far worked out in the different departments of the Library, that the scheme has been printed in a provisional form for official use. So far as carried out it has been found to work well in supplying the wants of readers.

In order to make room for the new accessions, 2,724 feet of shelving were put in the north basement of the Lenox Building, and in February the collections relating to Law and Jurisprudence, and medical periodicals and societies, comprising 14,529 volumes, were transferred thereto from the Astor Building, reserving only a few works in these departments for the open reference shelves. The corresponding title cards were also transferred to the Lenox Building. The total amount of additional shelving set up in the two buildings during the year comprises 7,436 linear feet.

BINDING.

During the year 5,278 volumes have been bound for the Library, and 1,549 volumes have been put in stiff "manilla rope" paper covers. In the Library bindery 1,407 volumes have been repaired, a number of maps have been mounted and 280 volumes of public documents taken apart.

CATALOGUE DEPARTMENT.

During the year there were catalogued 54,769 volumes and 32,095 pamphlets, for which purpose there were written 255,191 cards and 21,944 slips for the printer, from each of which slips five printed cards were obtained. At the end of June, 1899, the new index catalogue in the reading room at the Astor Building contained 418,615 cards, and those in the two reading rooms at the Lenox Building, 123,450 cards. The number of cards added to each catalogue during the year was 178,615 for the Astor, and 72,300 for the Lenox. The latter number includes about 38,850 cards of the R. L. Stuart collection, which were made the year before, but were held back for the books to be re-classified and re-marked.

The catalogue of music contained about 35,050 cards on June 30, 1899. A considerable portion of the Drexel collection still remains to be catalogued, but the work is advancing steadily. The combined music collections now aggregate 9,000 volumes and 1,700 pamphlets.

At the Lenox Building the section of English history has been catalogued, and the greater part of general history and American literature, but a considerable portion of the other Lenox collections are still uncatalogued. The above figures for the Lenox include the catalogues of American genealogy and music, but not the separate catalogues of Fifteenth Century books, of the early Americana, of the manuscripts and prints, and of the maps, all of which, except the first named, are still in progress.

The catalogue of Fifteenth Century books has been revised, and a separate check-list, arranged by towns and presses, has been made. About 500 volumes of early Americana, comprising publications from 1575 to 1621, have been catalogued.

In the manuscript department 2,524 slips for the printer were written, and over 5,000 printed cards were filed in the catalogue of manuscripts. These relate mainly to the Emmet collection. For the catalogue of maps about 6,000 cards have been written, comprising nearly all of the roller maps, dissected maps, and miscellaneous sheet maps in the Library. The Hydrographic charts have also been catalogued, and an analytical catalogue is being made of the ancient atlases.

The calendaring of the Emmet collection has been continued throughout the year, and 267 pages of this calendar index have been printed in the Bulletin, the last appearing in the number for April, 1899. About 100 additional pages have been printed as separates.

The volumes thus far indexed include the papers relating to the Albany Congress, 1754; the Stamp Act Congress, 1765, and the Congress of 1774, each in one volume; to the members of the Continental Congress, five volumes; to the Presidents of Congress, and of the United States; Signers of the Declaration of Independence; 19 volumes of Sanderson's Lives of the Signers; one volume of the Articles of Confederation; 12 volumes of Lossing's Field Book of the Revolution; papers relating to the siege of Savannah and to the siege of Charleston, and eight volumes relating to the generals of the Revolution, being 52 volumes in all.

There remain about 36 volumes to be indexed, which will make about 200 printed pages, in addition to those which are already in type.

The work of indexing certain current periodicals, referred to in my last report, has been continued, and during the year there have been added from this source to the subject card catalogue in the Astor Building 714 titles from the co-operative index list and 16,396 titles from the special library list of current periodicals. This addition to the catalogue has been found very useful by readers. At this date a little over one-half of the library is catalogued by authors and subjects, and classified; about two hundred thousand books and pamphlets are catalogued by authors, but not by subjects; and about 50,000 are uncatalogued. The main work of the coming year, in addition to providing for the current wants of readers, must therefore be in the catalogue department.

READERS' DEPARTMENT.

During the year the number of readers who visited the two buildings was 111,038, the Astor having received 84,977, and the Lenox, 26,061. This is an increase of a little more than 7,000 readers over the preceding year of 1897-8, the increase being 3,334 at the Astor and 3,759 at the Lenox. The daily average of readers was 358, or 247 at the Astor and 84 at the Lenox; the largest number in any one month was in March, and the smallest number in July. The total number of volumes and periodicals issued to readers in both buildings during the twelve months, not including the use made of the open reference shelves, was 425,838. Of the 357,906 volumes called for at the Astor, the largest number, 66,324, or 18 per cent., belonged to English and American literature; 63,754, or 18 per cent., were in applied science; 67,123, or 16 per cent., related to economics and social questions; and 31,131, or 9 per cent., pertained to the literature of continental Europe. The total number of volumes given out to readers at the Lenox was 67,932, of which 12,396, or 18 per cent., related to American history and genealogy.

The necessity of filling up the alcoves at the Astor Building with book stacks has reduced still further the alcove privileges of readers, and the renewal of such privilege is now practically discontinued. It is believed, however, that the increased facilities afforded by the well selected open reference shelves, by the laying out of the most important current periodicals, and by the improved service of the Library staff, will be sufficient to meet all reasonable requirements during the period which must elapse before the new building can be occupied.

In November, 1898, a second reading room was opened at the Lenox Building, in the north hall on the main floor, for readers in American genealogy and music, and seats were provided for fifty readers. Nearly 8,000 volumes and pamphlets relating to American genealogy, American State and local history, and heraldry, have been shelved in this room, including about 1,000 volumes on the open reference shelves. For this department 21,900 cards have been filed in a separate catalogue, and during the eight months in which the room has been open about 8,800 readers have been served with 32,000 volumes.

The open reference shelves in both libraries have been freely used by a large number of readers. Nearly 4,500 volumes are on the open shelves at the Astor Building, of which only four volumes have been reported as missing. At the Lenox Building only two volumes have been reported missing out of about 5,000 volumes on the open reference shelves in the two reading rooms. In addition to these losses about twenty-five volumes have been mutilated during the year by cutting out a leaf or plate.

The art galleries and exhibition rooms at the Lenox Building had 33,569 visitors during the year.

The total number of readers in the periodical department during the fiscal year was 16,000; there being a daily average of over fifty. In addition to the journals contained on the open reference shelves, 147,518 numbers of periodicals were called for, being a daily average of over 500. The total number of periodicals received at the Library at this date is 3,709, of which 674 are gifts. The average of separate numbers of periodicals received daily is 185; the total number for the year being 63,720. This includes 40 daily papers, 504 weeklies, 134 semi-monthlies, 974 monthlies, 149 bi-monthlies, 438 quarterlies, 67 semi-annuals, 566 annuals, and 837 of irregular dates of publication. The amount of clerical labor required to keep these files of periodicals complete and properly arranged, so as to be readily accessible, is considerable, but the results are very satisfactory and are highly appreciated by the readers. About 1,400 volumes of old periodicals were added to the Library during the year, completing some important files.

ORIENTAL DEPARTMENTS.

Of the Schiff Fund for the purchase of Semitic Literature, $1,559.01 was expended during the year in the purchase and binding of about 800 volumes, most of which were added to the Jewish collection, having been obtained at the Joachimsthals sale in Amsterdam. Among these are about 100 collections of rabbinical decisions in matters of civil and ecclesiastical law, which decisions are of much value to students of Jewish history, and of which the Library now has a fine collection. There was also obtained from that sale a collection of pamphlets relating to the Sabbathian heresy, or the belief in the pseudo-Messiah Sabbathai Zebi (1641-76), of which heresy Jonathan Eybschuetz was accused by Jacob Emden, and which was the cause of a vehement controversy between these two great rabbis and their respective adherents in Germany and the Slavic countries about the middle of the eighteenth century. The Jewish collection now includes over 4,000 volumes, and nearly 1,000 books and pamphlets in Judæo-German. In collecting literature for this department special attention is being paid to the history of the Jewish people in the United States, and to the growth and development of various Jewish communities in Europe, as also to the anti-Semitic movement. In other branches of Semitic literatures, we have obtained all of the more important current publications, and have filled a number of gaps. Considerable additions have been made to our collection of works on Mohammedan law, which is becoming a subject of interest in this country in connection with the laws and customs of the Philippines.

SLAVONIC DEPARTMENT.

A department of Slavonic Literature has been established during the year, and the collection now contains over 1,300 volumes, including 570 volumes of periodicals and transactions of societies, and 281 volumes of recent literature.

PUBLIC DOCUMENTS DEPARTMENT.

The Department of Public Documents in the Library now contains about 55,000 volumes; the number received during the fiscal year being 5,724 volumes and 3,450 pamphlets.

Special effort is making to perfect the collection of official statistics, and also to enlarge the files of legislative proceedings of Federal, State, Colonial and Municipal Governments, and the result is that the Library now has the recent reports of legislative proceedings of the United States and its several States, of the Argentine Republic, Belgium, Canada, France, Germany, Great Britain, Greece, Italy, the Netherlands, New South Wales, Spain and many of the British and French colonies.

The collection of Municipal Documents has been largely increased during the year, and is much used by special students.

The collection of documents of the early United States Congresses has been considerably increased by additions from the Ford Collection, some of which are unusually fine copies, and some important additions have been made to the set of Pennsylvania and Maryland Provincial laws.

During the year two document check-lists have been printed; the first, issued in March, 1899, being a check-list of Federal Documents in the Library; and the second, issued in May, 1899, being a check-list of municipal documents in the Library. A third check-list, comprising the Reports of Government Departments, is in press.

A file of Congressional Documents, relating to foreign affairs for the years 1809 to 1895, bound in 110 volumes, has been presented to the Library by Mr. John L. Cadwalader, and is now being indexed.

THE BULLETIN.

The monthly Bulletin of the Library has been continued, the second volume being completed in December with 480 pages, an increase of 113 pages over the first volume. Each number contains some historical or literary document, printed in most cases from original manuscripts in the Library, and the Bulletin is thus valuable as an exchange. During the fiscal year there have been printed in the Bulletin lists of periodicals relating to science in general, technical periodicals, periodicals relating to general history, literary periodicals, and periodicals relating to art and music. These lists of periodicals include also those in the library of Columbia University. There were also printed in the Bulletin lists of pamphlets relating to the French Revolution, of Cervantes Literature, and of publications relating to Fish and Fisheries, exclusive of Angling and Waltonian Literature.

INSTRUCTION OF APPRENTICES.

Apprentices were received at the Library in three classes about the first of October, January and April. Their introduction to Library work has been systematized, instruction being given to newcomers in a class, in collating, copying, cataloguing and filing of cards, so that all began to work at once intelligently and progressed rapidly in acquiring knowledge of the methods.

One day in May was spent in visiting a few other libraries in the city, and the apprentices returned with renewed enthusiasm for the work.

Calls have come from outside for persons to do temporary pieces of work, and six apprentices have filled such positions very satisfactorily.

For the coming year, owing to the large number of applications and the limited desk room, it has been thought best to receive only such persons as have received a good High School education and have some knowledge of modern languages. This has already resulted in the acceptance of a promising class for October.

GIFTS.

The most important gift of the year is that of the books, pamphlets and prints presented to the New York Public Library in January, by Worthington C. Ford and Paul L. Ford, as a memorial of their father, Gordon L. Ford. It is estimated to contain about 30,000 volumes and 70,000 pamphlets, and a large number of maps and prints, aggregating over 100,000 pieces. An account of the collection is given in the Bulletin of the New York Public Library for February, 1899, where the letter making the formal presentation is also printed. This collection is especially rich in the pamphlet literature of American History for the period 1750-1850, in the early Journals of Congress, in American Biography, in Economics, and in early American Poetry. It contains many duplicates of works already in this Library, but a considerable number of these duplicates are better copies than those which we had, being uncut or on large paper, or made specially valuable by autographs. This gift of the printed matter of the Ford Collection was made possible by the purchase of the manuscript portion of the same collection by Mr. J. Pierpont Morgan, who has generously signified his intention of presenting the greater part of these manuscripts to the New York Public Library in the near future.

The work of comparing the books and pamphlets of the Ford Collection with the catalogues and copies of the Library to determine which shall be retained and which shall be placed in a special duplicate collection, is necessarily considerable, and the great mass of the pamphlets is, as yet, unassorted. All of the cataloguing force of the Library which could be spared has been engaged on the Ford Collection since it was received, but it will require another year to complete the selection, cataloguing and accessioning of this material in addition to caring for the current accessions and continuing the work of classification on the shelves.

The collection includes a number of bundles of engravings, among which are numerous interesting pieces of American origin. There are early aquatints, copper and steel engravings, lithographs, many old maps and some caricatures, the most remarkable of the latter class being a half a dozen prints by William Charles, relating to the War of 1812.

In addition to the above mentioned gift, Mr. Paul Leicester Ford has since presented to the Library a collection of fifty-nine letters to John Winthrop from John Davenport and others, dating 1638-1693, and an interesting collection of papers of Gerard Bancker, consisting of maps, surveys, &c., relating to real estate in New York City and vicinity, between 1770 and 1800.

Mr. F. A. Sorge presented to the Library a large collection of books, pamphlets and newspapers, which, with the exception of forty-eight volumes relating to music, chiefly related to the socialistic movement.

In December, 1898, Mr. Maitland gave to the Library over 200 volumes of rare Americana. These volumes relate to the earliest period of American discovery, the greater number of them having been printed before the year 1550, and they include maps and books of the highest interest and value. A detailed list of this valuable gift was printed in the Bulletin for February, 1899.

Mr. Maitland has also given other remarkable books during the year, among which may be named the manuscript "Buccaneers' Atlas" of 1696, being a description in French of the coasts of South America, with colored charts, and a copy of John Wesley's first published hymn book, printed at Charleston, S. C., in 1737.

From Mr. Avery has been received a considerable number of interesting and valuable volumes; from Mr. Rives, a transcript from the Spanish archives of Simancas of documents relating to the early history of Virginia and other parts of America, 1608-24; from Mr. Charles H. Russell, Mr. Andrew H. Green and Mr. John Bigelow, various publications of importance; and from Mr. Cadwalader, a collection of books relating to outdoor sports, and a collection of about 2,000 pieces of manuscript, being letters to and from James Madison, his son-in-law S. L. Gouverneur, and others of that period; Dr. S. A. Binion gave a collection of 380 letters, proclamations and other documents, of Casamajor, the French commander at Santo Domingo, Comte de Cressac, colonel of colored cavalry, and others, between 1781 and 1809.

Numerous other gifts were received during the year and were duly noticed in the monthly Bulletin of the Library. The Century Association of New York gave over 1,000 volumes and nearly as many pamphlets, and valuable gifts were received from The Evening Post Publishing Company, from Mrs. Henry H. Draper, from Hon. Robert P. Porter, from Rev. F. H. Marling, from the Social Reform Club, and from many others.

Lord Crawford gave a set of his reproduction of three famous old maps; Earl Cowper, a copy of the Cartularium Monasterii Sancti Johannis Baptistae de Colecestria; Lady Meux, a fac-simile of an Ethiopian manuscript entitled "Lives of Mabâ Sëyôn and Gabra Krëstôs"; the Duc de Loubat a fac-simile of an ancient Mexican Codex; Captain Chadwick, of the U. S. Flagship New York, a very large map made by the sailors to illustrate the movements of the fleet before Santiago.

In conclusion, I wish to call attention to the fact that the members of the Library staff have been zealous and efficient in their work, each in his or her own department, and manifest a genuine interest in the increase of the resources of the Library, and in supplying the demands of the readers as far as possible. The monthly meetings of the staff have been largely occupied with discussions of questions relating to shelf classification and to subject cataloguing; they have been well attended and some valuable suggestions have been made in them. I am much indebted to the chiefs of the several departments for their cordial co-operation throughout the year.

Very respectfully,

J. S. BILLINGS,

Director.

WINTHROP-DAVENPORT PAPERS.

In January of this year the Library was enriched by the acquisition of fifty-nine manuscript letters and other documents, being mainly a part of the papers of John Winthrop the Younger, colonial governor of Connecticut. They are a special gift of Mr. Paul Leicester Ford, and were purchased from a lineal descendant of Gov. Winthrop, to whom they had come by inheritance.

While in the possession of Francis Bayard Winthrop, of New Haven, most of them were printed, but not always literally—partly in Leonard Bacon's Thirteen Historical Discourses (New Haven, 1839), and partly in the Collections of the Massachusetts Historical Society, 3rd series, vols. IX (1846) and X (1849). Subsequently some of them appeared in print again, and particularly several Davenport letters, which were printed in A. B. Davenport's History and Genealogy of the Davenport Family (New York, 1851).

The collection consists, in the main, of letters to Winthrop, and drafts of his letters to several of his correspondents, among the latter being one to Philip Carteret, governor of New Jersey; one to Col. Richard Nicolls, and two to Col. Francis Lovelace—colonial governors of New York. There is one letter written in 1638 by the Rev. John Davenport and Theophilus Eaton, founders of New Haven, which we print below. Of holograph letters from Davenport to Winthrop there are sixteen—one of 1653, four of 1655, three of 1658, three of 1659, and five of 1660. There is also one letter written in 1675 by John Davenport, Jr.

The Davenport letters are followed by twenty others, addressed to Winthrop between 1664 and 1669. They include one each from Sir William Ashurst, James Noyes, Abraham Pierson, and Edward Wigglesworth. The selection presented below is given merely to convey a general idea of the collection as a whole.

REV. JOHN DAVENPORT AND THEOPHILUS EATON TO THE GOVERNOR ETC. OF MASSACHUSETTS-BAY COLONY.*

It may please the worthy & much Honored Governor, Deputy, and Assistants, &, with them, y^e present Courte, to take knowledge that our Desire of staying within this patent was Reall & Strong, if the eye of Gods providence (to whom we have comitted our waies especially in so important an enterprise as this, which, we confess, is farr above our Capacities) had guided us to a place Convenient for our families, & for our freinds. Which as our words have often expressed, so, we hope, y^e trueth thereof is sufficiently declared by our almost nine moneths patient wayting in expectacon of some opportunity to be offered us, for that end, to our great charge & hindrance, many waies.

In all which time we have, in many prayers comended y^e guidance of our apprehensions, judgm^{ts}, spirits, resolucons & wayes into the good hand of y^e onely wise God, whose prerogative it is to determine y^e bounds of our habitacons according to ye ends for which he hath brought us into these countryes, & we have considered, as we were able, by his helpe, whatsoever place hath bene propounded to us, being ready to have, with contentm^t, accepted (if by our stay any publick good might be promoted) smaller Accommodacons, & upon dearer termes (if they might be moderately comodious) then, we believe, most men, in y^e same Case with us, in all respects, would have done. And, whereas a place for an Inland plantacon, beyond Watertowne, was propounded to us, and pressed with much importunity by some, whose words have y^e power of a law with us, in any way of God, we did speedily, and seriously deliberate thereupon, it being y^e subject of y^e greatest part of a Dayes discourse: The conclusion was, that, if y^e upland should answer y^e meddow ground in goodnes and desirablenes (whereof yet there is some ground of doubting) yet, considering that a Boate cannot pass from y^e Bay thither, nearer then 8 or 10 miles distance, and that it is so remote from y^e Bay, & from any towne, we could not see how our dwelling there would be advantagious to those plantacons, or compatible with our conditions, or comodious for our familyes, or for our friends.

* This letter is entirely in the handwriting of the Rev. John Davenport, but is also signed by Theophilus Eaton. Davenport (1597–1670) came over to Boston in 1637, and was a member of the famous Cambridge synod of that year. In March, 1638, with many of the families which had accompanied him from New England, he founded New Haven, then called by its Indian name, Quinnipiac. Eaton sailed to America with Davenport, and with him founded New Haven. He was the first governor of that colony, and was also one of the commissioners which formed the "United Colonies of New England." The above letter is their farewell to the Bay government, and was written a few days prior to their departure for the new settlement.

Nor can we satisfye ourselves that it is expedient for ourselves, or for our freinds, that we chuse such a condition, wherein we must be compelled to have our dwelling houses so farr distant from our Farmes, as Boston, or Charlestowne is from that place, fewe of our freinds being able to beare the charge thereof (whose Cases nevertheles we are bound to consider) and some of them that are able not being persuaded that it is lawfull for them to live continually from the greatest part of theyre familyes, as, in this Case, they would be necessitated to doe. The Season of y^e yeare, & other weighty Consideracons, compelled us to hasten to a full and finall Conclusion which we are, at last, come unto, by Gods appointm^t and direction, we hope, in mercy, & have sent letters to Conectacutt for a speedy transacting the purchase of y^e parts about Quilypieck from y^e Natives which may pretend title thereunto. By which Act we are Absolutely, & irrevocably ingaged that way, and we are persuaded that God will order it for good unto those plantacons, whose love so abundantly, above our desarts, or expectacons, expressed, in your desire of our abode in these parts, as we shall ever retaine in thankfull memory, so we shall account ourselves thereby obliged to be any way instrumentall and serviceable for y^e comon good of these plantacons as well as of those; which the Divine providence hath combined together in as strong a bond of Brotherly affection, by y^e samenes of theyre condition, as Joab and Abishai were, whose severall armyes did mutually strengthen them boath against severall enemyes—2. Sam. 10.9.10.11. or rather they are joyned together, as Hippocrates his Twinnes, to stand, and fall, to growe & decay, to flourish, & wither, to live & dye together. In witnes of the premises we subscribe o^r names.

To the much Honored the Governour Deputy and Assistents &c.

EDWARD WIGGLESWORTH TO JOHN WINTHROP THE YOUNGER.*

MUCH HONOURED SIR.

The great encouragement which I found from my Sons being with you, declaring your willingnes to have come visited mee, had not occasions prevented, doth embolden mee to p^rsent to yo^r godly and wise consideration a description of my weak & feeble state of body. Winter was 12 yeares being very hot upon a cold day, I tooke a lift and strain'd my selfe, as I thought, in the small of my back, and tooke cold upon it: but felt no paine, but weaknes presently appeared there & ever since. The effect of this appeared betimes in the spring in my head; when I looked upwards being ready to fall backward, & when I looked downward, to fall forward. and in my legs and feet benumbednes, as if they were asleep by lying double under mee. My body was much, as it had been by the scurvy a yeare or two before, and therefore thinking it had been the scurvy, I neglected the use of any meanes that spring. But finding y^t Summer I grew worse, I applyed my selfe in the Autumne to what meanes God presented; as namely, hot artificial bathes, I thinke, sixteen. At the Spring following oiles, ointments, plaisters, but all effected nothing, but I grew worse upon them. By this time I was scarce able to goe without a staffe my weaknes holding mee most in my lower parts first; w^{ch} hath gathered upward by little and little, that now it is come up to the head, in so much that I have not ability to move one joint in my body, save onely my neck a little but though all motion is quite gone, yet sense remaineth quick in every part: And thorough the goodnes of God, my understanding, memory, with my eyesight and hearing remaine untouched: neither is my stomach apt to be offended with food, but a small quantity suitable to my weaknes it can close with. I do not find any sicknes within save onely the paine of wearines thorough sitting & lying. I am not sensible of any obstructi^o in my inward parts. My flesh is much fallen w^{ch} began first in my lower parts, and now is in my upper parts: but my complexion remaineth pretty ruddy in my face. My age is about 49 yeares.

Now, Honoured Sir, my request to you is that you would seriously consider this my condition, and if it shall please God to discover to you any cranny of hope of any degree of cure; that you would be pleased to send mee your thoughts in a few lines: whether you would advise me to come to yo^r plantation: and if so; what time may bee most seasonable; and whether I may have a suitable room for one in my conditi^o, for my selfe, wife and daughter to sojourn in. and whether yo^r plantati^o be provided with supplies of provision for pay, or whether I must bring with mee for y^e supply of my family. If y^e bearer hereof, my trusty and beloved friend M^r Benjamin Ling, shall abide with you any time, so as you can issue your thoughts, then I should leave it to yo^r godly wisdom whether to write by him, though by the bay, or any other way that may be probably more speedy.

* Edward Wigglesworth died Oct. 1, 1653. His son, the Rev. Michael Wigglesworth (1631-1705), was the author of several poetical works, particularly "The Day of Doom" and "Meat Out of the Eater." The letter here printed is of considerable interest because of its autobiographical statements.

Thus having used great libertie and boldnes with you, I commed you, and the guidance of you in this and all other yo^r affaires to the good spirit of God.

and Rest

Your poor afflicted Brother in C^t.

EDWARD WIGGLESWORTH

REV. JOHN DAVENPORT TO JOHN WINTHROP THE YOUNGER.*

HON^D SIR,

Your welcome lines, dat^d Jan. 16, I received, by this Indian, and read, with gladnes, giving thancks to God & you. To God; for your health, and y^e health of your family, & towne. To you; for your loving remembrance of me, & myn^e, and for your mindfullnes to prepare for us against y^e fitt season, as also for my brother Hooke, who returneth, by my pen, hearty thanks for your respects towards him, which I signified unto him. The winter hath bene extraordinarily long, & sharpe, and sickly among us. Sundry have bene afflicted with paine in theyre heads, & sides, & stoppings at theyre breasts; some were taken with greate cold & shyvering: others with sweating, but most with inward cold. Some are taken away, by death, viz, 4 of this church, and some of y^e Towne, besides children: but most are restored to health againe, though slowly. Your presence with us, this winter, might have bene, by y^e providence of God, a greate blessing to y^e wholl towne. I hope, y^e season will shortly be altered, and then I desire that we may proceed unto further use of meanes, for y^e perfecting of what remaines to be attended, in order to my health, by y^e blessing of God, whereby I found some good, as I apprehend, in y^e strengthning of my spirits for performance of my ministerial worke, this winter, with some abatement of one cause of my weaknes, whereof I gave you notice, though it still abideth with me, in some degree. My family hath bene kept from y^e comon sicknes in this towne, by y^e goodnes & mercy of God, this winter, onely Edmund, my man Servant, hath bene exercised with it, neere unto death, but he is now, through y^e mercy of God, in an hopefull way of Recovery. I have received some letters from England, in Trvmbolls vessel, whereby I perceive y^t things are there in a doubtfull state, and, because I should be too taedious, if I should relate particulars. I send you by this bearer, such bookes of Intelligence, as were sent me, and in the same you will find inclosed some notes of y^e Cases of some among us, who desire to improve this

* This letter, though without date, was written, evidently, on March 10, 1654/5. The fast here alluded to was observed on Feb. 28 of that year. opportunity to crave your advise & helpe. It is a singular fruite of Gods favour to you that he is pleased to make you his instrum^t in doing good to many. Yet I would not y^t your family should be indammaged thereby, which cannot be without guilt of unthanckfullnes in y^m, who returne not according to y^e benefit received. The fleete is gone from Engl. for Hispaniola, M^r Winslow is one of y^e Councell, not Governor for aught I can learne. The small poxe hath bene ye death of many in England, and y^e spotted Feaver. Capt. Astwood of millford is there dead having 1st taken a great cold, after his arrival, whereupon he was smitten with a dead palsey, on one side, of w^{ch} he dyed. I hope, we shall injoy your much desired company, with M^{rs} Winthrop, at our house, some time this moneth, where you may be assured of hearty welcome as the best part of your intertainm^t. The Lord Jesus dwell with you in peace, & loving kindnes, to whose grace I recomend you & yours affectionately, with respective salutacons of you & M^{rs} Winthrop and M^{rs} Lake in boath our names

I rest in him.

Yours obliged

JOHN DAVENPORTE

M^{rs} Disborough, and goodman Jones of Gillford, dyed of y^e small poxe in England or Scotland. M^{rs} Bressey, a member of this church, hath buried 3 children, in a moneth, of y^e small poxe, in England, yet, its thought by some, y^t y^e 3^d child dyed of y^e plague as M^{rs} Evance informeth me, but M^{rs} Bressey, in her letter to me, saith, they all dyed of y^e small poxe. I find myself somewhat weaker, in my spirits, & in my backe, since our last fast, w^{ch} was 10 daies agoe.

HON^D S^R

I had the favour of your coveiance of some letters fro m^r Sam. Huchinson in a letter of Jun: 13. fro Virginia declaring a purpose of coing for N. Yorke wth in a short tyme after, I have thither directed these for that tyme to congratvlate your arrivall there. in your letters there is mention of 2 thirds of a saltworke sold by m^r Hutchinson, I suppose it may be meant as some cast irons that should be v^sed about such a worke, for I heare y^t such irons were sent by him in a ship y^t came for masts, & were landed at Boston, and M^r Hutchinson in these his letters metions some such Irons but no particulars, if he meanes those he had cast in England before I came thence, if there be only those they are not ynough by much for a worke that should produce quantity worth sending they should have served for a triall of a new invention in England, w^{ch} had beene necessary before any were charged vnto a new way but tyme & oportunity failed, & such stock as should have beene for expences in the triall of it could not then be procured, I know nothing of any intention of m^r Huchenson to set vp such works in thes parts of the world, he mentions now New Jarsy, w^{ch} is a place I know not nor have ever heard where it is, it would be good to consider the convenience of the place for y^t comodety & for y^e vending of it before expences be laid out, they bring great quatities of salt fro the Isle of Mayo Sal & Salt Turtugoes & many places in Westindies where they have it for nothing but y^e gathering it vp, & many vessells must returne emty if they did not bring of salt, & when they have brought it they must sell it though very cheape for it is not worth the charge of transporting to any other place. I vnderstand by m^r Hutchenson's letters that there are not sent over, wth y^e cast Irons such hamered plates as are necessary for y^e coposing of them w^{ch} should have beene ordered there of just dimesions fitted to the cast quarters. w^{thout} w^{ch} those cast peices cannot possibly be made vsefull: he writes very cofidetly that his opinion is they may be coposed w^{thout} those plates, wth planks & clay, or cement, & that therefore he sends no plates, as being not needfull but I know not that way, I vnderstand not how it ca be so done, nor doe I beleive that they can be made vse of that way. I suppose I may have occasion to goe to Boston shortly & then may vei^w those Irons, & vpon further consideration therevpon there may be oportunity to give you the further aprehensions about y^t business fro your humble servant

* Philip Carteret was first governor of New Jersey, under the proprietors, Baron Berkley and Sir George Carteret, and received his commission for that post on Feb. 10, 1664/5. He was a fourth cousin of Sir George Carteret, and was but twenty-six years old when he accepted his office. He brought over with him several Frenchmen, who were familiar with the methods of producing salt by solar evaporation, and the above letter relates to the proposed establishment of such salt works in New Jersey.

JOHN WINTHROP THE YOUNGER TO COL. RICHARD NICOLLS.*

FISHERS ISLAND Aug. 14: 1665

I received lately heere yours of Aug: 2: and am sending over to the magistrates at Hartford, that they would wthout delay promote y^t businesse wth the Indians of y^e Northerne partie w^{ch} your hon^r moveth about a treaty of peace wth the Mowhawkes, and hope to follow my selfe for the furtherance thereof as speedily as may be, but I know they must have tyme of consideration and speaking together, & wth all the most considerable parties y^t are ingaged w^{ch} are many and fare remote, and therefore the sooner they have the motion renewed to them (it was mentioned vpon occatiō formerly, and not wholly reiected, but would speake wth their freinds &c) the sooner their mind may be knowne: I intend to speake wth some Indians of these parts y^t are neuttralls, but have some acquaintance wth some of y^e other Indians, I hope on the Morrow to speake wth some of them I know they may much farther having some kindred amongst them: in reference to what your hon^r writes about the executing these 2 Indians in prison I never heard any thing of their being in prison nor of their killing of any duchm^e, till now by this your letter, and therefore not knowing the circumstances, nor any other matter about it, I am vnfit to write anything concer[n]ing it: but whether the speedye executing of them or delaying therof for any tyme shorter, or longer be best, I doubt not but your Hon^r and councell will find what is best to be done in that case: whether the hast- ing of it may not hasten their warr vpon the English before they can be so fitted for it especially some places y^t may not have notice of it, whereas the delaying may cause such hope in them of their redemption (though fruitlesse hope) that may cause a forbearance of such hostility for a tyme as may prevent the destruction of divers duch, or English of the hether parts, or Marilanders &c by some suddene act, whether also delay may not incourage such barbarous brutes to more murthers &c. or whether the conclusion of matters wth the Mowhawkes be not considerable to be first attended, many other considerations are in your observance, grounded vpon the more full comprehinsion of the whole case: I make bold to suggest only one thing more in reference to y^t w^{ch} your hon^r is pleased to mation (that it can not be Imagined you can stand alone in the oposition), I humbly propose whether your hon^r may not see cause to have it moved to the comissioners of the colonies, some of them are to meet at Boston the first thursday in September what your hon^r shall direct in that case for their consideration about those matters shalbe indeavoured to be promoted seriously by

JAMES NOYES TO JOHN WINTHROP THE YOUNGER.*

STONINGTON March 25. 1666/7.

Some time since I receiued a large letter from you in answer to a letter I sent, & in your letter there was physick inclosed, for wh^{ch} I most humbly thank you. I haue sent the physick wth other letters to Newbury & dayly waite for a return. But the special occasion of my now writing is a paper that a pequit indean hath brought to the Constable signed by the secretary m^r Daniel Clark as from your self & seueral others the assistants, wherein I am especialy concerned, & therefore, this evening (vnderstanding Cap^t Winthrop is going for Hartford) I haue wrote largely to the secretary, desiring him to spedidily communicate the same to yoursele &c. Also I haue inclosed attested Coppies of the actions and orders of Leu^t Griswell Ensigne Tracey, &c. All w^{ch} I hope may giue your worship much satisfaction concerning our actions wth those Pequots at Causattuk. Also if you please to call to mind you will remember, that in a letter in the winter, I sent somew^t a large account concerning our proceedings step by step, vsing all perswasions and means to satisfie the said indeans. It is now about eleven of the clock at night, & I am much wearied with writing already & therefore I shall not write much. Onely in briefe, these may certifie you, that I haue both aduised wth seueral in the towne, & well weighed your lines, And find it will occasion you & vs much trouble, & be but greatly prejudicial both to me and the indeans, if they plant this summer at Causattuck. Because we haue beene at a great deale of trouble, paines, charge already, at Court, measuring our town, the Causattuk land, & 2 pound and 17 shilling we paye Leu^t Griswell &c. for their worke, And haue provided them speciall good land to plant on. And the indeans are now vpon breaking vp more ground, otherwise they can not liue, for what is ten acers to liue on, 5 or 6 families w^{ch} is about the quantitie that is now broke vp. And this will be additionarie to what is already & so we shall haue all our worke to doe againe, and new charge, or else they will pleade injustice. And I know the towne will spend halfe what they haue before they shall liue where they are. Tis about a twentie pound rate, the rate of charges concerning this buisnes made this yeare, & how will the towne groane vnder the paiment when they se not their ends attained. Besides I haue agreed wth men to sow and plant there, & haue often tendred paye to the indeans before witness this winter, but Cap^t Denison they saye will not let them receiue it. I haue both corne & trucking cloth ready & haue had all this winter, And that I might haue indean corne I bought & gaue thre shilling a bushell. Also there was great complaint of the indeans last summer bringing downe the young catle vpon the town by reason the indeans corne was not fenced, & the catle were poore, & much spoile done in the English feilds. The corne I shall paye will be a considerable releife, also They maye haue broke vpland enough elsewhere to plant wth the English. As concerning claimes to Pauchaug land, you will find it is pequit land, & far enough out of the Prouince wherefore we doubt not to satisfie the Genr^l Court that we shall attend their orders in

* Rev. James Noyes, of Stonington, Conn., was a son of the Rev. James Noyes, pastor of the church at Newbury, Mass., and author of a well-known catechism. The son (1640-1719) was graduated at Harvard; served as one of the first trustees of Yale, and, besides being a preacher, practised medicine with some success.

remouing, & paying them, when they will take it, & that we haue prouided & dealt well wth them. If they should haue wrong what reason is y^r our litle town, should right them wth our land & estates I praye consider, that we maye not be oppressed, & endlessly troubled in such a cleare case as this seems to me to be. I belieue we had had litle or no trouble had they not been encouraged by this paper, when we should haue came to plant, but they would haue tooke theire paye. Tis but a very few y^t are so dissatisfied, or liue there; farre the greater part of Harmon Garrets men liue else where. Thus not farther to trouble you, hoping you will in time receiue full satisfaction, & by experience find that I and my friends of Stonington are most ready to serue you or yours to our power, wth my real seruice presented to yourself & M^{rs} Winthrop & the rest of your highly respected family I rest raptim

DR. BRYAN ROSSITER TO JOHN WINTHROP THE YOUNGER.†

W^{PFULL} S^R

Meeting with some new troubles from o^r neighbours, I make bold to p^rsent to y^r Honors serious consideration, the cases, for y^r Honors aduise or mediation for some rationall or legall issue of them, w^{ch} will require expedition before the puocation grows to high, & discapacitates for freindly aduise to eyther p^{ty}: At the county court of N: Haven Octob: last, I was summoned to appeare, I refused to obey the summons but sent my reasons in writing soe y^t they appeared & Answered, & referd my selfe by way of appeale to the Generall Assembly in May last; exspecting the Courts information, & summons from the leaders of the assembly, viz: y^r Honors order, w^{ch} I suppose had bene most legall; But y^t fayling I was intended & p^rpared to haue p^resented my Complaynt against the sd County Court for male administration, & had done it had I not bene p^ruented, by the Assemblies fullnes of troublesome concernem^ts in reference to churches, &c.

The reasons y^t I gaue for refusing the summons (such as it was) were in summe
1. Because the members of the County were never formally matriculated ffreemen.

* Col. Francis Lovelace succeeded Nicolls as governor of New York in 1668. He was on very friendly terms with Gov. Winthrop of Connecticut, and was on a visit to him when New York capitulated to the Dutch fleet anchored in New York harbor in 1673.

† Dr. Bryan Rossiter was a son of Edward Rossiter, and came over to America in 1630. He took up his residence in Guilford in 1651, and died there on Sept. 30, 1672. He was a physician, and had an extensive practice. The subject of the above letter is referred to in Steiner's History of Guilford and Madison, Conn. (Baltimore, 1897), pp. 107 and 108.

2. The Charter orderes Gou^r, Dep^{ty} Gou^r, & assistants all to be chosen out of the body of ffreemen.

3. Because they had not taken the oath w^{ch} the Gou^r tooke before the m^r of Chancery, who confessed before the generall Assembly, was the oath of sup^rmacy; nor yet at there comming into the Corporation (who had long refused to come in before they submitted) & the patent required y^t in exp^rss words then.

Another reason was because it was against reason and Law y^t p^rtyes should sitt iudges, much more aduersaries, w^{ch} they were, p^rued by 2 wittnesses; as false imprisonment & the ryot:

Another reason was the case for w^{ch} I was p^rcest, was most of it compounded, to w^{ch} y^e wittnesses were m^r Mathew Allyn, & m^r Samuell Willis; & the summons serued 3 days after m^r Willis was gone to Boston, for England, & therefore I desyred a respite (w^{ch} is according to law) untill the wittnesses could conveniently be p^rcured: Seuerall other reasons were alleadged, w^{ch} did more p^rply respect the case itselfe: Yet thoe I did not appeare, & thoe I gaue in all those reasons, the Jury p^rceeded to a verdict, the Court to a iudgm^t, & execution graunted, and serued, & this very day they came to appoynt a time to finish the execution; I tendred land because I was vnwilling, they should ransack an estate, y^t could not be found agayne (thoe it p^rue a disappoyntm^t at p^rsent.

The case w^{ch} was the beginning of all, was as cleare & fayre: I did from my first comming to Guilford, deny to pay rates for my p^rson & horse (w^{ch} was the leading cause to my imprisoning) & the reasons y^t I gaue y^m wherefore I refused were then in summe.

1. because I was an allowed practitioner of physick by the Generall Court at Connecticut, wⁿ m^r Heynes, m^r Hopkins, & the rest of those gentlemen were of the bench being first tryed, & app^rued by m^r Hooker, m^r Stone, & old m^r Smith of Wethersfeild in the face of the s^d Court.

2. As a practitioner of physick I was desyred by m^r Leete, and the rest of the Cheife of Guilford to purchase & in habit with y^m, & they indented with mee w^t to giue for a visit.

3. The Laws of nations exempt allowed phisitians, from p^rsonall seruices, & there estates from rates & assesm^{ts}. The Bay allso, & N: Haven the ffrench doctor & m^r Pell, & m^r Dauenport p^racht for it allso.

4. That allowed phisitians as often necessitated to more charity yⁿ a whole towne, & if it be not allowed for some must perish (y^t ar poore) in there extremities, these reasons were pleaded: & an agreement in p^rsence of m^r Allyn, & m^r Willis wittnesses.

5. And I neuer rated for my head whilst I liued at Connecticut after soe app^rued. Those matters lay dormant vntill o^r seasyde townes submitted to y^t Corporation, & yⁿ wⁿ Guilford gaue in a list of there estates (at first vnknowne to mee) they put in my head; & horse w^{ch} I kept for suddent occasions being sent for, as I was often, untill differences grew high, since (by some insinuation) seldomer. But o^r contests now was for w^t was before my imprisonm^t y^r issued. Other reasons for some small summs were giuen in, w^{ch} haue as much wright; & I am willing before any indifferent hearing to pleade y^m & charge in iustice & p^rue. I pray s^r seriously consider, aduice, & doe, y^r Honor thereby may be a healer of breaches, & p^ruent worse inconueniences. Your Honor knowes y^t the Patent allowes all his maties sub^ts a liberty to pleade & be impleaded, to defend & to be defended, to Answer and to be Answered vnto in all matters actions cases & quarrells w^tsoeuer, & not before p^ties & aduersaries as iudges. Another reason to all the former is the determination of the Committee chosen by the Generall Assembly in May. 1666. at the conclusion of it these ar the very words attested by the Secretary.

And we doe alsoe determine & p^rhibit vtterly & foreuer, m^r Leete & any other person & p^rsons in any of those farre townes, to make any Complaynts, or cause farther trouble, eyther to m^r Rosseter or those of Guilford concerned wth him about any matter referring to former administration of Gouvern^t, excepting such things as haue bene stated by this Generall assembly: It is a restraynt on there liberty as much as of mine or any others concerned wth mee: and some others ar aggreeued as well as my selfe, & will ioyne issue for male administration. w^{ch} now I with others complayne of to y^r Honor, & craue notice to be giuen to them to p^rpare to answ. y^e next Assembly.

Much more haue I to express alleadge & pleade w^{ch} at a conuenient time & an indifferent hearing I shall attend. I am sorry y^t I shall be necessitated to improue all means & ffreinds within my compass to p^rcure a true interpretation of the charter in reference to the oath of Sup^rmacy, I suppose some amongst y^r selues haue not taken it, soe that Generall Nichols may misapp^rhend the information, iustices in England take it in the face of the Court; & p^rliam^t men in the face of the p^rliam^t, & military officers in the head of the army, & Trayne bands: and as for rates for my head & Horse I hope y^r honor soe honors y^t antient phisitian Æsculapius &c. y^t my name being approued may be cancelled in the treasurers list. that very thing I suppose hath bred all this trouble, and a declared ffreedom may yet sylence much of it. tis wth y^r Honor & none else to p^ruent much trouble.

I purpose to attend y^r desyre assoone as I can p^rvse authors concerning apparitions. I feare I haue bene to taedious but crauing p^rdon at p^rsent I take my leaue & rest

HONORABLE S^R

I was desired to acquaint you wth a case w^{ch} concernes some of my neighbours the present owners of the ship America, by w^{ch} these are intended where of one m^r John Ward is master: The ship was sold vnto them by M^r John Proute, who was the master of it. The ship was so extraordinarily worm eaten and leaky thereby that it sunke in a still River where it lay, after they had wth much difficulty brought it vp thither; and notwthstanding there were good helpes appointed to attend the Pumpe. m^r Proute having no meanes to lay out, nor could procure any for the reparation and setting out the decaied ship was constrained to sell for his satisfaction, for seamens wages, and the charges of their subsistence; the owners haue beene at very great charge in making this ship fitt to goe to sea againe w^{ch} must otherwise have in all likelihood beene wholly lost and the poore seamen left in distresse and wants after a long service who could no otherwise have had their due supply, and releife but by what could be had out of that unserviceable vessell, yet the owners are putt in doubt by some, that they may through mistake, or misinformation meet wth trouble in other parts, therefore I make bold to request your favour towards them, as the equity of the matter shall appeare to your consideration, vpon perusal of such writings, as m^r Ward the bearer hereof hath ready to produce vnder the hand of m^r John Allyn, Secretary of the court of this his Mat^{ties} colony of Conecticut for the full cleering of the case, If they should meet wth opposition in Barbados, being strangers there your good assistance wth your advice and helpe wilbe greatly advantagious to the master and owners, and deeply oblige them from all, as also in their behalf.

HON^{BLE} SR,

In my former lately sent by m^r Burr, I m^otioned about that passage w^{ch} was on the Mohaques propositions, of their exeptting those whom they call Hilanders out of y^e peace propounded, there are 2 difficulties in it w^{ch} also the gentlemen at Boston took notice of one is to know what Indians they are, whom they call Hilanders. For it is doubtfull both to English and Indians and the second difficulty yf they be of the confederates to the other Indians how to p^suade th^e to leave them out of a generall peace.

In reference to those Ind of this part of the River those at Springfield & Northampton & above we vse to account highladers, but we thinke it caⁿ not be meant of them because those are the chiefe of y^{is} river wth whom peace must first be concluded for they sway all y^e rest and if those above should forbear warr it would not be difficult to ingage [those] also below to y^e like for (as farr as I can vnderstand y^e state of matters among them) they would be readily included in y^e conclusions of y^e others : Even Indians towards Canada * * * I spake wth with Capt. Willet at Boston who told me he thinks they might possibly intend those betweene Albany and N. Yorke vpon that River towards halfe way below but I do not yet vnderstand [whether?] Boston heard the like doing and that vncertainly will put a demurre to the heathen in the consideration of the proposalls of peace

The most are yet abroad vpon their hunting businesse, but one of them newly come home hath told me that some chiefe p^sons of y^e mohaques, have beene in France and are now returned, w^{ch} I may suppose probable because at Boston there was a report by an English ship w^{ch} came fr^o France that some Indians w^{ch} were brought fr^o y^e French in Canada, had great incouragement at the French Court If you please to cause good inquiry by the gentlemeⁿ at Albany the truth of their transportation thither & back may be knowne & some considerable consequences thereof:

* This draft is undated, but a modern hand has added "Novr. 29th 1669" to the endorsement.

.Jts like the French doe what they ca to ingratiate themselves wth those people: I can heare nothing in the Massachusetts nor other pts of that deceiver, mentioned in your letter, it was a meere abuse whatever he pretended of my acquaintance, for I never knew him nor heard of his name before. If the mohaques doe yet continue their desires according to these former motions and your purpose be still to further it: It shall also be proposed to both houses & y^e promoting heere? be really indeavoured by

It was my vnhappiness to be at that tyme in an incapacity to wait vpon you at milford, when you were pleased to favour these pts with so neere an approach: but it so fell out & could not be otherwise: I was ingaged to a deare freind, not long before, who was at the very Agony of death (as was feared by all then present there) not to be absent till an apperent recovery, w^{ch} then was doubtfull, but now (god be praised) is in a good measure attained, but there were reasons to think it might not have beene so, if I had beene frø home: I had beforehand, from some passages in your letter, the confidence of your favourable excuse in such a case as this, as such an accident, or contingency, you were pleased to point at, w^{ch} might prevent y^t w^{ch} was mutually desired, and should otherwise wth my greatest care beene indeavoured: and I must hope for the like excuse that I made bold to mætion your coming vp hither, when the season for your selfe might not seeme sutable for such a iourney: my desire was great to have enioyed your presence heere, and all those honored gentlemen my worthy freinds, but your occasions not *p*mitting and the season possibly discouraging, your pleasure therein is my good content: My presumption of a probility [sic] of your coming vp (not wthout some good ground, of hopes thereof, inforced also from a report passing as if such a thing would be (facile credimur quæ volumus) though possibly frø some supposition only if the bottom of it could have beene better examined) filled this place wth such Joyful expectation thereof, so that some gentlemen deferred for a few daies, a Journey to Milford, & the rather y^t I might have their necessary assistance, at such a time: And the report coming of your being vpon a suddene returne, discouraged their after proceeding but I hope such accidents will not discourage frø your Visitt to these parts, when it may be a tyme most seasonable to your selfe, w^{ch} wilbe most acceptable to your servants heere together wth

Y^{rs} I rec^d, and returne thanckfull acknowledgm^{ts} for y^e Rubela & the directions about my Arme w^{ch} I have used, and hope it will have done good, but yet remains some paine in y^e shoulder, & upper part of y^e arme and a weaknes so as y^t I could not nor can lift up my hand to my hat, for w^{ch} I request y^r further helpe & aduice there is no swelling but an itching especially (at times) on my shoulder, my bodily health and appetite (through y^e mercy of God) is better then before my sicknes. The Colledge buisenes (as I heare) is not yet settled; we heare y^e uncomfortable state of our Relations at Jersey.

Many are y^e afflictions of y^e richtous but the Lord delivers out of all, it is good both to hope and quietly waite for y^e salvacon of God: we live in a changable troublesome world but there is an unchangable God who is the object of y^e hope of believers w^{ch} is a strong ground of consolation.

ADDRESS OF THE GENERAL COURT OF MASSACHUSETTS-BAY TO THEIR MAJESTIES, WILLIAM AND MARY.†

To their most excellent Maj^{ties} King William & Queen Mary The humble addresse of the council and y^e Representatives of y^e province of y^e Massachusetts Bay in N. England in general court assembled.

May Jt please your Maj^{ties}

Wee your Maj^{ties} most dutifull & Loyall Subjects, y^e Council and Representatives of your Maj^{ties} province of y^e Massachusetts Bay in N. England, having formerly prostrated o^r Selves at y^r Majesties feet wth humble & gratefull acknowledgem^t of your Maj^{ties} kindnesse in granting us a Royall Charter containing Sundry great priviledges, & confirming to us, propertye & possessions; as also in y^t your Majestye has bin graciously pleased to appoint W^m Phips to bee your Govern^t in Territory Do agⁿ make o^r addresse of thanks to your Maj^{ties}, in all humility praying y^t your

* John Davenport, son of the Rev. John Davenport, was admitted a freeman of New Haven in 1657; removed to Boston in 1668; was recorder for the county of Suffolk for a few months during 1676, and died in the autumn of that year.

† Sir William Phips was appointed governor of Massachusetts in 1692, under the new charter granted by their Majesties, William and Mary. His conduct was offensive and led to his removal in 1694. He was at the point of securing his reinstatement when he became seriously ill, and died on Feb. 18, 1695.

Majestie will please to continue Sr W^m Phips in Governmt, w^m wee know to have an affectionate zeal to your Maj^{ties} Service; w^{ch} Hee has upon all occasions demonstrated: on w^{ch} account his being confirmed in his present Station, will extremely oblige not only us, but by far y^e greater part of your good Subjects in y^e several Towns who have chosen us to bee their Representatives.

Yo^r Maj^{ties} according to yo^r great Wisdom have considered y^e Inclinations of y^e generality of yo^r Subjects in England & in Scotland. It is not unknown to your Maj^{ties} y^t wee in N. England do (as o^r ffathers did) in matters relating to church discipline & ceremonies differ from other English plantations. And wee Doubt not but yo^r Majesties will please to consider y^e inclinations & circumstances of your Loyall Subjects in this part of your Dominions & y^t wee who shall nex [never] cease to pray for your Maj^{ties} long & happy reign ox [over] us, shall still bee refreshed wth y^e benign Influence of yo^r grace & favor.

REPORT FOR OCTOBER.

During the month of October there were received at the Library by purchase 957 volumes and 118 pamphlets, and by gift 1,455 books and 2,958 pamphlets.

There were catalogued 3,567 volumes and 4,149 pamphlets, for which purpose 16,118 cards and 2,440 slips for the printer were written.

The following table shows the number of readers, and the number of volumes consulted, in both the Astor and Lenox Branches of the Library, during the month:

	LENOX.	ASTOR.
Total number of readers.....	2,355	7,903
Daily average of readers.....	93	304
Number of volumes consulted.....	5,863	36,113

The most notable gifts in October were as follows: from the Church Club, New York, 12 volumes of lectures; John Peyre Thomas, jr., 164 volumes of South Carolina documents; Hon. Bernard F. Martin, 9 volumes New York State documents; Major General Brooke, Division of Cuba, 1 volume, annual report; Brigadier General Wilson, Matanzas, and Santa Clara, 1 volume, annual report; W. A. Butler, 1 volume; Hon. Samuel G. French, 50 volumes of New York State documents; Friedr. Bayer & Co., of Elberfeld, Germany, 6 volumes and 8 pamphlets, relative to their color works; Mrs. Henry Draper, 7 volumes, including 2 volumes of the Catalogue of the Secrétan Collection, with plates and the "Illustrations of Turkish, Arabian, etc., metal ware," issued by the Handels Museum, Vienna; The New York City Library, 60 volumes of documents; Michigan State Board of Health, 64 volumes and 167 pamphlets relating to medicine; and the following documents from foreign cities and countries: Berne, 7 volumes and 41 pamphlets; the Netherlands, 10 volumes; the Central Library of Switzerland, 83 volumes and 48 pamphlets; the Egyptian Post Office Administration, 2 volumes and 1 pamphlet; Copenhagen, 7 volumes; Florence, 30 volumes; France, Minister of Commerce, 116 volumes and 71 pamphlets; Minister of War, 19 volumes; the Minister of Public Works, 114 volumes and 7 pamphlets.

Mr. Paul Leicester Ford had a set of 16 volumes of the earliest Congressional Journals, uncut copies, part of the Ford Collection, bound for the Library.

Among the important purchases of the month may be noted 40 volumes of Richmond newspapers, covering the period from 1805 to 1844.

About two years ago, through the courtesy of the Public Records Office in London, arrangements were made by the New York Public Library to secure copies of the unpublished matter in that office relating to the American Loyalists and to Provincial troops during the War of Independence. These papers could not be freely accessible to historians, and could be transcribed only under special conditions. They include the applications, memorials, petitions, etc., of the so-called distressed American Loyalists, with the reports upon them by the British Commissioners of Inquiry into the losses and services of the American Loyalists dating from 1783 to 1790. Of these transcripts the Library has now received about 8,500 foolscap folio pages, substantially bound in 16 volumes, covering the following subjects:

"Information and Intelligence conveyed to the Commissioners to prevent Imposition and Fraud. 1782 to 1785," in 1 vol.

"Examinations and Decisions on Old Claims for Temporary Support. Oct. to Dec., 1782," in 2 vols.

"Examinations and Decisions on Fresh Claims for Temporary Support. December, 1782, to 1790," in 5 vols.

"Minutes of the Proceedings of the Commissioners in London. 9 August, 1785, to 25 March, 1790," in 1 vol.

"Minutes of the Proceedings of the Commissioners in Nova Scotia. 17 November, 1785, to 15 April, 1788," in 1 vol.

"Summary of the Proceedings of the Commissioners, being their several Reports and Statements, with the Names of the Claimants, Amount of Claims, and Particulars of Liquidation. 1784 to 1789," in 1 vol.

"Examinations in Nova Scotia, etc.; Memorials, Schedules of Losses, and Evidences; Connecticut Claimants," in 1 vol.

"Examinations in Nova Scotia, etc.; Memorials, Schedules of Losses, and Evidences; Delaware, Georgia, Maryland and some Massachusetts Claimants," in 1 vol.

"Examinations in Nova Scotia, etc.; Memorials, Schedules of Losses, and Evidences; Massachusetts (continued) and New Hampshire Claimants," in 1 vol.

"Examinations in Nova Scotia, etc.; Memorials, Schedules of Losses, and Evidences; New Jersey Claimants," in 2 vols.

Each volume has a full index of claimants.

These volumes have been deposited in the Lenox Building, where they are now accessible to students and scholars.

In this connection attention is invited to the fact that the Library of Congress contains 34 volumes of manuscripts, which contain the record of proceedings before the Commissioners, Pemberton and Dundas, during the years 1786 to 1788, at St. Johns, at Halifax and at Montreal, which are probably the rough minutes of the Commissioners, which minutes were afterwards transcribed and the transcripts deposited in the Public Record Office.

MEMORIAL ON NEW MEXICO IN 1626.

BY ALONSO DE BENAVIDES.

 From a manuscript in the New York Public Library.

The memorial of Benavides was addressed to King Philip IV. by Juan de Santander, and was printed in Spanish at Madrid in 1630. Translations were published in French at Brussels in 1631, in Dutch at Antwerp in 1631, in Latin at Salzburg in 1634, and in German at Salzburg, about the same time. The following English version was made from the Spanish by the late Dr. John G. Shea, but it was left unfinished in many places. Wherever these gaps occur suggested English words or the original Spanish words are inserted in brackets []. The manuscript was bought for the Lenox Library at the sale of Dr. George H. Moore's books, in February, 1894, no. 1909 of the catalogue.

SIRE

I Friar Juan de Santander, of the order of St. Francis, Commissary General of the Indies, say: that from the relation made to me by Father Friar Alonso de Benavides, Custos of the conversions of New Mexico, on the 20th day of June of last year, 1626, of the great extent to which those conversions went, and the want of religious for their administration, I informed your Majesty, In reply whereto with the accustomed zeal of so Catholic a King and Lord, you were pleased to issue a royal cedula of the following import: Marquis de Cerralvo, kinsman, my viceroy, governor and Captain General of the provinces of New Spain, or to the person or persons in charge of said government, Friar Juan de Santander, Commissary General of the Indies, has made me a report that more than thirty years ago religious of his order began the conversion of New Mexico, where they were more than twelve years, unable to produce any fruit in those souls, and nevertheless the province of the Holy Gospel always took care to send a commissary and religious to that land; and that it is about fifty years that by the Provincial Chapter, celebrated in the province of the Holy Gospel, the mission of New Mexico was erected into a Custodia, and a Custos Friar Alonso de Benavides, a religious of good example and life, and you gave him a despatch to take twenty six ministers to those conversions (as he did) and that at present there are only sixteen priests and three lay brothers, the rest having died, and being so few and the district of the said custodia of more than a hundred leagues journey, rough and mountainous, and the Indians who are there are thirty four thousand three hundred and twenty, they cannot suffice for the administration of them; I beg you to command that you and this audience send to said custodia as many as thirty ministers, priests, and some lay brothers, and that advancing said conversions, you would assist them with what is necessary. This having been seen in my Council of the Indies, I have ratified it, and so I command you to see that there be sent to the said Custodia of New Mexico thirty religious for the said conversion and instruction of the Indians:

and in future you will take great care that they be provided with what shall seem to be necessary, such is my will. Madrid, 15th of November, 1627.

And in fulfilment and conformity to this Catholic cedula and mandate, there went from the province of the Holy Gospel in Mexico in the year 1629, thirty religious of exemplary life, and with the disposition which those already there had created, and the preaching and exercise of these thirty, who went anew by your Majesty's command, our Lord has wrought so many wonders and miracles, and has made so grandiose discovery of riches both spiritual and temporal, that it seemed to the Viceroy of New Spain and the Commissary General of that part that the said Father Friar Alonso de Benavides as a person in whose hands was the government of these conversions during these years, should come in person to manifest to your majesty the great fruits of the zeal with which your Majesty favors and protects them, giving him in them even in this life a part of the infinite reward which he hopes and merits: since beside the treasure of 500,000 souls converted to our holy Catholic Faith and subject to your majesty, of whom more than eighty six thousand are already baptized: in the temporal also our Lord pays him by the discovery of treasures of mines as rich as prosperous. And as the said Father has arrived alone at this Court with this view, having travelled this year 1600 leagues, with many risks and hardships, and being a person worthy of all credit and any reward your Majesty may be pleased to confer on him for his great labors in those missions.

I beg and entreat your majesty also to be pleased to consider the memorial which he presents, in which he summarily relates all that our Lord has wrought in those missions with the royal protection of your Majesty and also that he may in words manifest how much our order serves in that remote kingdom with so much improvement to the souls of so many barbarous infidels who have come to the knowledge of our good God and Lord, the chief merit of which your majesty enjoys.

His memorial is in the following form.

FRIAR JUAN DE SANTANDER

Commissary General of Indies.

SIRE.

I Friar Alonso de Benavides of the order of San Francisco Custos of the Missions and Custodia of New Mexico say: that the events and things of that kingdom, or to speak more properly, New World, which we the religious of my father St. Francis have converted these present years and brought to peace with our Lord God, and to the obedience of your Majesty, being the first and only missionaries there, no other order having till now entered there, are such and so great, that I cannot at once and briefly declare them; because by the royal aid and protection of your majesty we have discovered great treasures both spiritual and temporal, which the Divine Majesty has deigned to qualify with so many wonders and miracles, that it seemed right to the Viceroy of Mexico and to my order, to command me to come and manifest and represent them in person to your majesty, as being the person who has governed and administered them many years, and that where I am brief in this memorial to avoid prolixity, I will explain orally to your majesty, whom we so much desire to serve, in such moments as you are pleased to hear me, and I shall hold it as a great reward of the many risks, hardships and journeys that we had there, with such lightsome profit to the honor and glory of our Lord God, that at least it may come to your majesty's knowledge and you may know the great merit and prayers which he enjoys in those most remote provinces and kingdom distant more than two thousand six hundred leagues from here, which I have traveled for this purpose this year 1630, deeming it all well employed on seeing myself at your Majesty's feet: and I say thus.

NATIONS THAT DWELL ON THE ROAD TO NEW MEXICO

The Kingdom and Province of New Mexico is situated four hundred leagues beyond the city of Mexico at 37° N. and although the towns are there, its district begins two hundred leagues sooner, that is in the valley of Santa Barbara, the last town of New Spain on that side, the division being made by the Rio de Conchos, so called from the Concha nation, which dwells on it; from this we go in search of the Rio del Norte a hundred leagues, which are passed with very great peril as they are inhabited by the Tobosos, Tarahumares, Tepeoanes, Tomites, Sumas, Hanos and other tribes, a very fierce, barbarous and unconquered race, because they always go completely naked, without having house or cultivated fields, living on what they hunt, which is every kind of animals, even though they be unclean, removing for this purpose from one range to another, and over their play these nations are wont to have civil wars and kill each other brutally. Their arms are bows and arrows, the usual arms of all the tribes. When we pass among them they meet us face to face if they see few and do all the harm they can; so that no less than twelve mounted men very well equipped with arms can pass safely, and even thus they must go with care, kindling a light on one side at night to divert them, and get as far ahead of it as possible. When they see a large force of men, they at least endeavor at night by their ambuscades to do all the harm they can to the horses. Ever since New Mexico was discovered, whenever they pass these hundred leagues, there has been war with these Indians, to defend ourselves from the injury they would do us, although by the mercy of our Lord God, the Spaniards always come off victorious. We have used all possible means to convert and pacify these nations, as well for the good of souls, as for the security of the road, and such is their barbarity that they do not let us even speak to them. Our Lord will be pleased to let the time of their conversion as of others arrive.

MILD NATION OF THE RIO DEL NORTE.

These hundred leagues past we reach the famous Rio del Norte, which has this name, from its drawing its waters thence for many leagues; this river is a hundred leagues long before reaching New Mexico, inhabited by a nation which we commonly call Mansos or Gorretas, because they so shave the head that they seem to wear a gorreta (small cap) on the head; and also alarmed at our dogs biting them sometimes when they receive us hostilely, when they come in peace and mildly, we say to the dogs: Sal ai, so that they will not bite them, they too usually anticipate our setting the dogs on them by crying out: Sal ai, sal ai, manso, manso! and by this name of Manso, they are generally known among us. This is another nation without houses, except huts of branches; they do not plant, nor do they dress themselves particularly, but all naked, only that the women cover themselves from the waist down with two deer skins one before and the other behind. They are of the same disposition of the previous ones, doing all the harm they can if they see a chance; but when they cannot, coming to meet us in all peace, that we may give them something to eat, which is their chief end, and a few together will eat a cow raw, leaving nothing of the entrails, for they do not even stop to cleanse them of their filth, swallowing it like dogs, seizing it with the mouth and cutting it with a knife of flint and swallowing without chewing. As these Mansos are at (El Passo) the pass of this river, we must always encounter them, and they usually take us to their rancherias that we may give something to eat to their wives and children, and they usually regale us with what they have, that is, with fish and mice. This nation is well shaped, good featured and stout. Of the many times that we have preached to them, they told me now when I passed through them, that they would be delighted to have religious there to teach and baptize them, and it would be of very great importance; for besides the main point, which is the conversion of souls redeemed like our own by the blood of our Lord, it would also secure the Pass of these two hundred leagues, and be a step to the conversion and reduction of other neighboring nations, all which might be effected by putting three or four religious there with an escort of only fifteen or twenty soldiers, whereby all the rest that makes a passage to New Mexico everytime so costly to your Majesty would be avoided and many rich mining districts (reales de minas) which lie all along this road could be settled and immense grazing farms with water, and [paninos] of very good land, whereby that road could be travelled every year and as often as one chose, and not let five or six years for want of this security pass without our knowing in New Mexico any thing of the Spanish nation, till the expedition established for the relief of the religious and churches comes, sent by your Majesty with such Catholic zeal, and although it is true that it is established and determined that it should come punctually every three years, five and six often pass without the royal officers remembering us and God knows what it costs to solicit it. This Mansa nation is now very well disposed for its conversion, because whenever we speak to them of God they hear us with much pleasure, and feel greatly that they must go to hell if they are not baptized: and hence they say they regret that they have not like other nations religious to teach them there. I cannot omit telling what befel me here; and it was that once entering a rancheria of this Mansa tribe I set up in it a cross of the size of a lance and told them, among other things, that this was the standard of God: and we Christians all kept one by us, and kept it in the towns and houses in which we lived, that in our necessities, pains and sickness we might ask a remedy from him, and by virtue of that holy cross he helped us: and that so they should have great faith in it, and in their sickness reverence and touch it, that if they had faith, they would be cured by it: It was wonderful to see how many came on their knees to the holy cross to touch and kiss it, as they had seen me do; and among others I saw an Indian woman with a tooth ache come and with great reverence open her mouth with her hands and apply her teeth to the Holy Cross, another in pains of childbirth I saw come with equal faith, and touch her belly to the holy cross; and although I had no interpreter there by whom to learn the effect, I have great faith in the Divine Majesty that he will there too work his wonders in confirmation of his divine word, and as non est vestrum nosce tempora vel momenta quæ posuit Deus in sua potestate, He knows when the hour will come, so happy for this nation, and I console myself for the present simply with seeing the disposition which they entertain.

BEGINNING OF THE APACHE NATION.

Continuing still then northward thirty leagues through the Mansa nation we meet with the great Apache nation, which in this part is called "Perrillo of the little dog," from one having here found a stream of water which was of great importance for this road, where many leagues must be passed without water and with extreme toil; and so this province kept the name of the Apaches del Perrillo; of whom I shall speak hereafter in their place, as it is the greatest (province) in the world; and although these Apaches are very warlike, they are more confiding than the preceding nations and we pass by them with less care, till we again strike on the Rio del Norte, on the banks of which begin the towns of New Mexico in the following form:

PROVINCE AND NATION OF THE PIROS, SENEUCU, SOCORRO, SEVILLETA.

Having reached this River on this side, the first towns begin with the Pira nation and province in many towns and houses of adobe one and two (stories) high with their corridors to the square, (within) a people with clothes and government, subject to their chiefs; great cultivators of all kinds of grain, as well their own as those that we have brought; great hunters of deer, rabbits, hares and many kinds of river fish. The soil of this province is so fertile, that all sowed in it yields very abundantly, especially the pineapple; which though common in all the land, is much greater in this province than in the others, from the better temperature which it has; and although this is the first province of that kingdom, it was among the last in its conversion. God was pleased that its hour should come and in the year 1626, being Custos of those missions, I dedicated myself to the Lord for the conversion of those souls, dedicating its principal town to Our Lady of Succor (Virgen Santisima del Socorro) and so in that first year Our Lord was pleased to favor me so that all were baptized and are this day very good Christians: and I have founded in this province three convents and churches: one in the town of Senecu, dedicated to St. Anthony of Padua; the second in the town of Pilabo to Our Lady of Succor: the other in that of Sivilleta, dedicated to St. Louis, Bishop of my order.

It is well for your majesty to know the origin of the foundation and town of Sivilleta. It was destroyed by wars with other nations who burned it, and our Spaniards called it Sivilleta; its people roamed scattered through some hills, with these I founded that town anew, and gathered many others there, so that now it is one of the best towns that your Majesty has there. Each of these convents has under its charge towns in the neighborhood, which the friars visit with great care and spirit; and to avoid prolixity, I omit here to relate the perils, cold, calamities and toils and particular events which have befallen me in the conversion of this province, leaving all to God for whom it was done.

MINES OF SOCORRO.

No less great is the temporal good which our Lord God has been pleased to manifest in this province, whereby your Majesty the great expense which as so Catholic a prince has incurred in supporting us and those churches; because this whole province is full of very great treasures of very rich and prosperous mines of silver and gold: a thing which frequently as your devoted chaplains and subjects, we ask of God, and by making inquiry through intelligent persons, have succeeded in discovering: for which we give him in your Majesty's name infinite thanks, in particular, the ridge of the town of Socorro, the chief and head of this province of the Piros, which is all of very valuable minerals, and runs from north to south more than fifty leagues: and for want of persons who understand and can turn it to advantage, the greatest riches in the world are enjoyed by none, and your Majesty loses his royal fifths. The ease with which silver is taken from this range is the greatest and best of all the Indies; and it is better to take out a mark of silver here than many elsewhere for in other places all the materials and provisions must be brought from a distance to the water, the expense of which falls on the silver drawn out; but in these Socorro mines all is on the spot; and although it is true that in the beginning of the missions the labor of the mines would drive off the Indians, I think nevertheless that if administered by persons of moderate desire of wealth, who would treat the Indians well and pay them for their labor, conforming now in the beginning to their simple and weak capacity for toil, they would not only not be driven away but would be allured in this way, and brought to trade and communicate with us; and they themselves seeing and knowing that they were not ill treated and were paid for their labor, would come and offer themselves for it to the missionaries: by this means it would be much easier for us to bring them to peaceful ideas. I accordingly determined to take a quantity of specimens of ore from different veins in those mines and some from mines in New Spain, that being assayed and showing so rich a yield, people would prepare to enter New Mexico and turn it to profit, and I left the Viceroy making great essays, with zeal for your Majesty's service to increase your royal fifths. This province of the Piros extends up from the Rio del Norte from the first town of San Antonio de Senecu, to the last San Luis de Sevilleta, fifteen leagues, where there are fourteen pueblos on one side, and the other of the river, containing about 6000 souls all baptized, with three convents, as has been said, in which the religious besides instructing and teaching our holy Catholic Faith, teach them in their schools to sing, read and write; and all duties, and to live in a civilized way.

TEOAS* NATION

Ascending seven leagues up the same river, there begins the nation Tioas, with fifteen or sixteen pueblos in which there are about seven thousand souls, in a district of twelve or thirteen leagues all baptized, with two convents, that of San Francisco de Sandia, and that of San Antonio de la Isleta, where there are schools to write, read and sing and play on all instruments and well instructed in the faith, and carefully so in civilized manners; these two convents and churches are very costly and neat by the care and talent of the Religious who founded them, and all the other pueblos also have very neat churches.

* Corrected in pen to Tioas. [Note by J. G. S.]

THE QUERES NATION.

Passing on four more leagues, the Queres nation begins at its first town San Felipe and extends for more than twelve leagues in seven pueblos, containing some four thousand souls all baptized, with three convents and churches very neat and costly, besides those in each pueblo. These Indians are very apt in reading, writing and playing on all kinds of instruments, and handy at all trades by the great industry of the religious who converted them: it is also a land very productive of all that is sown in it.

THE TOMPIRAS NATION.

Leaving the Rio del Norte and turning eastward from the last nation, ten leagues, there begins the To[m]piras nation in its first town of Chilili, and extends in that direction more than fifteen leagues in fourteen or fifteen pueblos, in which there are more than ten thousand souls, with six very good convents and churches, all converted and the most baptized, others being catechised and instructed, and their schools of all branches, as in the others, the soil not very fruitful, from the great colds and scanty water; in this province are the great salines, ten leagues from the Socorro mines. I can not refrain from stating here what the devil declared by the mouth of an Indian sorcerer, convinced by the word of God: when I began the conversion of the great town of the Xumanas, I dedicated it to the glorious St. Isidore, Archbishop of Seville, from having effected its conversion on his day; and it was, that seeing himself confuted, and that the whole pueblo had been determined by my words to become Christians, the sorcerer became very furious and cried out: You Spaniards and Christians, as you are mad and live like madmen, wish to teach us to become so too: I asked him wherein we were mad, and he must have seen a discipline procession in some Christian town in Holy Week, and so he said: You Christians are so mad, that you all go flogging together through the streets like madmen, shedding your blood, and so you must wish to make this town crazy too: and with this crying out furiously, he went out of the pueblo, saying that he did not choose to be mad, at which all the rest laughed, and I far more than they, knowing and being convinced that it was the devil, and that he was fleeing away, confounded at the power of the Divine Word.

THE TANOS NATION.

Turning then northward ten leagues more, we meet the first and principal town of the Tanos nation, which extends for ten leagues in five pueblos, where there are some 4,000 souls baptized, with a very good convent and church the pueblos have also, in which mass is said from the convent; there are also schools of all branches, as in the others.

THE PECCOS NATION.

Four leagues further on still northward you come to the town of the Peccos, which has over 2,000 souls, where there is a convent and very fine church of particular style and neatness, on which a religious bestowed great toil and care; and although all these Indians are of the Hemes nation, being here alone and cut off from their territory, they pass as a nation apart, although their language is the same: it is a very cold and unproductive soil, although it produces the Indian corn necessary for its inhabitants, because they sow much. These Indians are very well instructed in all branches, and have their schools of reading, writing, singing and music like the rest.

CITY OF SANTA FE.

Turning seven leagues west of the last town is the city of Santa Fe, the head of this kingdom, where the Governors and Spaniards reside, who are as many as 250, although only 50 can be armed for want of arms, and although few and ill provided God has permitted that they always come off victorious, and causing among the Indians such fear of them and of their arquebusses, that on merely hearing that a Spaniard is going to their pueblos they take flight, and to keep in this fear, when it is necessary to punish any rebellious town, they use great rigor, but for which they would have often tried to kill the Spaniards, seeing them so far from New Spain, whence any help could reach them; they are all well instructed and humble soldiers, and for the most part of good example to the Indians. Your Majesty supports this garrison (presidio), not from the royal treasury, but by making them encomenderos of those towns by the hands of the Governor; the tribute paid them by the Indians is for each house a robe, that is a yard of cotton cloth and a bushel of maize every year, on which the poor Spaniards live; they have in service seven hundred souls, so that with Spaniards, Mestizoes and Indians there are a thousand souls, people so punctual in their obedience to their governors that when any duty requires they turn out with their arms and horses, at their own cost, and do valiant deeds; the principal thing alone was lacking, that was the Church, what they had was a wretched shed (jacal) because the religious labored first to build the churches of the Indians whom they converted, and among whom they labored and lived. As soon as I entered as Custos I began to build the church and convent and to the honor and glory of our Lord God, it may shine in any part; here the religious already teach the Spaniards and Indians to read and write, play and sing and all the arts of civilized life. Although cold it is the most fertile of all New Mexico.

THE TEOAS NATION.

Proceeding further westward, towards the Rio del Norte, which we have left, begins the Teoas nation. This province extends for a space of eleven or twelve leagues in eight pueblos; in which there are some 6,000 souls. This nation was the first of this region in baptism, of which they are very proud. They are very friendly to the Spaniards, whom they readily serve, and accompany in all their wars; they have three convents and very neat churches, especially that of San Ilefonso, on which the religious who built it took great pains; and all the pueblos have their churches where they go to say Mass, and they are very well instructed in all branches. The land is very fertile, a religious having brought water to irrigate their fields, and there is much fish in the Rio del Norte which goes by there.

THE HEMES NATION.

Passing this river to the western side after seven leagues you come to the Hemes nation, which when I entered as Custos was scattered all over the kingdom, and almost annihilated by famine and war, which were exterminating them, most of them were already baptized and had churches, the result of the extreme toil and care of some religious, and so I at once endeavored to bring them back and collect them in the same province, and I appointed a religious who hastened to it with care, and we have assembled the nation in two towns, that of San José, which was still standing, with a very sumptuous and fine church and convent, and that of San Diego de la Congregacion, which for this purpose were built, bringing to it what Indians there were of that nation, who were scattered; and also giving them a house built and provisions in it for some days and ploughed lands for their fields. For these and other like charitable expenses we religious usually trade away even the coarse cloth which your Majesty gives us in alms for our habits, and accordingly this congregation is this day one of the best pueblos in the Indies, with its church and convent and schools of all branches; and although more than half this nation has perished, your Majesty has withal over 3,000 tributaries assembled there.

THE PICURIES NATION.

Returning then to the Teoas nation which we left to go to the Hemes, and ascending the river northward ten leagues, we come to the pueblo of the Picuries, which must contain 2000 souls, now baptized, with its convent and church, where they are very well instructed. It has been the most unconquerable and treacherous nation of that Kingdom, and some religious suffered greatly in it, till they went so far as to lay hands on them and ill treat them in hatred of our holy Catholic Faith, from which so much merit results. They have some times actually tried to kill the religious whom they have and our Lord has miraculously delivered him from them, as for instance, going out to take and kill him on the roads, and (then) being covered with a cold sweat at his presence and trembling with fear: and on another occasion, when they were going in to lay hands on him, (he) remained invisible and (they) returned confused, and now, blessed be God, they are very peaceful, and well instructed, and although these Indians are of the Teoas nation, being so far from it, they [are treated by themselves]; it is a very fertile land, that soon produces fruit and in great plenty; very good river water and trout in it, it has also mines of very fine garnets, and there is no one who attempts to work them.

THE TAOS NATION.

Seven leagues further on still northward is the town of the Taos, of the same nation as the preceding, although the language varies somewhat. It has 2500 souls baptized, with its convent and church, which two religious who have charge of the conversion have founded with great care: these Indians are very well instructed, and last year 1627 the Lord confirmed his holy word by a miracle among them: and it was (as follows): it was hard for them to give up having many wives, as they used to have before being baptized and the Religious daily preached to them the truth of the holy Sacrament of Matrimony, and the one who most gainsayed was an old Indian sorceress, who under pretext of going to the field for wood took four other women, good Christians married according to the rules of our holy mother the Church, and going and returning she kept persuading them not to consent to the mode of marriage which the Father taught, that what they used in their paganism was better. The poor Christians kept resisting this, and being now near the pueblo and the sorceress still keeping on her discourse, the sky being clear and serene, a thunderbolt fell and killed that infernal minstress of the devil in the midst of the good Christian women, who resisted her evil doctrine, and who remained entirely unhurt by the thunderbolt, and strongly confirmed in the truth of the holy Sacrament of Matrimony. The whole pueblo at once hastened there, and seeing that blow of heaven, all who were secretly in concubinage got married, and believed sincerely all that the Father taught them, who at once made them a sermon on the event, and he preaches to them every holiday, as is done in the other convents. Be the glory to our Lord God. It is a very cold land, most abundant in [provisions] and herds.

THE ROCK OF ACOMA.

Turning back then to the post of the Queres nation, leaving its last town Santa Ana, twelve leagues to the west you arrive at the Rock of Acoma, which has cost the lives of so many Spaniards and friendly Indians, as well from its being a [detached] and impregnable rock, as from the valor of its inhabitants, who are on the footing of 2000 souls. And last year (1629) God was pleased that we should reduce them to peace and they now have religious who are catechizing and baptizing them, and the Lord has confirmed by miracle the power of this holy Sacrament of Baptism; and it was this. A child one year old was dying and in the last [gasping] in the arms of its mother, who bewailed it as dead, when the Religious who is there instructing them; told her that if she loved her daughter so much, to permit it to be baptized, so that if it died, it would go to enjoy eternal glory in heaven, and although the mother was a heathen she believed the Father, and she asked him to baptize it. To which the Religious answered: Have faith then, daughter, this holy water of Baptism is able to resuscitate thy daughter, and he poured it on her saying the words. It is a wonderful thing that the child instantly raised itself sound and well and [suckled] its mother's breast, and turned very smiling and [loving] to the Father, showing by actions, as it was incapable of speaking, thanks for the favor he had conferred, whereat all those Indians were greatly confirmed in the Faith and quickly learned to pray devoutly that they might be baptized. Praised be God for all.

ZUÑI NATION.

Proceeding thirty leagues further west, you come to the province of Zuñi, where there are eleven or twelve towns in a district of nine or ten leagues, in which there are more than ten thousand souls converted, who are being catechized and baptized with two convents and churches, in which the Religious who are there, have passed and still pass many difficulties and hardships from the great resistance made to them by the sorcerers, and as God is above all, the Religious always come off victorious, and our Lord has wrought there many extraordinary things, which will be seen in the information of all the above, to which I refer (for particulars). It is a fertile land in all kinds of provisions.

MOQUI NATION

Keeping still westward thirty leagues you come to the Province of Moqui, of the same quantity as the preceding Zuñi with ten thousand more souls, who are being catechised and baptized, whose baptism and divine Word the Lord has confirmed by the following miracle. It is a general custom among all the heathen Indians to receive the Religious at first very well in their towns, and to consent for the wish to baptism, and when catechized seeing that they must give up their idolatry and sorceries, the sorcerers are so enraged that they disquiet and divert all, that they may not become Christians, and not only this but they drive the religious from the pueblo and kill him: as happened in the chief town of this province of Moqui, who received very well the Father who went to convert them, and his companions and some soldiers who went there as an escort, and seeing that the Religious with an original cross of Mother Louisa de Carrion, obliged them by lively and efficacious reasons to adore one God, Lord, Creater of all things, who for our redemption had died on a cross, which they were bound to adore and not their idols, wherewith the devil deceives them, the sorcerers provoked at this and seeing that their power, which as infernal ministers they had over those souls was being taken away, they persuaded the whole people that the religious and all who accompanied him were imposters who were going to deceive them, and that therefore they should kill them. They sought on several occasions to do this, but durst not on account of the vigilance of the soldiers and especially from the protection of heaven. After this there came a troop of them and they brought a boy twelve or thirteen years old, blind [from birth], who was born with his eyes closed without suspicion that he could ever see, and they addressed the Religious in these words: Thou must be a great imposter, and so if all thou sayst of this that thou callest Cross be true, lay it on this boy's eyes and if with that he opens his eyes, we will confess that all that thou preachest to us is true; but if not, we must kill thee, or drive thee out in confusion. The Religious seeing this with the affection and devotion that may be imagined in such a case, knelt down and with the same cross in his hands and his eyes on heaven, he implored the divine Majesty, that for the confusion of those barbarous heathen, and that they might adore his holy Name and Cross, he would there work his wonders therewith, he rose and with the greatest faith laid it on the blind boy's eyes, who at that very instant opened them and began to cry out, wondering that he saw, whereat they took the boy in their arms and carried him through the streets and places, proclaiming the miracle aloud and that all should become Christians and be baptized and do what the Father taught them, which was the truth, and that their sorcerers were imposters who deceived them, and so they at once submitted to be instructed for baptism by the Father and his companions, holding them in great love and respect. Sit nomen Domini benedictum; and although in all the preceding conversions Our Lord has wrought many wonders, I have omitted stating them now, referring (my reader) to the general history of that land which by the favor of heaven I am now writing, and I have wished to state the aforesaid miracles to your Majesty only because Our Lord has wrought them all this past year 1629, after your Majesty was pleased to provide more ministers.

rites of this Paganism

These are the populations that we have on that side, converted and baptised, in what we call New Mexico, which extends from the first town of the province of the Piros, San Antonio Senecu, the Rio del Norte above to the pueblo of San Geronimo of the Taos, who are in a district of a hundred leagues, which pueblos are on both sides of the river and some of them somewhat distant, from six to eight leagues on other streams, which in all contain some 80,000 souls. All this people and nations in their heathenism were divided into two parts, warriors and sorcerers, the warriors endeavoring to reduce the whole people to their empire and command, in opposition to the sorcerers; and the sorcerers with the same opposition persuaded all that they made it rain and made the earth give good crops and other things, at which the warriors [jeered], whence there existed between them such great continual civil wars, that they killed and [laid waste] whole pueblos, in which the devil had his ordinary harvest: their religion although it was not formal idolatry, was almost so, because they made offering for every action. At a time when they were going to fight their enemies, they offered flour and other things to the scalps of those of the hostile nation whom they had killed. If they went hunting, they offered flour to the heads of the deer, hares, rabbits and other animals killed; if fishing, to the river. Women who wished men to solicit them, went to the field fat and well, and raised a stone or some little stick on some hill, and there offered flour, and for eight days or as long as they could, eat nothing unless something to trouble the stomach and make them [vomit] and they scourged themselves cruelly and when they could do no more and from fat had become lean and in countenance demoniac, they came fully confident that the first man that saw them would desire them and give them cloaks which is their principal end. But this adoration of these sticks and stones is in no way reverential, because [no se les da que les pisen] nor spit upon them, but they put them so as a ceremony.

To make a Captain they assembled in a square and tied him naked to a pillar and they all scourged him with cruel [briars] and then they entertained him with [interludes] and other [child's play], and if to all he was very [unshaken] and did not weep nor make any gestures at the one nor laugh at the other, they confirmed him as a very valiant captain, In this way the devil led them deceived by a thousand superstitions. They have always been a people of government and republic, the old [men] assembling with the Greater Captain to confer and discern the things which became them, and when they had determined on them, the Greater Captain went out as a herald proclaiming through the pueblo what was commanded, and this is even yet an action of great authority for the Greater Captains to proclaim what is to be done in the pueblo.

OLDER BOOKS.

(In chronological order.)

Sabellicus (M. A. C.). Secunda pars Enneadum . . . ab inclinatione Romani imperii usque ad annum M.D.III. Venetiis, 1504. F°. L

The discovery of the Cape of Good Hope is mentioned on the verso of folio 171. This seems to be the earliest account in print.

Emanuel, King of Portugal. Copia de una littera del Re de Portugallo madata al Re de Castella del viaggio & successo de India. Roma: J. de Besicken, 1505. 4°. L

On the first two pages is an account of the voyage of the Portuguese around the Cape of Good Hope and South Africa in 1500.

Barros (Joaõ de). Asia de J. de B., dos factos que os Portugueses fizeram no descobrimento et conquista dos mares & terras do Oriente. Lisboa, 1552-53. Decadas I, 2. F°. L

The discovery of the Cape of Good Hope by Bartholomew Dias in 1486 is described on folios 28-29; and the first voyage of Vasco da Gama around South Africa, with the first landing of the Portuguese there in 1497-98, on folios 40-44, of the first decade.

Castanheda (F. Lopes de). Ho primeiro (— octavo) livro da historia do descobrimento & conquista da India pelos Portugueses. Coimbra, 1554, 1552-61. 8 vols. F°. L

The discoveries of Bartholomew Dias and the explorations of Vasco da Gama in South Africa are described in the first eight chapters of the first book.

Leone (Giovanni) Africanus. Historiale description de l'Afrique, tierce partie du monde. Lyon, 1550. 2 vols. F°. L

The double-page map in each volume shows the interior of South Africa, and gives the names of rivers, capes and towns.

Goes (Damian de). Chronica do felicissimo rei Dom Emanuel. Lisboa, 1566-67. 4 parts in one vol. F°. L

Vasco da Gama's expedition round South Africa, and his landing there, are related in chapters 35-36.

Castanheda (F. Lopes de). The first Booke of the Historie of the Discoverie and Conquest of the East Indias, enterprised by the Portingales, in their daungerous Nauigations, in the time of King Don Iohn, the second of that name. Imprinted at London, by Thomas East, 1582. 4°. L

The account of South Africa is on leaves 6-19.

Sanuto (Livio). Geografia... distinta in XII libri. Ne quali... si dichiarano le provincie, popoli, regni, etc., dell' Africa. Vinegia, 1588. F°. L

This volume may be called the first printed atlas of Africa. The maps are twelve in number, engraved on copper, and are on a large scale for the period. Plate 10 is of South Africa, and Plate 12 is of the whole African continent. The twelfth book, folios 136-146, is a description of South Africa.

Linschoten (Jan Huygen van). Itinerario, Voyage ofte Schipvaert... naer Oost ofte Portugaels Indien. Amstelredam, 1596. F°. L

The southern part of Africa is described, and two large maps delineate the coast and interior from Angola to Mozambique. The later editions of this work are also in the Library.

Pigafetta (P.). A Report of the Kingdom of Congo, a region of Africa, and of the countries that border rounde about the same. London, John Wolfe, 1597. 4°. 2 maps. L

The Cape of Good Hope and South Africa are described on pp. 186-191. The large map represents South Africa fairly well and with some detail.

Houtman (Cornelius). The description of a voyage made by certaine Ships of Holland into the East Indies... who went forth on the 2d of Aprill, 1595, and returned on the 14 of August, 1597. London: Imprinted by John Wolfe, 1598. 4°. L

The expedition landed at the Cape of Good Hope, and had some intercourse with the natives there.

Middleton (Sir Henry). The Last East-Indian Voyage. At London, printed by T. P. for Walter Burre, 1606. 4°. L

The landing of the expedition at the Cape of Good Hope, and the intercourse with the natives are described with some detail.

Dapper (O.) Umbständliche und eigentliche Beschreibung von Africa, und dessen darzu gehörigen Königreichen und Landschaften. Amsterdam, 1670-71. 2 parts in 1 vol. F°.

The large map of Africa in this volume was prepared as early as 1668, to accompany the original Dutch edition of this work. It is valuable for indicating the knowledge of South Africa at that time. The book contains a concise account of the Cape, of the natives, etc.

Ogilby (J.) Africa, being an accurate description... with all the adjacent islands... belonging thereto. London, 1670. F°.

The map in this volume is the same as in Dapper's work, and the account of the Cape of Good Hope is the English equivalent of that given in Dapper's book.

Schouten (Wouter). Oost-Indische Voyagie. Amsterdam, 1676. 2 parts in 1 vol. 4°. L

Schouten visited the Cape of Good Hope twice, first in 1658, and again in 1665. His account of the first visit, with a view, is on pp. 6-9 of the first part. An account of the present state of the Dutch colony in 1665 is given on pp. 180-190 of the second part.

Valentyn (François). Oud en nieuw Oost-Indiën, vervattende een naaukeurige en uitvoerige verhandelinge van Nederlands mogentheyd in die gewesten... als ook een keurlyke verhandelinge van... Kaap der Goede Hoop en Mauritius. Dordrecht en Amsterdam, 1724-26. 5 vols. in 8. F°.

The description of the Cape of Good Hope fills 150 pages of the fifth volume, the fullest and best account published up to that date. The accompanying maps are on large scale, and the other illustrations are well engraved.

Doppelmayer (J. G.) Historische Nachricht von den Nürnbergischen Mathematicis und Künstlern. Nürnberg, 1730. F°. L

The earliest known representation of South Africa is on Martin Behaim's globe, 1492, of which the first published facsimile is in the above volume. On this globe is marked the farthest point reached by the Portuguese after passing the Cape of Good Hope.

MAPS.

(Chronologically arranged.)

Ruysch (Johann). Universalior cogniti orbis Tabula ex recentibus confecta observationibus. Size: 21½ x 16 inches: engraved on copper. (In Ptolemy, C., Geographia, Roma, 1508. F°.) L

This map contains the earliest printed representation of South Africa, after its discovery by the Portuguese.

Waltzemüller (Martin). Tabula moderna secunda porcionis Aphrice. Size: 19 x 13½ inches: Scale: about 215 miles = 1 inch: engraved on wood. (In Ptolemy, C., Geographia, Argentoragi, 1513.) F°.

This is essentially a map of South Africa: note the additional knowledge of the coast as shown by the great number of names.

Muenster (Sebastian). Africa XVIII. Nova Tabula. Size: 13½ x 10 inches: engraved on wood. (In Ptolemy, C., Geographia, Basilia, 1540. F°.) L

Gastaldo (Jacopo). Africa Nova Tabula. Size: 6¾ x 4½ inches. Scale: about 700 miles = 1 inch: engraved on copper. (In Ptolemy, C., La Geografia. Venetia, 1548. 8°.) L

This map of South Africa shows considerable detail in the interior of the country.

Forlano (Paolo) Veronese. Africa. Size: 25 x 16¾ inches. Scale: about 550 miles = 1 inch. Engraved on copper. Venetia, 1566. (In Lafreri, A., Atlas. Roma, 1572. F°.) L

This is the largest scale general map of Africa up to this date.

Visscher (N.) Africae, accurata Tabula. Size: 21 x 16½ inches. Scale: abt. 311 miles = 1 inch.

Engraved on copper, colored. (In Visscher, N., Atlas Minor. Amsterdam [1659?] F°.) L

This may have been the first Dutch map published after the settlement of S. Africa by the Dutch, but the scale is too small probably to have shown any evidence of occupation.

Dudley (Robert). Carta particolare che comincia con il capo Degortam è con il capo Buona Speranza è finisce in Gradi 27 di Latitudine Australe [with sectional views of Capes of Good Hope, etc.] Size: $29\frac{1}{4} \times 18\frac{1}{4}$ inches. Scale: 40 miles = 1 inch. Engraved on copper. (In Dudley, R., Arcano del Mare, vol. 2. Firenze, 1661. F°.) L

The first edition of this map was produced in 1646, and as there was no great reason why it should have been altered in the present, it may probably be considered as the latest showing the condition of South Africa before it was settled by the Dutch in 1652. It is a remarkable map from a cartographic point of view, for the excellence of its work and the unusually large scale (40 miles to the inch) on which it was projected.

Sanson (N.). Pays et Coste des Caffres. Empire du Monomotapa, etc. Paris, 1656. Size: $10\frac{1}{4} \times 7\frac{1}{4}$ inch. Scale: 315 miles = 1 inch. (In Sanson, N., L'Afrique en plusieurs cartes. Paris, 1662. 4°.) L

Fer (N. de). Partie Meridionale d'Afrique, ou se trouvent La Basse Guinée, la Cafrerie, . . . le Zaquebar . . . Size: 12×8 inches. Scale: 300 miles = 1 inch. Engraved on copper, with descriptive text. (In Fer, N. de, L'Atlas Curieux, Paris, 1704. Ob. 4°.) L

Anville (J. B. B. d'). Afrique: publiée sous les Auspices de Monsieur le Duc d'Orléans. . . Size: $37 \times 59\frac{1}{2}$ inches. Scale: 140 miles = 1 inch. Engraved on copper; colored. (In Anville, J. E. B. d', Atlas. Paris, 1749. F°.) L

This map is given to show how very little progress had been recorded in South Africa in the acknowledged best map of the period, 100 years after settlement by the Dutch.

Elwe (J. B.). Carte de l'Afrique Meridionale ou Pays entre la Ligne et le Cap de bonne Espérance. Size: $22\frac{1}{4} \times 19$ inches. Scale: 155 miles = 1 inch. (In Elwe, J. B., Atlas der Wereld. Amsterdam, 1792. F°.) L Arrowsmith (Aaron). The Cape of Good Hope. London, 1805. Size: 56×48 inches. Scale: 13 miles = 1 inch. Dissected to fold in 4 sheets.

The largest map of S. Africa published at that date, and most interesting as showing the progress of development of country and excellence of cartography.

Vandermaelen (Philippe). South Africa. Eight sheets. Average size of each: $20\frac{1}{4} \times 15\frac{1}{8}$ inches. Scale: about 26 miles = 1 inch. (In Vandermaelen, P., Atlas Universel de Géographie, vol. 3, sheets 47-54. Bruxelles, 1827. F°.) L

These sheets are from the largest scale map of the whole continent of Africa produced up to the present time, and reflect the greatest credit on their compiler, who actually treated the whole world on the same gigantic scale, in 6 vols., and whose work, in that direction at least, remains not only unexcelled, but unapproached.

Petermann (A.). Karte der Kolonie Natal. 1856. Size: $7 \times 9\frac{1}{4}$ inches. Scale: 24 miles = 1 inch. Colored. (In Petermann, A., Atlas der Entdeckungen in Afrika. Gotha, 1860. 4°.) L

Petermann (A.). Karte von Süd-Afrika, zur Uebersicht der neuesten Entdeckungen von Livingston, Moffat, Galton, Anderson. . . 1858. Size: 17×20 inch. Scale: 100 miles = 1 inch. Colored. (In Petermann, A., Atlas der Entdeckungen in Afrika. Gotha, 1860. 4°.) L

A very interesting map showing the opening up of this hitherto unknown, but now most important country.

Stanford (E.). South Africa: compiled from the MS. maps in the Colonial Office, Capt'n Owens Survey, etc. London [1876?] Size: $14\frac{3}{4} \times 12$ inches. Scale: 70 miles = 1 inch; colored. L

A comparison between Robert Dudley's map, 1661, Arrowsmith, 1805, this of 1876, and Habenicht, 1885, will vividly illustrate the rapidity of development of South Africa in the last quarter of a century.

Petermann (A.). Süd Afrika. Gotha, 1879. Size: $15\frac{3}{4} \times 12\frac{1}{4}$ inches. Scale: 197 miles = 1 inch; colored. (From Stieler's Hand Atlas. Gotha, 1880.) L

Petermann (A.). Das Capland nebst dem Gebiet der Hottentotten & Kaffern. . . Gotha, 1879. Size: $15\frac{1}{4} \times 12\frac{1}{4}$ inches. Scale: 79 miles = 1 inch. (From Stieler's Hand Atlas. Gotha, 1880.) L

An excellent map; better than any produced in any other country at the time.

Kiepert (Heinrich). Physikalische Wandkarten: No. 5, Africa. Berlin, 1881. Size: 45×48 inches. Scale: about 126 miles = 1 inch. Lithographed in colors. L

An excellent map showing by color the elevations and depressions of the land: a feature of exceptional interest in South Africa.

Habenicht (Hermann). Spezial-Karte von Afrika in 10 Bl. Bearbeitet von demselben, Bruno Domann, und Dr. Richard Lüddecke. Gotha, 1885. Size: (of sheets 9×10) $47\frac{1}{2} \times 22$ inches. Scale: about 63 miles = 1 inch. L

These sheets illustrate the whole of S. Africa south of the River Zambesi and are especially interesting when compared with Robert Dudley's (1661) over 200 years older.

Jeppe (Fred.). Map of the Southern Goldfields of the Transvaal. Pretoria, 1896. Size: $38\frac{1}{4} \times 23$ inches. Scale: $3\frac{7}{8}$ miles = 1 inch. Lithographed in colors. By Fred. Jeppe. Surveyor General, Johannesburg. L

The only two sheets published as yet of a very interesting large scale map of this important gold yielding district.

Johnston (T. B.). South Africa [with inset Map] of Port Natal, Durban, etc. London, 1897. Size: $16\frac{3}{4} \times 22$ inches. Scale: $60\frac{1}{4}$ miles = 1 inch. Lithographed in colors. (In Johnston, W. & A. K., Royal Atlas. Edinburgh, 1898. F°.)

Stanford's Library Map of Africa. London, 1898. Size: $63\frac{1}{2} \times 58$ inches. Scale: 94 miles = 1 inch; colored. Dissected to fold in case. L

The most recent map of the whole of Africa on a fairly large scale, showing the boundaries of the latest European partition of the continent.

Mackenzie (E. A.). New Relief Map of the Transvaal, drawn and compiled by E. A. Mackenzie. London, 1899. Size: 36×29 . Scale: 16 miles = 1 inch. L

British War Office (Intelligence Depart.). Map of the South African Republic and adjoining Territories. Nov., 1896. Railways added to Nov., 1899. London, 1899. Size: $24\frac{1}{4} \times 20\frac{1}{2}$ inches. Scale: 25 miles = 1 inch. Lithographed in colors.

REPORT FOR NOVEMBER.

During the month of November there were received at the Library by purchase 741 volumes and 163 pamphlets, and by gift 881 volumes and 1,397 pamphlets.

There were catalogued 2,943 volumes and 4,013 pamphlets, for which purpose 18,616 cards and 1,829 slips for the printer were written.

The following table shows the number of readers, and the number of volumes consulted, in both the Astor and Lenox Branches of the Library, during the month:

	LENOX.	ASTOR.
Total number of readers.....	2,994	8,091
Daily average of readers.....	116	309
Number of volumes consulted.....	7,545	39,543

The most notable gifts in November were as follows: from S. P. Avery, 14 volumes and 3 pamphlets; American Railway Master Mechanics' Association, 6 volumes; Government of Belgium, 31 volumes of Government documents; Mrs. Daniel G. Brinton, 2 pamphlets; Ceylon, 5 volumes of Government documents; Mrs. Henry Draper, 2 volumes; London County Council, 3 volumes; Department of Matanzas and Santa Clara, 59 pamphlets; New York Tribune, 17 volumes and 43 pamphlets, miscellaneous matter; The Netherlands Koninklijke Bibliotheek, 1 volume; The Netherlands Ministers of Justice and of Finance, 1 volume each; Department of Porto Rico, 89 pamphlets; the Palisades (New Jersey) Library, 1 volume of addresses, etc., at the opening of the building; G. L. Rives, 13 volumes; Philip Schuyler, 7 pamphlets; the South African Republic, 35 volumes of documents; Miss Emily Tuckerman, a copy of the Royal Bible of 1640-39; and from the Wagner Free Institute of Science of Philadelphia, 5 volumes.

Among the important purchases of the month were 60 volumes of the San Francisco Bulletin from 1855 to 1885; 309 volumes of the Atti del Parlamento

Italiano, 1845-93; and 115 volumes of the Gazetta Ufficiale del Regno d'Italia, 1845-94.

The trustees of the New York Public Library have decided to establish a Department of Prints, and a large, well-lighted room in the Lenox Building (which is thoroughly fireproof) is to be fitted up for the proper storage and exhibition of the collection, which will be under the charge of a skilled curator.

It is believed that a good representative collection of prints, in the broadest sense of the term, i. e., as including photographs, lithographs, and all forms of illustration of the graphic arts, will be of special interest and value in this Library, where it can be closely associated with the large collection of the literature of art which has been formed, and where it will also be available for the student of social history and of the manners, customs, costumes, etc., of a particular place or period in connection with the literature of those subjects. Special accommodations for such a department have been provided for in the plans of the new building. The Library already has a large collection of extra-illustrated books, and of engraved portraits, derived from the Lenox, Duyckinck, Stuart, Tilden, Emmet and Ford collections, and also a small collection of separate prints. All of these, together with the collection of the engravings of the late Asher B. Durand, just presented to the Library by his son John Durand, including over 300 pieces, will be placed in this Department of Prints. Some assurances of valuable additions in the near future have already been received, and, in view of the arrangements to be made for the proper care and display of such prints in a thoroughly fireproof building, under the charge of a qualified custodian, the trustees feel justified in soliciting aid in the form of gifts or bequests from all who may be interested in this department of art and literature.

MEMORIAL ON NEW MEXICO IN 1626.

BY ALONSO DE BENAVIDES.

[PART 2.—CONCLUSION.]

HOW WELL THEY HASTEN TO THE AFFAIRS OF CHRISTIANITY

Now to the honor and glory of God our Lord, by the affable care which we Religious have taken of them, they are so well instructed and Christian, that on ringing the bell for mass and catechism all come with the greatest [cleanliness] and [neatness] that they can and enter the church to pray like very old Christians, and the boys and girls, who always come to catechism morning and evening, hasten with the greatest care without fail, and the singers who change around by weeks in the chapel sing every day in the church at their hours, Prime, High Mass and Vespers, with great punctuality and all confess in their language, and prepare themselves for confession, studying their sins, and bringing them marked by knotted cords and they are always in notable affection and subjection to the Religious who attend them, and one is scarcely sick when he comes at once to see the Religious or send for him, it seeming to him as if he would get well by merely seeing him and if the sickness increases, they confess for death, this being the continual occupation of the Religious curing their diseases and supplying all their wants, and so they are remarkably attached to them, and to the things of the Church, to which they always repair with notable love and devotion, as all the churches and convents testify which they have got built, all of which it will seem exaggeration to tell that sumptuous and curious as they are, they were built solely by the women and boys and girls of the school (doctrina); because among these nations it is the custom for the women to make the walls and the men spin and weave their mantles and go to war and hunt, and if we oblige any man to make a wall, he runs away and the women laugh. And in this way we have built over fifty churches of very curious carved roof and [laceria] and the walls very well painted, because there are wonderful mountains of all kind of timber, and by the care which we Religious have taken to teach the Indians of the school, there are very good carpenters and trades people of all kinds, and thus they are now well instructed in all, especially in matters of Faith and Christianity, which causes admiration to see, that in less than twenty years since baptism began, and in particular [less] than eight years in this part, where the harvest of souls has been more abundant, they appear Christians of a hundred years, if we pass by the roads, and they see us from their pueblos or fields they all come to receive us with very great joy, saying Blessed be our Lord Jesus Christ, Praised be the Most Holy Sacrament, and when we come to their pueblos they receive us with [fruits] and regale us with fish or what they have, and the Captain of the pueblo gives us welcome and [congratulation,] that being priests of God we honor their towns, where they lived as savages; and in this way other reasons. They are all people who dress in cotton mantles and skins and in their way they endeavor to dress themselves up in them as much as they can, especially with necklaces and earrings of turquoise, of which they have mines and work them, although imperfectly, and the women dress decently in their cotton mantles painted and bordered with the same.

WHAT THAT KINGDOM OWES TO YOUR MAJESTY.

This land and its inhabitants having been then since God created it, subject to the devil and his slaves to this time, and all peopled with [hot houses] of idolatry, where not only the holy name of Jesus was never adored but was unknown, as was his holy Cross, and for the land to be now in so few years filled with churches, [with altars] of Crosses and for its people to salute each other in words praising the most holy Sacrament of the Altar, and the most holy name of Jesus Christ, and when the Angelus Bell rings they kneel wherever the sound finds them, and they pray aloud to the most holy Virgin, saying the three accustomed Hail Marys and the same when they hear the Plegaria de las almas, saying an Our Father and a Hail Mary. A land where the devil seemed to corrupt the air by his presence, and made them uninhabitable, and now so changed and peaceful, so as to carry through them openly the Blessed Sacrament in procession, and for God to choose in order to effect this transformation and change ministers so unworthy as the sons of my Father St. Francis, it seems that contemptibilia elegit Deus, ut confundat fortia, although we here see clearly and evidently that God is the author and prime mover, for which we render him infinite thanks. We owe them also to your Majesty since without your royal aid we could not meet such expense, and your Majesty should glory much in being the cause of all this change and enjoy all the merit of those conversions, where we draw so many thousands of souls from the claws of the devil, a thing which could not be without a miracle, and God left it and confided it to your Majesty that by such Catholic means and your royal liberality you might enjoy so many spiritual and temporal treasures, and we teach all the Indians, as being so deeply interested ever to commend your Majesty to God, since with so great expense you send them and maintain there clergy and churches for the salvation of their souls, and they do so regularly and we the Religious as devoted and obliged subjects and chaplains never fail either in Mass or in our private devotions to commend your Majesty to God in that remote kingdom of yours, and in that primitive Church where our Lord works so many wonders: in all and through all be the honor and glory to God, our Lord.

FERTILITY OF THE SOIL

All this land is very fertile, returning with very great abundance all that is sown in it, maize, wheat, kidney beans, lentils, chickpease, beans, vetches, pumpkins, water & other melons, cucumbers, all kinds of vegetables, cabbages, lettuce, carrots, artichokes, garlic, onions, prickly pears, pitahayas, very good prunes, apricots, peaches, nuts, acorns, mulberries, and many others which I omit to avoid prolixity; I mention apart only the pineapple trees, which are a different kind from those of Spain, because they are large and tender to part, and the tree and pine apples small, and so great is the quantity that it seems inexhaustible, and so esteemed that in Mexico a fanega of them is worth $23 or 24, and those who sell them again gain on them, and the soil is so fertile that I have seen them reap 120 to 130 fanegas for one fanega of wheat sown; and it has occurred that they reaped very good crops from the last year's stubble without any further cultivation than a little irrigation.

FISH

It also has many rivers in which there is fish in great abundance, and great lakes and in particular the Rio del Norte, which when it has least water and we can ford it, comes up to the saddle, and when swollen, is of great and rapid current, with the water which it receives solely from the melted snows; and so the other small rivers which flow into it, all which are very abundant in bagres, trout, sardines, eels, needlefish, matalotas, boquinetes, topes and many others.

GAME.

The abundance of game seems infinite. There are deer of many different kinds, and some like large mules, and which too have a tail like a mule's, and others as large as these, but with a tail like that of other deer, very hairy so that they seem to carry a shield on their haunch and are so large and strong that the Maesse del Campo for pomp had his carriage drawn by two of these deer, tamed when young, and they drew it with so much spirit, that they had to put very gentle mules beside them to hold them in. Of the middle sized deer there are great numbers, by which the Indians live and clothe themselves because of their skins they make and dress such good buckskin that it sells in Mexico at $5 and $6. There is no counting the rabbits, hares; of foxes, wolves, wild cats and bears there are also very many: There is a kind of very large mountain sheep with very big horns, and they climb swiftly up a wall although high and smooth, and up a very high rock as if it were a flight of stairs; and frisking or in flight, they will throw themselves down from very high rocks, always falling on their heads and spring up at once with all speed, as though they had done nothing. And all that kingdom is very abundant in all animals, and our cattle too brought there from New Spain have increased greatly there, for there were none there such as cows and sheep, the sheep generally bearing three lambs, herds of swine, mules and splendid horses, especially for the army. It is curious to see the Indians make a general hunt, because 4 or 5000 assemble and go examining all the hills they choose and surrounding them on all sides so that the game meets people wherever it flees, and they keep diminishing the circle so that they get all the game together in a small space, where animals of all kinds are to be seen. The butchers enter the circle and those without surround, and whatever is killed is divided among all, although the captains have a larger share.

RIGOR OF THE CLIMATE.

The climate goes by extremes, for the winter is very severe, and with so much snow, ice and cold, that all the rivers, lakes, and even the Rio del Norte, freeze in such a way that you can pass over them with loaded carts, and very large flocks of cattle at full speed, as if it were very firm land, and then we religious endure very great hardships to pass these rivers to minister to the pueblos, because as the rivers are frozen, they are on top like a cristal mirror and slippery causing very great falls whether on foot or horseback; and as the remedy of this is to throw earth on to grow fast and catch the feet, we cannot find any earth, for it is all so frozen that to dig a grave in the church we first put fire on top to thaw it, for you could not open it with a crowbar; and it suffices to say that when we are saying Mass we have two braziers at the sides of the chalice and for all that and with the heat of all the people in the church, the wine freezes, and every winter many Indians freeze in the fields, and many Spaniards have their ears, hands and feet frozen: and on the other hand, the heat is more intolerable in summer than the cold in winter, and so it seems that sometimes the air fails in every direction, in some provinces more than others.

THE GREAT APACHE NATION

What has been said will suffice to give an idea of the natural state of the pueblos of New Mexico, which are on the banks of the Rio del Norte in a district of a hundred leagues on each side which are all surrounded on the other sides by the great Apache nation, and without exaggeration it alone has more people than all the other nations of New Spain together, even if the Mexican is excluded; it is a very courageous and warlike nation, and very bold in war. Even in the mode of speaking they differ from other nations, because these speak gently and slowly and the Apaches seem to break your head with words. They do not live in towns nor in houses, but in tents and rancherias, because they move from ridge to ridge seeking game, on which they live, although every principal and peculiar rancheria has its known territory, in which they sow maize and other crops; they go dressed in gamuzas which are dressed deerskins very well dressed and stylish after their fashion and the women handsomely and decently clothed. They have no idolatry but sun worship and even this is not general in all, and they laugh much at the other nations that have idols; they generally have as many wives as they can support, and when they take one in adultery they unfailingly execute the law which is to cut off the ears and nose and repudiate her; they are very obedient to their superiors and hold them in great respect, they teach and chastise their children unlike the other nations who have no punishment. They pride themselves much on speaking the truth, and he who is taken in falsehood holds himself disgraced, and although being one nation the language is the same, yet as it is so widely diffused it does not fail to vary in some rancherias, but nothing that is not very well understood, and beginning by the commencement of it, when we go to New Mexico which is the province of the Apaches of Perrillo, it runs in this direction westward to the South Sea where it is more than three hundred leagues; and goes on continually to the north, without our finding any end on that side, and stops in the strait of Anian; and making with this nation the circuit of New Mexico on the east, [it stretches] more than a hundred leagues till it stops again in the Province of the Perrillo, thus making more than three hundred leagues around New Mexico on its frontiers. It is all so warlike a nation, that it has been the [crucible of valour] of the Spaniards, and hence they esteem them greatly, and say that the Spaniards alone deserve the name of men, and not the nations of the pueblo Indians.

COMMENCEMENT OF THE MISSION OF THE APACHES.

I began the mission of the Apache nation on the north in the rancherias of Captain Quinia, well known for being so warlike, planting in them the first crosses and a religious continuing it; after the Captain his wife and children had been baptized they rebelled and wished to kill the Father who was catechising them, and when they had their arrows already pointed at him, they did not dare to do it and fled from the rancheria, and left the Father alone, on which he left them for that time and they [returned] to a peaceful submission. This always happens at the beginning in the missions.

MISSION OF THE XILA APACHES AND REMARKABLE HIEROGLYPHIC OF AN APACHE CAPTAIN.

Turning then North of this Apache nation, in the greatest propinquity to the province of the Perrillo, is the nation of the Apaches de Xila, fourteen leagues from the pueblo of San Antonio de Senecu of the province of the Piros. Our Lord was pleased that the great captain of it, named Sanaba should be converted by hearing me preach many times in Senecu, where he came frequently and he himself preached to these of his rancheria and so all [of] that in which he lived were converted, and he is gradually converting the others who are subject to him and now we have there a religious who is catechizing and [poblando] them.

I cannot omit to mention on this occasion two curious things which happened to me on this mission, in which your Majesty will be able to see what goes on there. The one was that as I was going to this town of Xila to catechize them, their Captain Sanaba knew it and came fourteen leagues to the town of San Antonio de Senecu to receive me and after regaling me with what he could, he ordered a servant to untie a [bag] that he carried, and took out of it a double gamuza, or dressed deerskin, and presented it to me, and I ignorant of what was inside, supposed that he simply presented it to me, so I told him that he knew already that I did not wish them to give me anything, that all that I desired of them was that they should adore the Lord of heaven and earth with all their heart. He smiled and told me to unfold the skin and see what was inside. I did so and [saw] in it that it was very white and large and a sun of green color painted in the middle of it with a cross above it and under the sun the moon painted of a brown color with another cross on top; and although something of the meaning flashed upon me, I asked him what his painting signified. He said thus: Father, till now we never knew any benefactor so great as the sun and moon, for the sun warms and enlightens us by day and makes the plants grow, and the moon gives us light by night; and so we adore these two as beings that do us so much good and we did not know that there was anything better, but now that thou hast taught us that God is the Lord and Creator of Sun and Moon, and of all things, and that the cross is the sign of God, I have ordered this cross to be painted over the sun and over the moon, that you may know that we do what thou teachest us, and not forget that we should above all adore God and his holy Cross. Blessed and praised be God in all. He alone who has been on the missions knows the spiritual joy that a religious feels when on such occasions he sees the fruit of his toils [attain success], and deems well spent the risks that he has endured in the missions. This will make clearly known the natural talent which God has given this discursive nation, for I do not see what better reasons the ancient natural philosophers could give than this barbarous Indian in our opinion to persuade himself to adore our true and universal Creator, Redeemer and Lord.

MISSION OF THE APACHES OF NAVAJO.

Leaving the province of the Apaches of Xila and proceeding further in the same direction, which is on the western side of the peopled parts, coasting more than fifty leagues to the north, full of rancherias of the jurisdiction of Xila, you come to the province of the Apaches of Navajo, who although they are of the same Apache nation as the preceding, are subject and subordinate to another great captain and have a distinct mode of living, because those behind do not sow, but live by the chase; and now we have broken ground and taught them to sow; and these of Navajo are very great cultivators and Navajo signifies this, great planted fields. This province is the most warlike of all the Apache nation and where the Spaniards have well shown their valor. This chain runs fifty or sixty leagues further, and is full of mines of [piebra lumbre]. And as all these populous and Christian nations are inclined to painting, to have wherewith to paint their clothes, they need [piebra lumbre], which is found only in these ridges; to go for it they assemble two or three thousand Indians, whom the said Apaches of Navajo come out to receive in hostile array in defence of their land, and on the occasion there are a great many killed, unless they arrive at a season when the Apaches have ascended to the other ranges to hunt; and when they know that they have been and carried off the [piebra lumbre] they assemble [for the purpose] and come to make war on the Christians in revenge for their entering into their territory; and the nation is so great that in two days there assemble over 30,000 Indians with bows and arrows: and this is [without exaggeration], because some times that the Spaniards have gone there to fight in punishment of the many Christian Indians that they kill, although they [les daban alouço] and took them unawares, they always found the fields [crowded] with people without number. They have their mode of underground [dwelling], and a certain manner of [xacales] to gather their grain, and they always reside at that post. And now in the month of September of last year 1629 our Lord was pleased that I should pacify them, for which purpose I founded a convent and church in the town of Santa Clara of the nation Teoas, Christians, who were neighbors on the frontier and received much injury from these Apaches, and I greatly desired to make peace between them, as their conversion too would result from it, as [in fact] it did; and as the issue of it was peculiar, and it will perhaps please your Majesty to know how it was effected, it was thus.

In the month of September of last year 1629, while assisting in the above mentioned convent of Santa Clara in the town named Capoo, which was the tenth and last which I founded in those missions to the honor and glory of God our Lord, where most generally these Apaches de Navajo resorted to commit depredations; and seeing that I could take none to regale and send back to his land and tell his captains that we would treat of peace, I ventured and determined to send them twelve of my Christian Indians, men of talent and courage, for which purpose I summoned the captains and old men of the pueblo and informed them of my desire to effect that peace, as well to [stop] so many murders, as that they should trade [and should interchange their commodities], and chiefly that by this path we should effect their conversion, which was my chief end. All were of this opinion and naming one of the twelve as captain, as being an Indian of more talent, they gave him the embassy of peace according to their custom, which was an arrow and in place of [a flint] a colored feather and a [pipe] full of tobacco, beginning to [puff] with another feather [which signified for them to be ready to smoke]. Then the [purpose of the] arrow was that coming in sight of the rancheria and approaching they should fire the peace arrow, in sign of peace, and the [purpose of the pipe that they should take a smoke]. I also gave them my word of peace, which was a Rosary for the Captain and that I desired to meet him to treat of this peace; and that this should have the good effect that it had, it happened to be the day of the Stigmata of our Father S^t Francis, which was the 17^h of September of last year 1629, and so I told them that they should come to hear Mass the next day, where all the people flocked, asking God to prosper it and our Father San Francisco to be patron of it and I thenceforward dedicated the mission and province to him. Having heard mass then, which was sung with all solemnity, these Indians went out with very great courage and spirit, and having asked my blessing, they began their journey from the very church. God knows the anxiety in which my heart was, seeing the manifest risk in which I put those Indians: for whenever an enterprise turns out ill, envious men are never wanting to judge it rash, and if it succeeds well few extol it; but I always had very entire faith in God our Lord, who would preserve them from their enemies.

Having arrived then in sight of the first rancheria on the frontier of that unconquered and fierce nation, where the great captain of all those frontiers was, and the boldest, cousin of the cacique who governed them all, who came there alone to gather men to do the Christians a terrible injury, they fired the marked arrow that they bore. The enemy on seeing it replied by another of the same kind, on which they approached, although slowly and cautiously. On arriving our captain gave his embassy and [presented to him the pipe] of tobacco and he also received my rosary and gave his embassy on the part of the captains and mine: and as he had never seen a rosary, he asked what all those beads on the string meant. Our ambassador replied unexpectedly, yet shrewdly, That as they were many captains, the Father sent them there, his word to each that he would be his friend. This reply pleased them greatly. To this the Captain replied, heaving a very deep sigh, that it grieved him much that they had come to offer him peace, that being so good a thing he could not refuse it when brought to his house; but that he was much incensed at the Christians, and that on this occasion he had things arranged so that he was about to punish them well, but that he received the peace, and wished it, and so he immediately sent the arrow to his Cazique, and the [pipe] of tobacco, and remained with my rosary around his neck: and suspicious that there was some [double dealing] in it, he said to our people, that although he gave peace in the name of all, that he wished to know of me and of the Christian captains personally, whether it was true, that we gave it and so he wished to come and see us in our pueblo. I was advised of it by one of ours who came by post, and I made more than fifteen hundred souls go out to meet him. I awaited him at the Church, which I ordered to be well arranged and many candles lighted, because it was already night when they arrived; and because this nation is proud and spirited, it seemed to me proper to receive this captain and those who came with him, in a different manner from the other nations, with whom at first we sit down on the ground conforming to their simplicity, till we teach them more civilized manners. But as the Apache nation is so proud, it seemed to me [best] to change the style, and so I ordered a chair to be placed on a carpet near the altar, and received him seated in it. He came before all the people, and among all the Christian captains came this Apache captain and four others of his captains. Having entered the church and prayed at the altar the chief captain of the Christians came to me, and kissed my feet; a thing which I did not much oppose, nor indeed was I previously aware of it, and after his example and imitation the strangers did the same, and after having saluted me, the greater (captain) said that those captains had gone to offer peace on my behalf and that of his captains, and that he came to know personally for greater security. Then the Chief captain of the pueblo rose and offered to the Apache his own bow and arrows, saying, that there before God who was in that altar, and before me, who was his priest, he gave those arms as a pledge of his word, that he would never break the peace, and so he laid them on the altar; and to show that all said the same, he asked the people if they all agreed to it, and giving a loud shout they answered, yes. Then the Apache captain took an arrow from his quiver, in his idea the most suited, with the white [flint] and very sharp and before all said thus: I know not who is this whom thou callest God, but as thou callest him to witness and confirm thy word, as a warrant that thou wilt infallibly not break it, he must be some person of great power and authority and good; and so to this God be he what he may, I too give my word and faith in the name of all mine, with this arrow in the hands of this Father and that neither on my side or that of mine shall peace and friendship ever fail. Then receiving the arrow from him I said to him: that if he wished me to tell him who God was, he would rejoice to hear and much more to have pledged his word to him. On his telling me yes, I explained to him in the briefest words, after this style, who was God, Creator and Lord of all creation, and that to deliver us from eternal pains he had died on a cross, showing it all to him by the painting on the altar, and that whoever would not worship him and be baptised, would be condemned, and go to burn in those eternal pains. And as the word of God is so efficacious, it so worked upon his heart, that with a great aspiration and sigh, he turned to all the people and in a very loud voice said to them: Ah Teoas, how I envy you that you have here one to teach you who God is, and such good things, and not we who live and die going through these folds and mountain ranges like deer and hares. From now I say, I adore this God whom this Father teaches; and now that I know him I give peace, and my word to keep it with greater strength; and with tears in his eyes he knelt down to kiss my feet, on which I rose and embraced him with all the [affection] that I could and then all the Christian captains embraced him, and at this moment I made all the bells ring, the trumpets and [cherennas] sound, a thing which pleased him much to hear, as it was the first time. And I immediately hung those arrows on the altar as trophies of the divine word although by so humble a minister as I, and so he manifested himself to the people, that they should give thanks to the divine Majesty for all, whereupon the Christian captains took their guests to their houses to lodge and I regaled him as best I could.

The next morning as it was Saturday, when the bell rang for our Lady's Mass, which all the people attend, this Apache captain also came with the other Christians and with his [followers] and learning that my name was Alonso, he asked leave to be called so, and I told him that he should be called so when he was baptized, although from that time they all called him Don Alonzo. To begin mass I put on the best vestments I had, and he was in wonder to see the devotion with which all the people knelt and prayed. Before I began mass I married some Indians; and as they have the wives that they can support, it seemed to him very right in Christians to have only one, and that they should promise before God to continue faithful. Then as I wished to begin Mass, and he was not yet baptized, I told him, that till he was, he could not see God in the mass, that he should go out and walk around with his people till I said it. To which he replied that he considered himself already and adored God more than all that were there, with all his heart; and that so he also wished to see. And when I replied that he could not till he was baptized, he ordered his companions to go out, but he would in no manner go. I to divert him ordered the chanters to sing the Salve Regina with the organ with all solemnity and with trumpets and [music] and so attired at the altar I chanted the collect and at its end, I sat down on the chair, and I again addressed him some words as to the mystery of the Creation and Redemption, by which he was every time the more confirmed in the faith. Some Spanish soldiers had come to hear mass and he said that he wished also to establish with the Spaniards the same peace that he had made with the Teoas, and so by my hands he gave an arrow to a Spanish captain who was there as a sign of his word that he would not fail to keep the peace; and our Spaniard drawing his sword from its scabbard also gave it to me before the Indian, in token that he gave peace in the name of God and received his (peace); and all as before was laid on the altar, offering it to God as judge and witness of that action, which was the second time celebrated with bells, trumpets and [music], whereat he remained greatly consoled, saying, that he clearly saw the truth of our holy Catholic Faith, since it was celebrated with so much solemnity and that they lived like brute animals of the field. And with this I sent him with some Christian captains to their house and said Mass for the people, at which he was afterwards greatly offended as he wished to see God in the Mass.

He and his people were there three or four days, hearing with devotion and love the things of our holy Catholic faith, observing and marking the relish with which the Christians lived, and especially had they deeply implanted in his soul the fear of the pains of hell, and that at all events they wished to be Christians; and that they loved their wives and children much, and those of his nation and it would grieve them much, that they should all go to hell for not being Christians, wherefore they earnestly implored me to go to their rancherias, even if it were but for ten days to tell their [countrymen] what they had heard from me here, which were things so wonderful, that he could neither succeed in telling them, nor would they believe him for his saying. At last he went, to return thence in a moon and a half (for they count by moons) and to confirm this peace he wished to bring all the women and children of those neighboring rancherias with many gamuzas and [piedra alumbre] to make a great fair to last three days and [to visit] in great friendship. And from that time he assured them that they could come to hunt and do as they pleased on his territory, as they should be treated as very good friends. And so it was, for whereas [before] they could not go a quarter of a league in that direction without great risk and every day they killed Christians, and since this peace even the old men go out in that direction for wood, and if they met Apaches, they gave them good passage and they shared the game they had hunted. A religious of very great spirit is continuing this mission and pacification, which he will do with much greater advantage than I.

This province must extend on the frontier for over fifty leagues; but it extends to the west more than 300 and we do not know where it ends, and this is the province which has given most pain and care to New Mexico, as well from their being so warlike and valiant, as from their being on it more than 200,000 souls, by the times that the Spaniards have seen them going to fight.

APACHES VAQUEROS DEL GANADO DE SIBOLA.

After passing this province of the Apaches of Navajo, turning to the right, eastward, begins the province of the Apaches Vaqueros, which runs on that side and returns encircling the towns more than one hundred and fifty leagues, till it reaches those of Perrillo, where we began on entering New Mexico. All this nation and province is supported by the cattle called of Cibola, like ours in size, but very different in form, because they have very short legs, as if out of joint, and very high in the hump and breast, very small sharp horns, straight or high, very long hair in the [fore-lock] which covers the eyes and very crisp, and the same in the beard and on the knees, and all of a dark brown or black color, and it is a wonder to see one with any white spot. Their flesh is more savory and healthy than that of our cattle, and the fat much better; they do not bellow like our bulls, but grunt like hogs; their tails are not long but small, and with very little hair on them; the hair is not like that of our cattle, but crisp like very fine wool, of which they make very good coarse cloth and of the [nuevas] very fine vicuña hats, like those of the skins of the calves, they trim clothes as if they were martins. I have spoken thus at length of these cattle, from their being in so great number and so diffused that we seen no end of them; and having information that they extend from the South to the North Sea, and so much that the fields are thick with them. These herds alone are enough to make a prince very rich, if he could have or there were given a plan of exporting them elsewhere; there are herds of over 40,000 bulls, without apparently a single cow among them, because they always go apart till rutting time: it is not a kind of cattle that lets itself be taken in enclosures, although as a motive our tame cattle are taken among them; and so at breeding time the Spaniards go and take up the little calves and bring them with goats. As these cattle are so numerous and moult or change the hair every year, this wool remains on the field or the air carries it off to some tree or cleft and in such quantities as would enrich many, but all is lost.

Now on these cattle live these Apaches Vaqueros, for which they go cautiously to their watering places and hide themselves on the paths, painted red and stained with the mire of that same earth and stretched in the deep paths made by the animals, as they pass they employ the arrows which they carry and as they are [stupid] cattle, although very fierce and swift, on feeling themselves wounded they drop down after a few paces, and then they flay them and carry off the hide, tongue and chine, and the sinews to sew and make bow strings. They rip the skins in two ways leaving the [hair] on some, which remains like a plush velvet and these serve for beds and cloaks in summer; they dress others without the hair and make them thin, to make tents of and other things for their use; and with these hides they traffic through all the land and gain their subsistence, and it is the general dress as well among Indians as Spaniards, who use it both for dress and to make sacks, tents, cuirasses, breeches and whatever offers. And although they kill so many every year, they not only do not decrease, but are more numerous every day, because they [crowd the plains] and they seem inexhaustible. These Indians [go] then to the neighboring provinces to trade and barter with these skins, where I cannot omit saying one thing, somewhat incredible, although ridiculous, and it is that when these Indians go to [trade and barter] whole rancherias go with their wives and children, living in tents made of these skins of Sibola, very thin and well dressed; and they carry the tents [loaded on teams] of dogs, harnessed with their little pack saddles, and the dogs are middle sized and they are accustomed to carry five hundred dogs on one [team], one after the other, and the people carry their merchandize packed up, which they exchange for cotton duck and the other things that they need.

This province of the Apaches Vaqueros, surrounds (as has been stated) the settlements of New Mexico for more than 150 leagues on its frontier, on the eastern part, and extends in the same direction more than a hundred, all this thickly studded with rancherias of the tents just described, and innumerable people; Our Lord has been pleased to have their conversion and pacification begun by the good treatment and kindness which the religious show them, in the missions nearest to them; and their chief captains having heard say that the Spaniards had in the city of Santa Fé the mother of God, meaning a large painting of the death of our Lady, which I had taken there and placed well adorned in a chapel, they came to see, and were greatly pleased and promised to become Christians, and their chief especially spoke with much devotion after his fashion. Then the devil seeing that he was in this way getting deprived of the empire that he enjoyed, employed one of his usual snares in his defence, taking as a means the avarice of our Spanish governor, who to make slaves that he could sell to New Spain, sent a valiant Indian captain, an enemy of that [faction], to bring him the [piegas] he could. This infernal minister decided to go to the rancheria of the chief who had promised our Lady to be a Christian with all his people, and fought with him, killing him and many of his people as he had many Indian warriors with him, and as this dead chief had around his neck a rosary that I had given him, he held it out asking him by it and by the Mother of God not to kill him, but it did not avail to make the tyrant forego his cruel resolve, and he took some captives to the governor, who although he did not wish to receive them, for the outcry that the deed caused, and wished to put his own emissary to death, his avarice was well known; this caused the whole province to rise, although (God be blessed) we are reducing it again, and the Indians now know who is in fault, and that God should be adored above all.

What has been said, will it seems to me, make known this Apache nation, who as has been said, surrounds the hundred leagues, which on the banks of the Rio del Norte are inhabited by the settlements of New Mexico, which are Teoas, Tanos, Hemes, Tioas, Piros, Tompiras and Queres. And on the outer border on the east and west and north and south it extends so far in parts that no end can be found. The climate is like what we have stated of our Christian settlements, extremely cold in winter and extremely hot in summer.

All possible exertion is made for their conversions, God knows when their hour will come.

MIRACULOUS CONVERSION OF THE XUMANA NATION.

Leaving then all this western part and starting from the city of Santa Fé, centre of New Mexico which is at 37° , crossing through the Apache nation of the Vaqueros, for more than 112 leagues to the east, you come to the Xumana nation whose conversion was so miraculous that it is just to state how it was. Years back as a religious named Frai Juan de la Salas was engaged in converting the Tompiras and Salineros Indians, where there are the greatest saltworks in the world, which at that point are on the confines of these Xumanas, a war broke out between them, and as Father Friar Juan de Salas was returning through the Salineros, the Xumanas said, that men that went back for the poor were good and so they became attached to the Father, and they asked him to go and live among them, and every year they came for him, and as he was so engaged with the Christians from his being [a linguist] and a very good minister, he kept entertaining the Xumanas, till God should send more laborers, as he did last year 1629, inspiring your Majesty to order the Viceroy of New Spain to send us thirty religious, whom he took, Father Friar Estevan de Perea being their custos, and so we immediately dispatched the said Father with another companion, Father Friar Diego Lopez whom the Indians themselves guided, and before they went, asking the Indians to tell us the reason why they had so earnestly solicited baptism from us, and religious to go and teach them? They replied that a woman like the one we had painted there (which was a picture of Mother Luisa de Carrion) preached to every one of them in their language, that they should come and invite the Fathers, to teach and baptize them, and that they should not be slothful [in doing so], and that the woman who preached to them was dressed neither more nor less than the one painted there, but that the face was not like hers, but that she was young and beautiful, and every time that any Indians came in anew from those nations, on looking at the picture and talking about it to each other, they said that the dress was the same, but the countenance not, because the face of the woman who preached to them was young and handsome.

The devil, enemy of souls, seeing that the religious were about to wrest from his claws the souls that he there enjoyed, tried to defend his ground, and he resorted to one of his usual acts of audacity, by drying up the lagunas of water which they drank, which caused the immense herds of Sibola which were there, and on which all these nations live, to migrate; and then by means of Indian sorcery, he uttered the voice that they should change post to seek food and that now the religious whom they had invited should not come, as they had not come in six years that they had expected them, and this time they were so long coming, that they should not wait for them, and so the Captains commanded the tents to be struck so as to go early next morning; and at daybreak the holy woman spoke to each one of them in private and told them not to go, that the religious whom they had sent for were near; and all conferring with each other, they sent twelve captains for greater satisfaction to see whether it was so, and on the third day they met the Religious, whom they asked to show them the picture of the woman that preached to them, and on the Father showing one of Mother Luisa de Carrion, they said that she was dressed like her, but that she was beautiful and young, and they at once went to announce to their people the coming of the Fathers and they went out to receive them in procession with two crosses in front, as men so well instructed by heaven; when the Fathers and the three soldiers who accompanied them had made an obeisance to these, the Fathers also took out their two crucifixes, which they wore around their necks and all came to kiss and venerate them, as if they were very old Christians, and they did the same to a very beautiful Infant Jesus that they had, putting with much devotion their lips and eyes to his feet, at which all our party were much amazed. Then when more than ten thousand souls had assembled in that field to hear the word of the Lord, Father Salas asked them whether they solicited baptism with all their heart. To which the Captains answered, that for this alone they had invited them, and for this they had gathered together. The Father told them, that although it is true that Captains speak for all, yet he would be glad to hear it from the mouth of each one; and as this could not be, they were so many, that whoever wished to be a Christian should raise up his arm where he stood and that he would know by this who wished to be one. Wonderful to tell! with a loud cry all raised their arms, rising to their feet, asking holy baptism, and what moved us most was that mothers who had nursing children in their arms, seeing them incapable of doing that action, took their little arms and held them up, asking holy baptism for them aloud. It is the power of the Divine Word which works with so much efficacy.

These religious were there some few days preaching the divine word and teaching the people how to pray, to which instructions they flocked so punctually, that they never failed morning or evening; and in these two days messengers came from the other neighboring nations, to invite them to go and teach them also, because that holy woman went preaching there also; and this harvest seeming great to these Fathers and the laborers few, and the people disposed to settle in towns, and build churches, they returned where we were to get tools for it. And before starting they gathered all the Indians to take leave of them and Father Salas, as commissary of that mission taking them by the hand told them that in the interval till he came, they should assemble every day as usual to pray there at a cross which he had set up there on a pedestal, and that in all their necessities that happened they should go in faith to that holy cross which would relieve them. To this the Chief Captain replied in these words: Father, as yet we can do nothing with God, for we are like deer and beasts of the field, and thou canst do much with God and with this holy cross, and we have many sick, cure them before thou goest, and it seems as if God permitted that at that moment there should be so many sick, on whom he might well employ his divine mercy, for it being three in the afternoon when they began, they had to continue all the afternoon, all night and all next day to ten, simply making the sign of the cross and saying the gospel of St Luke, Loquente Jesu, and the prayer of Our Lady, Concede nos and that of our Father St Francis, Deus qui ecclesiam tuam. They instantly arose from all their infirmities, the blind, the lame, the dropsical and men afflicted with all disorders. O infinite bounty, may the Angels bless thee, that thou thus deignest to honor this sacred Order and its sons, confirming thy divine words at its hand by so great miracles. Those religious and the soldiers who saw it were as it were, overwhelmed to see so many wonders wrought by his hands and the Indians so confirmed in the faith of the holy cross, that each one immediately put it on the front of his tent, and afterwards they took it as a guide every time they went out. So many were they that were there miraculously healed, that they could not be numbered; God working them so abundantly that the very soldiers who accompanied the religious, worked them, for all which be God infinitely blessed.

It may be readily inferred from the preceding what copious spiritual good our seraphic order has discovered throughout the world, and in this quarter it alone with such great toil and risk makes these great discoveries, since as has been said, in a single district of a hundred leagues, it has baptized over eighty thousand souls, and built more than fifty churches and very curious convents, and the Indians whom we have pacified and subjected to your Majesty in all the neighboring nations, exceed 500,000, and they are gradually being instructed for baptism. So that this land which till now has stood up for the devil and was peopled with idolatry without having any one to praise the most Holy Name of Jesus, is now all studded with churches and convents, and [pedestals] of the Cross, and there is not one but on saluting each other when they meet in the fields, praises God and his most holy Mother aloud; a merit in which your Majesty is so interested, since we are supported by his royal aid in these missions, and with his royal means we found churches to the Lord; wherefore I have great faith that as your Majesty so extends our holy Catholic faith, our Lord will reward you even in this life in the same coin, by extending your royal crown, subjecting so many enemies of the faith and manifesting such rich treasures of mines as we are now discovering.

KINGDOM OF QUIVIRA AND AIXAOS.

While these two Religious were working these wonders in the Xumana nation and in that of the Japies, Xabotoas and others that were adjacent, In omnem terram exivit sonus eorum, this voice also reached the kingdom of Quivira and that of the Aixaos, who were thirty or forty leagues off in the same easterly direction and they sent their ambassadors to the Fathers that they should go there too to instruct and baptize them: saying how the same holy woman went there also preaching to them, that they should come and invite them. As the religious were already on their way to return from whence they came and bring means to found the churches, they told them that they should go there also and bring more religious to attend them, and so the same ambassadors came with them, which told us all the sincerity with which they sought baptism, and they have doubtless entered already and begun to labor in the vineyard of the Lord.

I cannot omit to state on this occasion the special service that my order renders your Majesty by pacifying and converting this Kingdom of Quivira and Aixaos, since it is of known size and wealth. Now as the city of Santa Fé is at 37°, going thence 150 leagues east you come to this kingdom, it is therefore at the same altitude. We also know by evidence and eyesight that there is in this kingdom and the Aixaos, which bounds it, a very great quantity of gold and we every day see Indians from there, who trade with ours, and attest it and still more the Dutch and English, who on the side of Florida are near them and purchase gold ore of them in great quantities, which they thus carry to enrich their lands, and heretics enjoy the great wealth which the Catholic Church in the name of God granted to your majesty and with it make war on us: as is well attested by the Captain and great pilot, Vicente Gonçalez of the Portuguese nation, who went from Havana to examine the coast of Florida and entered that great river where the English are settled and entering inland he saw the Indians of Quivira and Aixaos with very large earrings and necklaces of gold, so soft that with their fingers they made of them what they pleased, the Indians averring that there was in their kingdom of Quivira and Aixaos, much of it, and so that your Majesty may enjoy all this it is proper at all events that this kingdom of Quivira and that of Aixaos be settled; and these Indians be made Christians and looking from this post of Quivira to that nearest to the sea which falls on the east, there is laid down on the sea charts a bay named Espiritu Santo at 29° between the cape of Apalache and the coast of Tampico which is the coast of the north of New Spain, within the [bay]. [Coming] then from this kingdom of Quivira to this [bay], it is not a hundred leagues, and thence to Havana you go in five or six days keeping along the coast. So that if this port or bay of Espiritu Santo is settled more than 800 leagues will be thus settled, being the distance from New Mexico to Havana, by the way of Mexico; which takes over a year to travel, 400 of them being through very dangerous warlike territory, where your Majesty spends much for escorts of soldiers and conveyances, and by the way of Espiritu Santo Bay all this is saved by 100 leagues journey, which it is from the kingdom of Quivira to this bay and the whole way peaceful through known and friendly people, who must by this time be converted and soliciting baptism, for in this state I left them last year. And also it being on this side so near Havana, they can easily avail themselves of the hides to be obtained from the herds of Sibola and their wool, for as it is a cattle that loses its hair, the wind blows together heaps of it in the fields, which goes to loss; and so of this kind as of many others that this land has; from hence they could easily in small vessels trade and traffic with all the coast of New Spain, Tampico, San Juan de Lua, Campeche, Havana and Florida; and all in sight of land, whereby these ports will increase and grow rich, by which your Majesty will profit greatly. Besides the fact that in that bay of Espiritu Santo and all that coast as far as Florida there are many pearls and much amber, and now all is lost, from its not being settled, and for this reason so many Dutch enemies go there robbing all the small vessels that cross the gulf, who, were the bay settled, would have no where to lurk. Now to carry from Mexico to New Mexico all the necessities that your Majesty sends to those Indies, they go five hundred leagues and more through war [like tribes] and then to reach Quivira they must travel 150 more, in which your Majesty expends more than the principal is worth, and all this is saved by sending it in a small vessel from Avana to Espiritu Santo Bay if it is settled.

HOLY OCCUPATION IN WHICH THE RELIGIOUS ARE ENGAGED.

From all the aforesaid it may be inferred how glorious are the toils and journeys of the religious of my Father St Francis in the service of God our Lord, since they have not only deprived the devil of the sway over those souls, that he so undisputedly enjoyed, but [by their] abolishing all idolatry and demon worship, [the natives] adore only the Lord and Creator of all things, and where nothing was to be seen but [hot houses] of idolatry, the whole land is now studded with very sumptuous and well built churches which the religious have erected and taken so much care with, that to make them so, they give up what your Majesty allows for their support and raiment. Their constant occupation is that of Martha and Mary, hastening like Martha to the active life, curing the sick and supporting the needy poor, planting for this purpose fields and raising flocks and with these breaking the ground for the Indians that do not live in towns and after having given them houses and whole towns and ploughed the land and sowed it for them, and given them all that was necessary for those first months, bring them to live there like men, where they teach them to say the Catechism and teach them good manners; and the boys also to read and write and sing, which is to praise the Lord to see in so short a time so many organ choirs; also all the arts and trades for civilised use, such as tailors, shoemakers, carpenters, black smiths and the rest, in which they are now very dexterous, and all depends on the solicitude and care of the religious, for should he fail, all this concert and all this civilized life in which they are instructed after our fashion, would cease. Nor do they fail to imitate Mary in the contemplative life, which is the monastic state which they have professed, since with so many exterior occupations of the holy sacraments, they do not give over from one town to another, for there is not a religious, but has in charge four or five pueblos, they live in such a way, that they seem to be in one community since matins never fail at midnight and the other hours and high mass in their time, and the convents with so much concert that they seem sanctuaries rather than the house of a single friar, and with all these continual occupations, fasts never fail down to the Lent of the Benditos and many other spiritual exercises, by which they edify both Spaniards and Indians, who respect them as Angels. I have wished to touch thus on this matter in passing, forbearing to say many other things, that I might; only that your Majesty may know the quality and virtue of his chaplains who with so much gratitude, love and good will, commend your Majesty to God in that remote corner and in that primitive church, where our Lord works so many wonders, and to which your Majesty should give all favor and aid as well by the obligation which the Church imposed on your Majesty in the Bull of Alexander VI. when it gave you in the name of God, these kingdoms for the simple care of supporting there our holy Catholic faith and the conversion of so many souls, as also for the many [mercies] that God our Lord there does your Majesty, by giving you so much wealth as we have discovered in the province of the Piros, as has been said, and in this kingdom of Quivira and Aixaos, and to enjoy all that monarchy it requires only to settle the ports, whence all this wealth is taken, and some one to profit by it; for it is certain that bars of silver will not come all cast from the mines, but they must be [costear i traer a casa], it is enough that our Lord God shows us before our eyes the rich mines and the ports by which we may enjoy them.

SOUTHERN COAST.

Having treated of all this land that we have pacified and converted to our Lord God and to your Majesty on this northern part, it is just that your Majesty know another treasure which has been kept for him more than seventy years and since it was discovered and seen, has been left till our Lord be pleased that its hour should come. It is seventy years since the Viceroy of New Spain Don Antonio de Mendoza sent Captain Alonzo Vazquez Coronado to discover the southern coast and four religious of my order went with him, and although to treat of these nations we might begin from New Mexico, going directly to the south or from the road of

New Mexico at the last town of New Spain, which is the valley of Santa Barbara, going westward, as it is all one contiguous land with New Mexico, and no other order has entered there but that of my Father St Francis, which at the price of their blood has spread the knowledge of our holy Catholic faith, supposing that to make this [journey], you are to begin not from New Mexico but from the city of Mexico, it seems to me most proper to begin it at that city and arrive at the province of Chiametla, Culucan and Sinaloa, which are fifty or sixty leagues from those of Xalisco, you meet these nations in the following order.

VALLEY OF SEÑORA.

I say then that leaving this province of Chiametla and proceeding eighty leagues north, bearing always near and coasting along the south sea you come and strike on the valley of Señora, which is seventy leagues long and ten broad, through the middle of which runs a very deep river, a land very fertile in grain and peopled with a great population. The first town is called the Town of Hearts (de los Corazones) from the number of deers' hearts that they presented there to our people: this town has 700 well arranged houses, and the climate of the country is very delightful.

AGASTAN.

Six leagues beyond this town in the same direction is another called Agastan, which is greater than the last, and around and through all this valley there are many towns, but the chief one, which is where the Cazique of this kingdom abides, is of 3000 very good and seemly houses, and in this as in the others they have their very handsome idolatrous temples and sepulchres, where the chief persons are interred.

SIBOLA.

Leaving then the last town of this valley of Señora, for the north again along the same coast of the South Sea forty or fifty leagues is the province of Sibola, and so too the chief city is called: which has in its vicinity seven other cities. The first has some 1000 houses, and the others many more, they are of stone and wood, and three or four stories high, very beautiful.

TIHUES.

After two more days' march in the same direction, you come to the province of Tihues, which contrasts very favorably with the last in the beauty and strength of the buildings. The first city going from Sibola which must be the chief town of this kingdom, is called Tihues. It has 4000 houses and more, all very large, in which lived from 10 to 15 families, very high corridors and terraces and very high towers: all this city communicates by [roofwalks] and terraces for [the passing people]. It was situated in a plain on the banks of a river, surrounded by walls of stone without lime, but with [white wash], and therefore the Spaniards were amazed at its beauty.

CITY.

There is another city a league and a half from that of Tihues, also on the banks of a river, of 3000 houses where the king keeps his women, a very handsome and strong square city, with houses of stone: it has three squares, the least being 100 paces broad and as many long. From these squares run streets so narrow as scarcely to hold two persons on horse back. All the houses have their corridors on the places like those of New Mexico and their [stoves] in them for winter and of these there are more than twenty very large, which argue well the number of people there. On the same bank of this river, half a league, two, three and four leagues are more than twenty other towns like this more and less strong and for a distance of sixty leagues that this river runs, to the sea, all is inhabited, and it is called Rio Bravo and is about a gun shot wide.

WONDERFUL ROCK.

Starting from Tihues westward and not north as up to this for a space of two days journey, is the strangest and strongest town that there can be in the world. It contains over two thousand houses so capacious that they say they contained over 7000 families and they even said more; it stands in some great plains, fifteen leagues [wide?] in the middle of which is a rock as high as the spire of the church of Seville, which seems to have more than a thousand [estados]. On the top of this rock it is all level for the space of a league, without any kind of tree or [ridge], on which the city is built; there and below in the plains they have their fields of maize and other crops. All this rock without is [precipitous], so smooth and straight that there is no way to ascend, except one road made by hand, so narrow that it holds only a single person and at intervals some cavities that in case two meet on the way they may pass there. On top they have very large cisterns and [receptacles] of water, which render it impregnable and wonderful in all.

TUZAYAN.

Following this same direction westward on the coast of the South Sea, 80 leagues from Tihues is the province of Tuzayan which has as many as 30 towns of good houses, although not like those mentioned.

CICUYO.

Turning northward from the city of Tihues, three or four days journey, is a plain which has six leagues, all full of tilled fields, amid pines that bear wonderful pineapples and other large and graceful trees. There is built a large and handsome city called in the language of that city Cycuyo, on a level ground, which must have more than 6000 very large houses of six and seven stories. It has two walls, one separated from the other of the height of two [estados], too strong for people that employ no artillery; it has its towers with their chapters well colored and handsome, it has three very large squares and in them many estufas and all the houses with their corridors on the squares and the streets narrow so that only two men on horseback can pass. It is a very handsome and strong town and so filled our people with wonder.

QUIVIRA.

Fifteen short days' journey from Tihues westward is the kingdom of Quivira where there are many and great towns, with houses of straw as in New Spain because the climate here is very temperate, and this nation builds its edifices with no greater pomp than is necessary for [its ordinary needs], and although we call this the South Sea, it is that of California, which runs from south to north till it comes out in the Strait of Anian.

To this point arrived Alonzo Vazquez Coronado and his people with our four religious and not to [embarrass] himself so much and with so few people and such short supplies and ammunition, he determined to return, being informed that on both sides there were very large and rich towns, and having left there sown the seed of the divine Word and the knowledge of our God and Lord as far as that brief time permitted, they returned to report to the Viceroy what they had seen, and so it remained till God was pleased that its hour should arrive and your Majesty enjoy that monarchy also. The divine Majesty is pleased to dispose of it all, so that all those souls may know and adore his most holy name and obtain the holy sacrament of Baptism, and to your Majesty, spirit, grace and strength to subject to your royal crown so many barbarous [people], that dwell there.

FRIAR ALONSO DE BENAVIDES.

This is the memorial which the said Father Fray Alonso de Venanedis [Benavides] drew up and compiled, as well of things experienced and seen by him in his time as of a juridical information and other authentic relations which the Commissary General of New Spain transmitted to me. By which memorial your Majesty will understand the great spiritual and temporal fruits wherewith our Lord God has been pleased to reward the Catholic zeal which your Majesty has shown in favoring those missions by his royal means, with so much profit to over 500,000 souls by the industry and care, and not without the immense labors of this seraphic order, who as well in these missions as in all the others of that New World, in the East and West Indies, have been the first who so disinterestedly [han puesto el ombro] and given a happy and fortunate commencement to such glorious enterprises. Wherefore I beseech your Majesty to be pleased to command once more that those missions be favored by sending to them and to all the provinces of my order, (which alone now in all America is engaged in new missions) religious from those of Spain, whence they always had their commencement and preservation, the harvest being so great and copious and the workmen there so few, that none of those provinces even that of the Holy Gospel can provide for them, because granting that this has the men who suffice for it, if they have to be such as can be well selected for these apostolic missions, it cannot give them to others without remaining in notable want and necessity of what is so important for its preservation, in the perfection and observance of their rule, and the fulfilment of their obligations; and hence the Father Commissary General of those provinces writes, that they are all in very urgent necessity of your Majesty's providing them with religious from here, to cultivate them, that seeing themselves favored by such protection and help, they may take courage and exert themselves to prosecute and carry on the many valuable services which in those parts they have rendered to both majesties.

FRIAR JUAN SANTANDER,
Commissary General of the Indies.

THE WHISKEY REBELLION OF 1794.

(From the original manuscript in the New York Public Library.)

PITTSBURG, August 29th 1794

DEAR SIR,

My errand here was a humane one, and without much hesitation might be pronounced one easily to be accomplished. It was to remove desperation from conscious guilt, to calm ruffled minds and to induce the inhabitants of four counties to consult their own happiness. It may be thought an easy task to convince men, that it is for their benefit not to be hanged, for the safety of their persons & property not only to obey but to support the laws made for securing both, and for their mental and corporeal comfort to cultivate and enjoy peace, order & tranquillity in their day & generation. The wiser & better sort required no arguments to convince them of all this, but the next class to them and those placed a grade still lower would at first scarce listen to anything of this import; their prejudices & passions had usurped the judgment-seat of reason, and for sometime almost induced a belief that they could not be governed by the arms of truth & persuasion, but by military coercion only. At length however, affability, moderation & perseverance, allowing the passion of fear its proper place, and compliments to the good sense & virtue of the persons conversed with, operated a change in several, and from being suspected, feared and considered as enemies we in a few days were freely spoken to, confided in, and treated as friends.

Our negotiation approaches towards a favorable issue. The proceedings of this day will probably nearly insure in these counties at least a passive obedience to the Excise Laws. At a convention of committees, composed of not less than three, nor exceeding five persons chosen by the inhabitants of every township (except four) within the counties of Westmorland, Washington, Fayette & Alleghany, at Parkinson's-ferry on the Monongahela the 14th instant, a committee of sixty, called a committee of safety, consisting of one member from each township, and another of twelve persons, stiled a committee of conference, were appointed. All matters have been amicably adjusted with the committee of conference, who were to make their report yesterday to the sixty at Fort Burd (now Brownsville); if it shall be adopted, the convention of committees, who met on the 14th will be assembled next week, and their sense taken upon it; should it meet with their approbation, as they are 226 in number it may be fairly considered as the voice of the people. Thus an Assembly originally convened for one (I will not say a bad) purpose, is likely to be converted to another and a very useful & good one.

In case a reconciliation & amnesty had not taken place, many (I believe a majority) of the people here threatened to become British subjects, to remove into the Indian country, or at all events to detach themselves from the laws of the Union, and be independent of any government except one to be formed by themselves. Indeed, their speeches & actions have been most extravagant; a frenzy seemed to be diffused thro' the country, the still voice of reason drowned and the wildest chimeras to have taken possession of men's minds. One might be led to think it was the work of magic, or owing to some physical cause.

Some are projecting a voluntary expedition against Sandusky and the six nations of Indians, and it is not unlikely to be an object for the consideration of the committee of sixty this day. It may be useful but I wish the people had first obtained the sanction of Government. Two thousand militia are proposed for this expedition, and to be marched from the four western counties of Pennsylvania, and Monongalia & Ohio counties in Virginia. It is best to find employment for restless minds.

No news from our army, excepting that General Scott's cavalry had joined it on the 28th last month.

You will receive a printed copy of the report of the committee of conference inclosed herewith.

We expect to hear the result of the proceedings at Browns-ville some time to-morrow, and if they shall accord with our wishes General Irvine and myself will probably leave this on Monday; until then we have nothing to communicate to the Governor. Please to pay my devoirs to the Governor and Mr Dallas, and also to all inquiring friends. Adieu.

I am, with sincere esteem, dear Sir,

Your most obedient servant

THOS M: KEAN.

JARED INGERSOLL ESQUIRE.

CHECK LIST OF WORKS ON LANDSCAPE GARDENING AND PARKS IN THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY

NOV. 1, 1899.

No magazine articles are included. Attention is called, however, to the entries in Poole's Index under Gardening, Gardens, Landscape Gardening and Parks. The section "Periodicals" does not include those on Horticulture which do not make "Landscape Gardening" a "feature." In the section "Flower Gardens" no books have been entered which deal solely with the culture of flowers and do not illustrate the art of landscape gardening in any way.

The arrangement is as follows:

PERIODICALS AND SOCIETIES. HISTORY; BIBLIOGRAPHY. GENERAL AND SYSTEMATIC TREATISES; ÆSTHETICS. COLLECTIONS; ESSAYS; MISCELLANEOUS. BUILDINGS; FENCES; BRIDGES; GATES; ETC.	GARDENS AND LANDSCAPE GARDENING IN SPECIAL PLACES; INDIVIDUAL GARDENS. PUBLIC PARKS; GENERAL AND MISCELLANEOUS WORKS. PUBLIC PARKS IN SPECIAL LOCALITIES; INDIVIDUAL PARKS.	NATIONAL AND STATE PARKS AND RESERVATIONS. CITIES AND TOWNS; STREETS. CEMETERIES. FLOWER GARDENS AND GARDENING.
